Assembly Action Ends

Hearnes Appears At Windup

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri's 1965 Legislature finished its action on bills one minute before midnight Wednesday night with passage of a final catch - all appropriation bill.

Both Houses earlier passed a Congressional Redistricting Bill designed to meet the federal courts "one man-one vote" decree.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes set a precedent by appearing before both Houses to thank them for their cooperation. He said the 1965 General Assembly would go down in history as one of the greatest sessions Missouri has ever seen. He told the Senate:

"I think you were truly magnificient and I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

Hearnes said in a statement that all 19 of his major recommendations had been passed. He called it a record for legislative cooperation.

But resting on the senate calendar at adjournment time was a Hearnes - sponsored bill to allow voters to approve general obligation bond issues by a 60 per cent instead of a two-thirds majority.

The Congressional Redistricting Bill, a last minute problem, left districts with a population variation of less than 10 per cent.

But some other legislators in both Houses objected to it vigorously. They said their areas had not been treated fairly and the districts did not meet the federa court's one man-one vote rule.

Efforts to filibuster the issue in the final hours failed.

The final omnibus or catch-all bill passed the Senate one minute before the automatic midnight adjournment deadline.

Earlier, the presiding officer, Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, ruled debate could proceed on the bill after midnight as long as it had been taken up before then.

In its final form, the bill carried an estimated $9,868,000 in general revenue - about $3 million more than the original figures but not counting $10 million in extra state aid for schools that was handled in another bill.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, Senate appropriations for the 1965-66 fiscal year to some $882,611,000. That compares with about $1.5 billion for the current two-year period ending today.

The governor recommended about $163 million for his one-year budget. New programs and the Legislature tacked on some more.

Patterson said the end result would be a working surplus of about $19 to $20 million - regarded by budget experts as a minimum.

The last minute omnibus bill included $170,000 for the new Council of The Arts, one of the Governor's few new programs, and $40,000 each for new four-year state colleges at Joplin and St. Joseph.

Left on the Senate calendar besides the Governor's "60 per cent bill" was one far down backed by Missouri bankers. It would have lowered the interest rates on state deposits at a cost to the state of about $1 million a year at current rates.

NEW MADRID -- Circuit Judge William L. Ragland has issued an order declaring final incorporation of public water supply district No. 1. The district in New Madrid county is comprised of South Lilbourn, Howardville, and the area between.

An election has been held to determine if the district should be formed. The vote was 192 to 0 in favor of it.

The first board of directors is composed of subdistrict 1 -- David E. Ragan, one year term; subdistrict 2 -- William B. Croy -- two years; subdistrict 3 -- Travis B. Howard, two years; subdistrict 4 -- Donand Schaffer, three years; and subdistrict 5 -- Willie B. Hamilton, three years.

Citizens of the district will vote on a $75,000 revenue bond issue to finance the system. This bond issue will be guaranteed 100 percent by the federal government through the Farmers Home Administration.

Tentative approval for this guarantee has been made by the FHA State Director of Missouri, Everett Jose, in Columbia, and is based on service agreements signed by a minimum of 125 customers. Bonds would be payable over 33 years.

Breath Test Bill Signed

JEFFERSON CITY AP--A bill to require suspected drunken drivers to take a chemical breath test was signed by Gov. Warren E. Hearns Wednesday.

It says a motorist gives his implied consent to such a test by driving on Missouri highways. If he refuses, he loses his driver's license for a year.

It was the key traffic measure recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and a special traffic safety committee. Two years ago it was defeated on the final night of the session by a filibuster.

Also signed was a bill to set up a new state Council on The Arts, one of the few new programs the Governor recommended. He allotted $250,000 to get it started but in the final appropriation bill this was trimmed to $170,000.

Wayne Added To District

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- A congressional re-districting plan passed by the state legislature last night adds Wayne County to the tenth congressional district.

The addition gives the district a population of 398,878, a gain of 17,276. Rep. Paul Jones, Kennett Democrat, now represents the district.

Want To Quiz Salesmen

Peace officers said today that they wanted to question two persons who told elderly women they represented an insurance company.

According to police reports the pair, a red headed woman and a younger red headed man, have collected two checks totaling $195.50 from two elderly women in Sikeston.

One of the checks for $96 was written by Mrs. Ella Albritton of 104 West Gladys. She said the two were neat and clean in appearance and had a smooth approach.

She believed that she was paying a six month premium on an accident insurance policy.

The other elderly woman, whose identity was not immediately available, gave the couple a check for $99.50.

Eddie Michael, acting sheriff for Scott county, reports that officers have been unable to locate the pair.

It is believed that they are traveling in a red automobile. The make and the model of the car is not known by officers.

Another increases the size of the Missouri House of Representatives from 163 to 168. It is geared to a bill passed by the Legislature setting the district boundary lines.

The third would let cities sell industrial plants built by the issuance of revenue bonds.

Group Will Police Senate

WASHINGTON AP -- In a sequel to the politically high-voltage Bobby Baker investigation, Senate leaders planned to activiate today a new permanent committee to police senatorial ethics.

Three senators of each party already have been chosen for the new watchdog committee on standards and conduct, created by the Senate a year ago. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said it was decided to hold up announcing them until the Baker probe was finished.

That came Wednesday, with a final report from the Rules Committee that said Baker had flagrantly abused his office to "feather his own nest." He served as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority. The report recommended careful consideration of the possibility of indicting Baker for violation of conflict of interest laws.

The committee's Republican minority renewed its charges of a Democratic cover - up and whitewash, saying the investigation was incomplete because of the refusal of Democrats to call numerous witnesses.

Baker resigned his Senate post Oct. 7, 1963, just before the investigation started.

Bootheel Crop Prospects Are Best In Years

By Leo Schade

Bootheel crop prospects are the best in years.

County extension directors predict that if rain continues to fall for another 30 days, as it has in the past two months, the corn, soybean and cotton crops will exceed the high production of 1963.

Crops in the four-county area of Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid and Stoddard have passed crucial moisture stages. With any appreciable future precipitation production can range from a more than normal to a bumper crop of the three principal crops.

Rainfall since the beginning of the year has been continuous and spread almost evenly each month, ranging from three and one-half to five and one-half inches per month.

The farmer too, has realized that he must know how to apply the moisture, and the extension service has supplied them with knowledge. It was only a few years ago, when the first hand-made moisture depletion method was introduced in this area. Today every farmer, who wants a productive crop, measures moisture depletion each day during the growing season.

The method is simple. A five-quart empty oil can be placed on a post four feet high, and filled to within two inches from the top. The gauging should not be started until after a good rain has soaked the ground well. Then the test is put to use. The amount of water in the soil corresponds to the amount of water in the can, and a daily measurement is taken, until the water level in the can has dropped as much as 1.3 inches.

The daily drop in the can averages from .14-inch to .24-inch. Safter the 1.3 inch drop has been reached, it is then time to begin a two-inch irrigation.

During the growing season a stalk of corn can grow from four to seven inches per day, requiring plenty of moisture. The type of land determines the amount of moisture needed. As an example the amount of moisture stored in a foot of sandy soil is .7-inch, for sandy loam 1.3, loams 1.8, silt loams 2.2, clay loam 1.9, and clay 1.8 inches.

The moisture storage for the upper 24 inches of soil is 3.60 inches, even if more than this amount of water is applied.

Farming in this area is rapidly changing. Knowledge gained in recent years accounts for increased production.

Foremost among improved conditions is irrigation of which there are three types. The most practical and most expensive is the surface type, now found on hundreds of farms. The second most popular is the 250-foot boom spray pouring out about one-half inch of water per hour over five acres with an 80-pound pressure, and second only to the surface type that sends a large quantity of water between plant rows.

The third and newest method is the volume gun spray, only a year old in this area. It costs about half as much as the boom type. It sends out about 700 gallons per minute from a small rig, with no more than one-fourth mile piping needed and covers about four acres at a time. There are 12 to 15 rigs in the area.

Accounting for the popularity of the spray type irrigation systems is the lower costs, which eliminates land leveling and large outlays for pipe.

WAIST HIGH IN MILO at Blodgett are the four Ben Marshall children, Franklin, Sally, Mary Beth and Ellen. The 160 acre field will be harvested for headed grain, which is used largely for the making of vodka. A product of the corn family, it brings about 90 per cent of the price of corn, with an average yield of 5,000 pounds to the acre. The stalks can be used to form a silage.

LOOKING OVER the cotton crop of 100 acres on the Babb and DeLine farm, route two, Charleston, are Mississippi Extension Agent Glenn Patton, right, extension agent and Don Savage.

Five students from the University of Vienna in Austria will arrive tonight to spend six weeks with Sikeston families.

According to Frank Ferrell, president of the SEMO chapter of People-to-People, Inc., the five -- three boys and two girls--are part of a 20-student group of Austrian students who will spend six weeks in the midwest.

Between the ages of 20-24, the students will work in the place of business operated by the head of the family with whom they are living.

Cold Air Assault

A massive cold air system which brought record low temperatures to the Midwest and New England loosed violent weather today along its advancing edge from the plains to South Carolina.

Tornadoes speared sections of Colorado, Oklahoma and southwest Missouri. Funnel clouds whirled over South Dakota and eastern Montana. Little damage was reported from these.

Heaviest rain on the front was reported at Myrtle Beach, S.C. —1.68 inches.

Flint, Mich., with a low temperature of 40 degrees, and Milwaukee, Wis., with 41, set all-time July cold marks.

The cold front broke a week-long string of 90-plus days in the norhtern gulf states area and parts of the Southeast.

U.S. Enters Sixth Year Of Red Ink Financing

WASHINGTON AP -- The government entered its sixth straight year of red-ink financing today but pointed with pride to a sharply reduced deficit in the fiscal year just ended.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler announced that the fiscal 1965 deficit, on which the books closed at midnight, was an estimated $3.5 billion That compared with President Johnson's January forecast of a $6.3 billion deficit.

The secretary foresaw a $4.2-billion deficit for the new fiscal year. That implies a $1.1-billion improvement since January. Some other officials predicted privately that this deficit, too, will be whittled down if the business boom continues.

Assurance that the boom will indeed continue was given by Fowler at a fiscal year-end news conference. Conditions are excellent, he said, for "sound, stable and sustainable economic health and expansion."

Fowler went on: "So far as the eye of economic foresight can see ahead, there is no indication of economic difficulty.

"It is still entirely possible to have a recession some time in the distant future; but our analysis of the economic situation reveals none of those imbalances or excesses that bring about economic downturns."

However, the fiscal outlook is not completely rosy. Government sources report that:

The $100-billion yearly spending level, avoided narrowly by Johnson for the past two years, undoubtedly will be crossed in fiscal 1967, the year which begins 12 months from today.

The Defense Department, which provided most of the budget cuts that made room for Johnson's new "Great Society" programs, is unlikely to find further substantial savings possible.

The 1967 budget, already in early stages of preparation, will show another deficit, the seventh in succession.

A balanced budget may be achieved in fiscal 1968.

Last week's cut in excise taxes, a bigger one than Johnson had proposed in January, will postpone the arrival of a balanced budget. But administration economists contend that its stimulative effects, like that of the great tax reduction of 1964, will underpin the national prosperity and make eventual surpluses more certain.

Duty Free Limit Lowered

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson has signed into law a compromise bill lowering to $100 retail value the amount of duty - free purchases that U. S. tourists can bring into the country from overseas.

But the new limit does not go into effect until Oct. 1. At present, tourists can bring in goods valued at $100 wholesale -- about $167 retail.

Kennedy Keeps Fit

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Robert F. Kennedy takes physical fitness in stride. He has no formula and no advice to the lazy.

"I don't do any pushups or anything like that," the New York Democrat said in a quickie interview.

He simply skis, swims, climbs a mountain, hikes, sails, skin dives, plays baseball, ice skates and throws a mean football around.

He's off Friday to shoot some rapids on the Yampa and Green Rivers in Colorado and Utah, taking his wife and at least five of their nine children. It's a typical vacation for Kennedy.

He is seldom not doing something.

Close Vote On Housing

WASHINGTON AP -- A housing bill containing a modified version of President Johnson's rent supplement plan headed for comparatively easy going in the Senate today after one of the closest votes in the House on any Johnson administration proposal.

The controversial portion of the $5.3 - billion measure - the provision for subsidizing rent of low income families - survived a 208-202 vote in the House Wednesday only after the Democrats handling it had drastically modified it from the original administration conception of a program for families above the actual needy level.

As the House finally passed it, on a 245-169 roll call vote, the bill closely resembles legislation already approved by the Senate Banking Committee. The Senate version carries a somewhat higher price tag, but estimates of the ultimate cost of a four year program embracing grants, loans and loan guarantees are imprecise.

Viet Cong Attacks Base

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong killed one American, destroyed three planes and damaged three others in a hit-and-run attack on the Da Nang air base today. But U.S. Air Force and Navy planes struck at North Viet Nam during the day without letup.

Bridges, barracks and radar installations were among the prime targets, and more propaganda leaflets were dropped over populated areas, a U.S. spokesman said. He said all planes returned safely.

More U.S. Marines landed in South Viet Nam, at the coastal city of Qui Nhon. A U.S. spokesman said between 400 and 500 were coming ashore from 7th Fleet ships and would provide security for the Qui Nhon area as well as "combat support for the republic of South Viet Nam's armed forces."

Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, is the fourth area to be defended by the Leathernecks. The others are the air bases at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, Chu Lai, miles south of Da Nang, and Phu Bai, 35 miles north of Da Nang.

In the central highlands 150 miles south of Da Nang, four Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a Communist ambush near Cheo Reo. But the Red guerrillas were driven off with heavy losses after a day of close-in fighting.

The unofficial total of American combat dead in Viet Nam totaled 445 since December, 1961.

Recently charm camps have been added for the benefit of what in a more genteel day were called wallflowers -- not under-achievers. Now the ads ask: "OVERWEIGHT? Have fun and reduce at Camp NO-CAL."

Americans will spent more than $2 billion in fees alone to send the kids to camp this summer. Another $250 million to $300 million -- $50 to $60 a child -- will go for apparel and camping equipment.

Miss Ellen Hempstone Bowman

Ellen Hempstone Bowman Is Washington D.C. Debutante

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Miss Ellen Hempstone Bowman was presented last Saturday to friends of three generations at a late afternoon reception and garden party given by her parents, Marine Corps Colonel and Mrs. John Webster Bowman, in their home in Washington, D. C.

The petite blue-eyed brunette received with her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. Smith Hempstone, both of whom made their debuts in Washington. Colonel Bowman is formerly of Sikeston and Miss Bowman is the granddaughter of Mr. and Lee Reed Bowman and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Austin Bowman, all of Sikeston. Her great - grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Floyd Cox and the late Judge and Mrs. W. C. Bowman, also all of Sikeston.

Miss Bowman's mother is the former Eleanor Noyes Hempstone of Washington and her maternal grandfather was the late Captain Smith Hempstone, U.S.N. Through her mother's family Miss Bowman is a seventh generation Washingtonian, a rarity in that transient city. Miss Bowman's great - grandfather was the late Theodore W. Noyes, for nearly fifty years editor of the Washington Star; and her great-great-grandfather was Crosby Stuart Noyes, the Star's first owner-editor.

For her debut, where a Hawaiian atmosphere prevailed, Miss Bowman wore a long white gown made of alternate rows of imported French lace and tucked organdy, accented at the waist by a pale blue sash of silk taffeta. She carried a bouquet of white orchids sent to her from Hawaii. Mrs. Bowman's long gown was of pale blue chiffon and Mrs. Hempstone wore taffeta brocade in a deeper blue.

Flaming luau torches at the front door gave the first indication of the Polynesian flavor of the party within, and the huge garden behind the house was circled with more of the burning torches. Especially flown in from the Islands were the many flowers used throughout the house and garden to create a Hawaiian decor. Dramatic arrangements of pink anthurium and white anthurium, lavender dendrobium orchids and white cattleya orchids were placed about the house and centered the dining room table where a buffet was spread.

Several hundred guests greeted the debutante at the far end of the living room, which was banked with baskets and vases of flowers sent by friends, and then passed on through the French doors to the garden. At the far end of the garden a quartet of Hawaiian musicians played and sang Island melodies throughout the evening. At one side of the garden a large native hut was the focal point of the decor while the other side was dominated by a six foot tiki (ancient Hawaiian idol) carved of hapu wood. Beautifully arranged mounds of fresh pineapples, bananas, papayas and coconuts were strategically placed about the fragrant leis of yellow plumeria were draped on the ivy-covered fences. The buffet tables were covered with either cloths of Hawaiian tapa design or blue and green fishnets, decorated with flowers, shells and driftwood.

Eight of Miss Bowman's contemporaries assisted at the party and were easily spotted by their triple - strand white leis of tiny, delicate pikake flower. Among these young ladies were her two cousins, Miss Joan Thompson and Miss Patricia McDowell, also debutantes of this season.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Johnson

Miss Myrna Gayle Maxwell Is June Bride Of John Johnson

Dogwood Methodist Church was the scene Friday, June twenty - fifth, of the wedding of Miss Myrna Gayle Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Maxwell of East Prairie, and John A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Johnson of Leachville, Ark.

The Reverend Harold O. Norton performed the double ring ceremony at eight o'clock in the evening before a setting of a large arched candelabra and tree candelabra enhanced with small pink flowers and fern and holding pale pink tapers. Standards of white gladioli and palm plants also decorated the altar of the church. Pews marked with pink bows and greenery completed the setting.

Mrs. Howard Schneider, organist, rendered the pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jim Bishop, vocalist, as she sang "Always," "The Wedding Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

The radiant bride was escorted down the white carpeted bridal aisle and given in marriage by her father. Her gown was fashioned of imported silk organza and imported Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice and long tapering sleeves were made of the Chantilly lace. The scalloped Sabrina neckline was re-embroidered with pearls and the back and sleeves were closed with tiny covered buttons.

The chapel - length gown had its own built-in crinoline which formed the unusual bell shaped silhouette. The skirt was caught up in back with soft folded organza. A godet like insert of Chantilly lace flowed gracefully to form the chapel train. The controlled skirt, touched with the beauty of lace, peeked out from the soft folds of organza in front.

The bride's headdress was an elegant queen's crown of lace covered petals outlined with pearls and touched with hand-cut crystals. A three tiered bouffant veil studded with pearls was attached to the crown.

The former Miss Maxwell carried a bouquet made of white carnations and lilies of the valley in the shape of a cross and centered with a white orchid. Trailing ivy enhanced the arrangement.

Mrs. Bob Maxwell of East Prairie, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Butch McHaney of Sikeston, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Paul Wildy of Leachville, Ark., sister of the groom and Mrs. Ronnie Kennett of Leachville, Ark., sister of the groom.

The attendants were dressed alike in floor - length sheath gowns of cherry colored silk chiffon over taffeta. The bodices featured a new empire waistline and a deep renaissance neckline. The sleeves were long sheer chiffon. The back was set off with a floating panel of chiffon and a soft tailored bow.

They wore clusters of organza petals and orange blossoms for their headpieces. Four tiered nose tip veils of dyed - to-match maline was attached to the headpieces. Their flowers were cascade bouquets of pink and white with trailing English ivy.

Miss Phyllis Duke of East Prairie was flower girl. She was gowned in a dress styled identical to the attendants'. She wore a band of white orange blossoms with a nose tip veil of maline. She carried a white basket trimmed in pink and filled with pompoms.

The candlelighters were Miss Paulette Powers of East Prairie and Mrs. David Renaud of Charleston.

V. S. Johnson of Leachville, Ark., served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Larry Johnson of Leachville, Ark., cousin of the groom; Bob Maxwell of East Prairie, cousin of the bride and Butch McHaney of Sikeston, cousin of the bride.

Ushers were Jerry Maxwell of East Prairie, brother of the bride; Bill Maxwell of East Prairie, cousin of the bride; Paul Wildy of Leachville, Ark., brother-in-law of the groom and Allen Monroe of Brinkley, Ark., college roomate of the groom.

Ringbearer was Joe French, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene French of New Madrid. He is a cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Maxwell chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue lace dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Johnson wore a pink silk dress with matching accessories.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining hall. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with pink netting gathered at three points and fastened with bows. A four tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the table. A silver punch bowl appointed either side of the cake. Silver candelabras holding pink tapers graced the table. Nuts and mints were served from silver compotes.

Mrs. Rebecca Sharp was in charge of the reception. Mrs. Marilyn Jackson, Miss Pat Master and Mrs. Don Ashley served at the reception. Mrs. Bill Maxwell presided at the guest register.

Miss Ellen Lingle and Miss Carol McMikle, both of East Prairie, gave rice bags to the guests.

WEDDING TRIP

The newlywed couple took a wedding trip to the South. For traveling, the new Mrs. Johnson wore a navy blue and white knit suit which she complemented with white accessories.

The couple is now at home at Route 3, Leachville, Ark. Mrs. Johnson was formerly employed at Citizens Bank of Charleston. Mr. Johnson is engaged in farming.

The groom's parents entertained Thursday, June 24, with a rehearsal dinner at the Holiday Inn. Thirty - two persons attended the dinner.

Cards Down Bucs 7-1, Washburn Wins

The Athletics, getting excellent performances from their relief hurlers, swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night, 2-1 and 4-3, in Kansas City.

The St. Louis Cardinals got back on the winning trail last night, crushing Pittsburgh, 7-1.

The A's scored twice in the first inning of the opener. Ed Charles drove Bert Campaneris home with a sacrifice fly and Mike Hershberger singled to score Jim Landis.

Kansas City held the 2-0 advantage until the ninth when Bill Skowron doubled and scored on a single by Danny Cater off reliever Don Mossi. But the Athletics' John Wyatt came out of the bullpen and retired the next three batters in order.

The A's also scored in the first inning of the nightcap. Campaneris singled. He stole second for his 26th steal of the season and scored on a throwing error by J. C. Martin.

Chicago came back, scoring single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth to take a 3-1 lead.

Rookie Larry Stahl pulled the A's into a 3-3 tie when he tagged Sox pitcher Bruce Howard for a 2-run homer in the seventh.

In the last of the ninth, Charles singled, and after two walks, scored when Campaneris was hit by a pitch.

Fred Talbot won his sixth game of the season in the opener. He has four losses. The loser was Gary Peters, now 5- and -6, who lost to the Athletics for the first time in his career.

In the nightcap, reliever Jim Dickson was credited with the win, evening his season's record at 1-1.

The A's take today off.

The Pirates scored their only run in the first inning against the Cards at Pittsburgh. Bill Virdon walked, Roberto Clement doubled and Virdon scored on an infield out.

St. Louis took over the lead in the fifth when Bill White and Ken Boyer singled and Curt Flood doubled. Tim McCarver then was intentionally walked, loading the bases, and when third basemen Bob Bailey threw to first too late on Jerry Buchek's grounder, Boyer scored the go-ahead run on the error.

The Cards put the game on ice in the eighth, scoring five runs on six singles and two walks-one an intentional pass.

Vern Law, now 8-6, allowed only four hits in eight innings, but had his winning streak snapped at eight straight. Ray Washburn picked up the victory for St. Louis, evening his record at 5-5.

Curt Simmons 4-8 starts for the Cardinals tonight at Pittsburgh. Bob Veale 8-5 will pitch for the Pirates.

Lewis Furniture Wins Over Kiwanis In 10 Inning Duel

Last night, in an American League make up game, Lewis Furniture eased by Kiwanis 4 to 3, in 10 innings.

It was strictly a pitching affair, as both teams had two fine little pitchers, who faired well under the nights action. Schatzley started on the hill for Lewis, he left the game with the score tied at 3 all in the sixth inning. Schatzley had given up only three hits in the contest. He was relieved by Corrigan, who hurled the last four innings. Corrigan gave up 1 hit, in 4 inning pitch and allowing no runs. Corrigan was the winning pitcher, as he and Schatzley combined to throw a 4 hitter at the Kiwanis team.

For Kiwanis, Miller pitched the first 6 innings, gave up only 3 runs, on 3 hits and was relieved by Collins. Collins was the losing pitcher, although he allowed only one run, on one hit, in 4 innings of brilliant relief pitching.

Vines and Schatzley got two hits each, to pace the Lewis Furniture team in the hitting department.

Collins, Hosey, Leible and Adams all had one hit to lead Kiwanis.

Security Edges Police Canvas Bombs First National

Two games were completed in the American League at Farris Field last night. The first game of the evening went a complete nine innings and the second was only necessary to go five.

In the first game, Security Federal squeezed to a victory over the strong hitting Police, with two runs in the ninth frame of the contest to break the five to five tie which lasted for the four previous frames. The first frame began with a two to one lead for Security. In the second, they grabbed another run to total it to three to one. Police began to move in the third to collect three runs; however, Security also pounded two runs across the plate to bring the score to five to four. Security did not score until the top of the nineth when they broke the tie with their two winning runs. In the fourth Police tied the game up with another run scored off their two hits of that frame.

Winning Security, however, only produced three hits compared to their opponents seven.

Nelson was credited with the win with Overby and Porter handing him aid. Nelson, with his help, gave up seven runs and five hits. Terrell, after relieving Davis in the fifth, took the loss for the law enforcers.

Nelson, while pitching a good game, pounded two singles in the seventh and the nineth to help drive in their two final runs. Gooch contributed the only other hit for the winners. Moore and Terrell each had two for four in their battle with Security.

The second game of the night in the Little League action was the exact opposite of the previous game. Canvas Products tromped over First National as they tripled their score in only five innings. The final score after five complete frames of play was Canvas 15 and First National five.

The score was tied, two to two in the first and also tied in the second three to three. However, in the third, First National decided to cut off the tie and put another run on the scoreboard for their team. That brought the score to five to four in favor of First National.

First National did not score again. However, Canvas Products grabbed their magic wand and banged nine hits to push around their baserunners to the plate to score ten times. In the fifth, Canvas went on to add one more run to their books.

McDowell, with aid from Sipult in the fourth, took the victory for the strong hitting Canvas Products. Lingle, who pitched three innings, took the loss for First National. Ensor and Montgomery both helped Lingle in the fatal attempt to beat Canvas. McDowell, with his help, allowed First National only four hits to bring in their five runs. Also with help, Lingle let Canvas score 15 times on 11 hits.

Shaw pounded two singles for First National, and Stewart, Sipult, Jackson, and McDowell, all had two hits for Canvas.

Sports TALK
By DON SAVAGE

One of Sikeston's foremost fishermen, Sonny Campbell, resident of Wakefield Street in our city, has recently had a story written about him in the July issue of Sports Afield.

The story done by famed writer Robert E. Price tells of the tragedy that may often face a fisherman in the southern part of the United States due to the excess growth of moss that takes control in our lakes.

Sonny, master fisherman, has taken advantage of this situation and turned a minus into a plus, with his excellent fishing techniques and lures. All this adds up to some excellent fishing tips and makes man the master over the large mouth bass, regardless of the season. The article is entitled "Foraging for Dog-Day Bass" and I highly recommend it for its excellent content.

Sonny took Mr. Price on a fishing trip to Duck Creek. This took place last summer and the moss had climbed near the surface of the water and made fishing near impossible, or so thought Mr. Price. With Sonny's fishing skill and a lure called, "The Moss King", the hot, humid day was turned into a fisherman's dream, with some fine large mouth bass being caught by the two fishermen.

The Moss King is the answer to fishing in heavy moss. This has been a handicap to many fishermen, but it can now be overcome with this excellent lure. To add even more class to the article for Sikeston, the Moss King is made right in our own town. It is manufactured by the Skipper Bait Company, a small but growing concern in our city. The lure is designed to be fished in moss and weeds. It will crawl over logs, limbs and brush without snagging. You can retrieve it fast or slow and it will remain on the surface. It was designed by a New Madrid man and is patented.

Chamberlain May Turn Fighter

NEW YORK AP -- Can you imagine big Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 pro basketball star, as a heavyweight fighter?

Maybe it isn't as fantastic as it sounds. Chamberlain isn't as frail as he appears at first glance. He is a 28-year-old, sturdy 250-pounder who has held his own in many a rumpus in National Basketball Association games.

Chamberlain said Wednesday he "definitely is contemplating" switching from sinking a basket to socking an opponent. "I've had several offers, but I haven't made up my mind. I'll make my decision when I'm ready. That could be anytime."

Jazy Sets World Mark In 5,000 Meters

HELSINKI, Finland AP -- Rampaging Michel Jazy of France, breaking world records at a fantastic clip, may go after his second gold medal in as many days in the World Games today.

Jazy, who broke two European records in winning the 5,000-meter run Wednesday, is tentatively scheduled to go in the 1,500 meters today against a field that includes Jim Grelle and Dyrol Burleson of Oregon.

The 29-year-old Frenchman finished the 5,000 meters in 13:27.6, breaking his own pending European mark and beating Australia's Ron Clarke, the world record holder at the distance, and two American Olympic gold medal winners.

Clarke, who has the pending world mark of 13:25.8, finished third behind Kenya's Keine Kipchonge. U. S. Marine Billy Mills of Oceanside, Calif., the Olympic 10,000 - meter champion, was eighth and Bob Schul of West Milton, Ohio, the 5,000-meter Olympic winner, was 10th.

En route, Jazy also broke his own European mark for three miles, hitting that distance in 13:04.8.

CHICAGO AP -- Champagne Tony Lema, the big name in the $70,000 Western Open golf tournament starting today, can take the British Open or leave it alone.

That's news, because Lema is defending champion in the British Open next week at Southport, England.

The Western Open at Tam O'Shanter Country Club ends Saturday.

"I'm not too crazy about playing golf in England," said Lema without elaboration, except to hint he is most interested in playing any tournament for what it's worth.

"After you win a certain amount of money in golf," continued Lema -- second in the PGA money-winning list, "it seems to become a matter of 'how many major tournaments you have won.'

"I've only won the British Open as a big one and I'm in this business to make money.

"They (Western Golf Association) weren't getting too many of the top money-winners and I'm one -- even if I'm not a big draw. I also don't think I can afford to pass up a tournament like this one to practice all week for another."

Skipping the Western Open are such top attractions as newly - crowned U. S. Open champion Gary Player; leading PGA money-winner Jack Nicklaus; and slumping star Arnie Palmer--all making the British Open their next stop.

Lema won last year's British Open at St. Andrews after only 36 holes of practice, flying to England, as he will do again Sunday, after the Western Open finish.

Lema last year tied for sixth in the Western, which was won by Chi Chi Rodriguez with a record-breaking 268, 16 under par.

Rodrigeuz and Lema head a field of 130 pros, including eight of the top 15 PGA money winners. The field will be cut to the low 75 scorers and ties after 36 holes and to the low 60s and ties after 54 holes.

Canadian Chuvalo Wants Shot At Clay

REGINA AP--George Chuvalo of Toronto, Canadian heavyweight champion, knocked out Dave Bailey of Philadelphia in 38 seconds of the third round of a scheduled 12-round boxing bout Wednesday night.

Chuvalo, who weighed 212, concentrated on a punishing body attack for the first two rounds, then charged from his corner in the third. He knocked Bailey, 214 1/2, across the ring with a wicked right. Another right hand dropped Bailey, a sparring partner of world champion Cassius Clay.

Chuvalo hoped to use a victory against the seasoned Philadelphia veteran as a stepping stone to a title match with Clay.

Bell City Olivers Take 13 Inning Win From Kelso

Bell City spurred by a 13th inning home run by James Kinder, won a tough one, from Kelso 4 to 2.

Kinder came off the bench as a pinch-hitter in the 13th inning, to keep the Olivers undefeated in the New Hamburg Softball Tournament.

Johnny Watkins, ace pitcher for the Olivers was superb, allowing only 5 hits, in the contest. Watkins was the winning pitcher.

Charles Drew was the big man with the stick for Bell City. Drew blasted out three hits in the game. He hit a home run, a double and a single, for quite a night's work.

Bell City, Kelso and New Hamburg are the only teams left in the 14 team double-elimination Tournament. Kelso and New Hamburg have lost one contest each, Bell City's Olivers are undefeated. Kelso and New Hamburg meet with the winner having to make a two-game sweep of the tough Bell City team, to take the championship.

Hodge Leads In AAU Decathlon

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. AP--Husky Russ Hodge of the Santa Clara, Calif., Youth Village took a slender lead Wednesday night with a total score of 4,147 points after the first five events of the National AAU decathlon championship.

The 25-year-old, 225-pound Hodge goes into the final five events Thursday night ahead of his teammate Bill Toomey, a 26-year-old school-teacher from Laguna Beach, Calif. Toomey scored 4,070.

The two are favored to land the two positions on the U. S. team which meets Russia July 31-Aug. 1 in the dual meet between the two countries.

Don Shy of the Long Beach, Calif., 49ers was third with 3,873 points.

Pastor's Son To Germany

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. — Jimmy Chastain, a 17-year-old high school senior here, and son of the Rev. L. J. Chastain, former pastor of the Miner Baptist Church, and Mrs. Chastain, left New York Friday for Varel, Germany, as an exchange student through the American Field Service. He will spend the summer with the John Schutte family in the northern German city near the North Sea. Mr. Schutte is a Baptist, and his wife and children speak some English.

The city of Varel has a population of 13,000, and is located near Denmark. The Schuttes have two children, and both have studied English in school. Their father is an engineer.

The young Texan hopes to gain a better understanding of his foreign hosts.

His future plans include pre-law study or to enter the field of radio-television. He is interested in debating. Speech is his subject.

Cotton Chopping And Wheat Harvest Near End

KENNETT -- The first cotton chopping of the 1965 season and the current wheat harvest is nearing completion in Southeast Missouri, according to the latest farm labor bulletin issued by the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

In the Dunklin County area the wheat harvest has been completed. Late soybean planting is about finished and cotton chopping and the labor supply are in balance. Harvest of potatoes is in progress in the vicinity of Malden where farmers are experimenting with the growing of Irish potatoes for the market.

The supply and demand for cotton choppers in the Caruthersville region is now in balance. Crops are looking good in this section and the wheat harvest is progressing satisfactorily.

Scott County farmers report that the first cotton chopping there is nearly finished after ideal chopping weather last week. Wages have been steady and good for laborers in that area.

The Farm Labor Information Station and Rest Camp near Sikeston served 253 migrants last week. Arkansas was the next destination for 13 while 25 were going to Indiana, 164 were enroute to Michigan, 42 to Ohio and nine were to work in Wisconsin.

Chase Staging Return

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The chase: Mack Sennett invented it, Mike Todd polished it, and movie makers are now employing it to fashion road-show attractions.

Road shows — reserved-seat attractions at advanced prices — have stemmed from historical epics, "Cleopatra," "How the West Was Won"; hit musicals, "West Side Story," "My Fair Lady," "The Sound of Music," and religious pageants, "The 10 Commandments," "Ben-Hur," "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

With the supply of such subjects dwindling, studios have turned to the original story material based on the chase. Mike Todd employed the device with excellent returns for his "Around the World in 80 Days." Stanley Kramer gave it a comic twist with "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

This season has brought three road-show films which fill the screen with kinetic activity. The first was "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," which appears to be safely in the hit category.

Now come "The Great Race" and "The Hallelujah Trail."

"The Great Race" will be compared with "Magnificent Men," since both concern speed duels in the early 1900s. But they are successful in different ways. The airplane epic is basically English in its humor; "The Great Race" is American: boisterous, uninhibited, often outrageously funny.

Director Blake Edwards has employed $11 million of the Warner Bros. treasury and imagination in pursuing laughs for the film. Not all the gags score, and the pace sometimes seems almost too frenetic for human endurance. But interest never flags.

The leading figures are stereotypes— the demonic Professor Fate, attired in villainous black; the white-garbed Great Leslie; the newspaper woman-suffragette who tags along on their fanciful auto race from New York to Paris—they cross the Bering Strait via iceberg.

Fortunately, Edwards was able to secure the services of stars who could breathe life into these characters. Jack Lemmon creates a monumental villain, perhaps the best since Mack Swain menaced Charlie Chaplin. Tony Curtis lends style to the hero, and Natalie Wood is just dandy as the female interest.

"The Hallelujah Trail" attempts to satirize the Western, always a risky business. It succeeds only in part, providing moments of hilarity and occasional bellylaughs. But the story seems drawn out beyond its proper length, like a joke too long in the telling.

The situation is presented in mock-historic style: a wagon train of whisky is dispatched for the aid of Denver miners who face the peril of a parched winter. Converging on the train are opposing forces: a band of thirsty redskins; a hell-bent bunch of anti-liquor ladies; a cavalry force aimed at keeping the peace. They meet in a bloodless dust-storm battle that is the film's most inspired sequence.

The performers are led by Burt Lancaster and Lee Remick.

THERE IS A watermelon crop on the Jasper Miller farm, route two, Charleston. Glenn Patton, Mississippi county extension agent, raises two melons from the ground, to show their size. There are two varieties in the field, the Charleston Grey as shown and the seedless variety.

Brechtel Hunted By FBI

WASHINGTON — Theodore Matthew Brechtel, a convicted armed robber, who has reportedly vowed not to be taken alive and jumped from a second-story window to avoid trial on a federal charge of possessing a sawed-off shotgun, has been added to the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives.

On May 7, 1964, Brechtel escaped through a second floor bathroom window of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in New Orleans, where he was awaiting an X-ray examination while a federal prisoner charged with possession of a sawed-off shotgun. At the time of this flight, he was on parole from a prison sentence for armed robbery and is being sought based on a federal warrant issued at New Orleans, charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid confinement after conviction for armed robbery.

Since his escape, Brechtel, allegedly accompanied by his paramour, has been suspected of participation in numerous armed holdups and bank robberies.

His criminal record began in New Orleans, in 1956, when he was convicted of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 years' confinement which he began serving at the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola. After being released on parole, Brechtel was arrested in New Orleans in September, 1960, and, upon conviction of possession of stolen property, was sentenced to seven years' confinement at Angola, in addition to completing the balance of the original armed robbery term.

Released on parole again, he was subsequently arrested in Gretna and New Orleans, La., on charges of resisting arrest, investigation of parole violation, robbery and investigation of attempted murder, but was not prosecuted on any of these charges.

In December, 1963, he was charged by federal authorities with possession of a sawed-off shotgun in violation of the National Firearms Act and was being held in Federal custody at the time of his escape on May 7, 1964.

Brechtel, a white American who was born at New Orleans, Louisiana, on July 2, 1938, is 5 feet 10 ½ inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, has a slender build, medium complexion, blue eyes and light brown hair, which may be dyed black. He has a scar on his forehead, a cut scar on the left side of his face, two operation scars on the abdomen, a scar on the right wrist and one at the base of his right index finger. The name "Ted" is tattooed on his right arm and the name "Nat" is tattooed on his left arm. He has previously worked as a body and fender repairman, salesman and typist, is reportedly a neat dresser and may wear hornrimmed glasses or contact lenses.

He is known as an avid sports fan, has actively participated in prison track and field events and is a swift runner.

This fugitive is said to have a violent temper, escaped confinement while awaiting trial for possession of a sawed-off shotgun, may be armed with hand guns and a shotgun and has reportedly vowed not to be taken alive. He should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should any person receive information concerning his whereabouts he is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

During training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., we were instructed that when questioned by an officer we should respond with "Yes, sir," "No, sir" or "No excuse, sir." One day a base officer inspected the unit. Stopping before a recruit, he asked him if he liked the Army.

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

The officer asked why.

"No excuse, sir," shot back the young recruit. — Paul Bunn

Don't Get Tired At Wheel

ST. LOUIS — Driver fatigue will be a major ingredient in hundreds of serious accidents over the three-day Fourth of July holiday, warns the Automobile Club of Missouri.

Frequent stops, especially on the return trip home when the fatigue takes its toll in driver alertness, will prevent many potential accidents. Because traffic will be unusually heavy, allow extra time for the return trip, the Auto Club pointed out, and start home early.

A good driver does not drive until he feels his hands are part of the steering wheel. He doesn't attempt to set any personal mileage speed records.

The Auto Club also advised motorists to keep an eye on the speedometer, especially when driving on a divided, high-speed highway. After long hours of driving, motorists sometimes tend to get the illusion that the car is going slower than it really is.

The Auto Club also offered these tips to Fourth of July motorists: Be a defensive driver. The other guy might have had a bad weekend. Don't drive as if YOU own the road. Many serious accidents can be avoided by staying alert and always looking for a "way out" of a potential accident.

Be extremely careful about night driving speeds. More than 56 per cent of all traffic deaths occur between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. despite the fact that far fewer miles are driven during the period. Never drive ahead of your headlights. In other words, always be able to stop within the "seeing" distance of the headlights.

Finally, the Auto Club issued a strong warning against "tailgating", or following too closely. This is a dangerous and somewhat common practice in heavy traffic periods and should be avoided. Allow at least one car length for every ten miles-per-hour of speed of between cars.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

Government Ownership

THE recent call of railway labor for nationalization of railroads is not surprising. Unconscionable featherbedding, that is, payment for work not done, is largely responsible for the plight of the railroads. Men are frequently paid a full day's wages for an hour or two of work, sometimes for no work.

Dr. Kershner

This practice is believed to cost the railroads about one-half billion dollars a year. Unions have demanded and got more than the traffic will bear. Among other things this has destroyed about three-quarters of the jobs formerly offered by the railroad industry, and has bankrupted many of the railroads.

Government regulations and excessive taxation have also been important factors in this unfortunate situation.

Railway labor leadership no doubt feels that, if the roads are nationalized, the deficits arising from their demands would be paid out of general tax revenue, regardless of the fact that the railroads would be operated at a loss. The American people should be informed regarding the probable outcome of railway nationalization.

France has 122 government managed industries, and most of them are losing money.

A recent French government report shows that French railroads lost 20 million dollars in 1964. The Paris airport lost 6 million dollars the same year. The government gas company lost 7 million dollars. The bus and subway system of Paris and the government managed electric company all suffer from a huge debt. During the very same period covered by this report, the private industry of France was booming.

The French government commission which released this report found that, in general, companies run by the government were suffering from an over-supply of "deadwood" in high positions. Too many unnecessary executives eat up the available payroll without contributing enough to their industry to offset their wages.

Those who advocate more and more government ownership, management, or control of American industries should give careful thought to the failures of the French government and other governments in this area. It is consistently true that private industry is more efficient and more productive than socialized industry.

SEN. EDWARD V. LONG of Missouri and his group view the undersea vacationland scene in the General Motors Futurama "ride into tomorrow" at the New York World's Fair. July Should Be Lively

NEW YORK — July should be livelier this time than customary for the usually take-it-easy month. Factories will be busier. Fewer will be closing down for long vacations. In slacker years these often are prolonged for maintenance, repair and other reasons.

A lot of the bustle in the coming month will be due to concern over what may happen in the steel labor negotiations. But a lot will be due to the generally faster economic pace this year than last.

The business upswing is now in its 53rd month, with slowdowns more talked about than apparent as yet.

The stock market provided the most excitement in June. But the long downturn in prices appears to have changed few business plans.

Steel mills report orders on hand will keep them turning out metal at a faster clip than previous Julys.

Customers will be stockpiling some of it as a hedge against the threat of a steel strike Sept. 1. But manufacturers will be using up a lot of the steel to meet their own big backlog of orders.

Many expect the steel labor situation to jell this month. Labor's demands should become clear — and also, how far management will go in meeting them. At stake: A strike, an expensive settlement that could mean price increases, or a settlement within the gains in productivity so that the price line can be held.

Concern over the steel situation is reported to be affecting some of the auto industry's plans. One result is to make for a lively July. Shutdowns for model changeovers may come a bit later this year, while the industry piles up a stock of cars in dealers' hands to tide them over in case a steel strike hampered production in the early fall.

Many business firms report confidence that profits will continue to rise during July and the rest of the third quarter. Corporate earning hit a record pace in the first three months of the year. The total apparently rose again in the last three months, although probably at a slower rate.

Unless unexpected events in July deal blows to business and consumer confidence, better than seasonal activity should keep the comparative profit figures on the pleasant side.

One activity that seems sure to have a fresh record in the bag is vacation and travel spending.

Americans are taking longer vacations, longer trips, and spending more on their way and after they get there. Benefitting are the resorts themselves, transportation companies, gas stations, motels, sellers of recreation gear. The last can range all the way from swimming suits to cabin cruisers, mountain climbing outfits to seashore cottages.

A lot of other places besides Wall Street are going to be busier than ever this July.

Ford To Appear At Fair

"The Old Pea Picker" in person, Tennessee Ernie Ford, will make his first personal appearance in Memphis during the 1965 Mid-South Fair as one of the outstanding attractions booked into the new $5-million Mid - South Coliseum. The Tennessee Ernie Ford

Ernie Ford

Show, with an all-star cast of television performers, is scheduled for a 3-day run starting on September 30.

The World's Championship Rodeo, featuring Michael Landon, "Little Joe" of the top-rated television series, "Bonanza" will open the Fair on September 24. Appearing with the Rodeo will be the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Musical Ride, making their first tour of southern states. The Lawrence Welk Show with the entire television cast will move into the Coliseum on September 28 and 29 for four performances.

The Mid - South Fair opens on Friday, September 24, and runs through October 2. Many free attractions will be offered to the Fairgoers. Among the unusual features this year will be the "Pork Chop Review" starring a troop of trained pigs; a Gay 90's Village with a line of can-can girls performing hourly; the Gil Gray Circus under the big top with 12 big acts gathered from all over the world; and a complete Roller Skating Fantasy with a cast of 45 skaters.

Mid-South Fair officials announce that another new feature of the 1965 Fair will be the Mid-South Square Dance Spectacular with hundreds of dancers from throughout the Mid-South participating. They will perform each night throughout the 9-day period of the Fair.

Other free attractions to be on view at the Mid-South Fair this year will be a tremendous youth talent contest, and the "Fairest of the Fair" contest with 50 of the Mid-South's most beautiful girls competing for the title and prizes.

Two of the most popular features of last year's Fair will be repeated this year; the Memphis Police Department dogs will go through their routines twice each day and the Memphis Fire Department Band will be on hand daily with their lively music. Each night high school bands will march on the Fairgrounds leading parades of the Royal Canadian Mounties on their magnificent horses. Animals and circus wagons from the Gil Gray Circus will add glamour and color to these nightly parades.

Noticing how expertly the man made his way to a seat in the club car in spite of the lurching train, I complimented him. "I do pretty well for an amputee," he said cheerfully. Then he told me his story.

The loss of his leg in the Korean War had made him bitter, he said, since it meant he probably would not be able to do what he wanted most — to be a salesman. Eventually he got his new leg, learned to walk with the aid of a cane and started out for his first job interview.

When he got to the building, he was so nervous that he went into the men's lounge to calm down. There, in a mirror, he saw himself leaning wearily on his cane. "You don't look much like a fellow who can handle a job that will require a lot of walking," he said to his reflection. Parking the cane in a corner, he walked out to the interview — and got the job.

"You know," he said, "I never went back for that cane."

A 1,000,000 gallon storage tank similar to this one would be constructed near the VFW baseball park, if the $1,200,000 bond issue for water and sewer improvements is approved by the voters. The new tank would more than double the storage capacity of the present system, provide Sikeston with higher water pressures and improved fire protection.

7. City Bond Issue

Two Water Problems Plaguing Sikestonians

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

Low water pressures and red water are two problems that will be solved by the $1,200,000 proposal to improve Sikeston's water and sewer systems.

Increased water demands by the city's commercial, industrial, and residential areas have tended to lower the pressure in Sikeston's water distribution system. Some residents have reported noticeable decreases in water pressure over the last three or four years. Moreover, engineering studies show that water pressures presently drop as low as five pounds per square inch in some areas of the city.

Low water pressure is the result of the larger number of consumers now using the Sikeston water works. As Sikeston continues to grow and even more consumers begin to use the municipal system, water pressures will become still lower, unless the proposed water system improvements are approved.

A new well, a new storage tank, and larger water lines will be provided by the $600,000 water improvements proposal. These new facilities will increase the water pressure in certain areas as much as thirty pounds per square inch.

Besides increasing water pressure, the water improvements proposal will mean better water for Sikeston consumers. The city's raw water supply contains iron deposits and other slight impurities, and tends to be "aggressive" or mildly corrosive. These characteristics produce the "red water" which sometimes stains clothing during washing.

The $600,000 proposal for water system improvements has funds allotted for the control and elimination of this red discoloration. A new settling basin will be constructed to remove iron and other impurities more effectively; additional treatment will be introduced to restrain the "aggressive" nature of the water.

Thus, better service for the consumer is another advantage that would result from the $600,000 water and $600,000 sewer improvement plan.

FINDING THE WAY

Does Fog Blind YOU?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Any traveler gets to be an expert on fogs. I can tell you of a dozen distinguished and notable glories of nature that I've visited and haven't seen. The Matterhorn was "bedekt." The Zugspitz was shrouded. I caught a fleeting glimpse of famed Mt. Fujiyama. The glories of the pictures in the travel folders and those glamorous photographs on airline calendars indicate that the sun does break through on occasion. I can tell you about the fogs.

Included in my list is the gorge on Kauai. That delightful island of our 50th state is a glamorous spot. A friend told me ecstatically of the orchids and the marvels. We traveled over the little roads but when we arrived, I found a fog that blotted everything from view. My friend insisted on its beauty. I believed him. He had seen it and knew it.

This is more than a hazard in traveling. It becomes the experience of much of life. I think of the many people who insist that they see nothing in our announced moral convictions. Our acts create fogs which obliterate our words.

Sometimes we've taken people up the winding roads while we described the wonders of the kingdom of God. Our friends couldn't see it and there was nothing in reality to convince them that we had seen it.

We said that we believe in peace. We insisted that we espoused brotherhood. We commented on the beauties of the redemption of the individual. We talked of the exciting wonders of the newness of life. But in our foggy relationships and fuzzy reactions to challenges in personal and social relationships, there was a notable lack of enthusiasm.

It's obvious that just pretending to be a foghorn will not turn the trick. Radar can help. That's a kind of spiritual sensitivity that gets many persons through the shoals of difficulty. There are so many problems that have no clear and easy answers. Hunting for the right and the wrong in the confusing set of circumstances requires the quality that sent those first disciples of Jesus out into the world with a certainty of the living presence of their Master. There was difficulty on every side but for them, the fog had lifted.

Decades ago Josiah Holland asked for such men:

God, give us men! a time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands:

Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking.

These are the men whose faith in the living presence of God send them out to lift the fogs. The view is breathtaking!

THIS VOLUME GUN spray rig is on the Moore Brothers farm, route two Charleston. The gun will send out a 700-gallon water spray per minute, and it can irrigate four acres at a time. It can be moved easily to another location.

Burial was in the Triplett Cemetery.

A retired farm, Bolin died at his home Tuesday.

He was born near Bloomfield Nov. 6, 1882 and spent his life in Stoddard County. He was a member of the St. Joseph General Baptist Church in Idalia. He married Ida M. Donehoo Jan. 21, 1950.

Margie Davis Services Sunday

CHARLESTON -- Services for Mrs. Margie Davis, 65, will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. in the Mercy Seat Baptist church, with the Rev. G. S. McCoy officiating. Burial will be in the Oak Grove cemetery with Sparks Funeral Home in charge.

Time Change Set Aug. 29

MALDEN-- Malden will revert to central standard time on Aug. 29, as the result of action taken by the city council.

The action was taken to drop daylight saving time on that date to avoid conflicting times with schools in the Malden area. Some schools are on central time and some are on daylight time.

Originally, the ordinance setting up daylight saving time called for it to end on the last Sunday of October.

Will Dixon, 91, Services Sunday

CHARLESTON -- Services for Will Dixon, 91, who died Tuesday, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Church of God with Elder Saul M. Myers officiating. Burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery with Sparks Funeral Home in charge.

Pearl Mae Tanner, Kewanee Dies

KEWANNE -- Pearl Mae Tanner, 66, died yesterday at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. She was born in Poplar Bluff, Apr., 1, 1899. Her husband is Herbert Tanner.

He who wakes up and finds himself a success hasn't been asleep.

Hugh Downs Realizes Dream

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't every man who gets the chance to realize a dream. But, by the time you read this, that's what I will be doing — aboard the 65-foot ketch Thane somewhere on the Pacific Ocean.

With me will be a crew of six, including my son, H. R. For four months we will leave television and the rest of "civilized life" far behind, following the trade winds to such intriguing ports of call as the Galapagos Islands, Nuku Hiva, Tahiti and Christmas Island.

Some of my friends are startled that I'm really going through with this thing. I'm not a foolhardy kid, they point out, but a grown man entering middle age. I have a family, a career, responsibilities. Sailing 8,800 miles in a small boat is, at best, a risky way to travel.

Perhaps they're right. But this voyage has been growing in my mind for five years, and no one can talk me out of it now, including NBC. In 1962, when I asked for a leave-of-absence clause in my contract, the network agreed. I think they thought I would never do anything so idiotic as to walk away from two network shows, that I'd keep talking about this adventure the rest of my life — without sailing past the three-mile limit.

Even I suspected I was kidding myself. But, bit by bit, the dream has come to life. For three years I investigated sailing ships until finally I saw the Thane, sailed her and fell in love with her.

Then I began assembling a crew. I brushed up on my long-time hobby of navigation. I gathered charts, weather records; studied the ocean currents in the Caribbean and Pacific, the Galapagos Islands off the South American coast, and French Polynesia.

I contacted the Marine Institute of the University of Miami and arranged with them to take aboard equipment for various oceanographic projects. During the trip we will devote much of our time to studying plankton and the spawning habits of tuna.

Finally, it was time to take the big step — telling NBC that I wouldn't be around for nearly half a year. "Why?" someone asked, and I realized it was the same question I had asked myself over and over.

Am I running toward something or away from something? Am I an overgrown adolescent trying to recapture his youth when I should be sedately settled on my veranda?

Or is it that there comes a time in a man's life when he must tune out the high, stringent voice of common sense and listen to the siren song of his most fanciful, romantic visions? I don't know the answer. But maybe it will come to me between the Galapagos Islands and Tahiti.

What I do know is that I've got a fine crew. Our little boat is as seaworthy as man can make it. Every danger has been assessed, every precaution taken. Now, all we need is a little cooperation from the Pacific and the elements.

If all goes well, I will be back in New York sometime in mid-October.

At this writing there isn't much else to do but get my head shaved (no haircuts or shaves for four months), stow my gear aboard and cast off.

Perhaps this is a foolhardy venture. Perhaps my friends are right — I should abandon ship before I ever set foot on deck.

But I don't intend to. I feel younger and more alive than I have for 20 years. That alone is worth any risk involved.

No Bootheel Branch For State College

JEFFERSON CITY -- Despite the intervention of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and the nearly-solid bloc of support from Bootheel legislators, the Senate Economics Committee failed to approve H. B. 649. The measure, now dead in this session would have permitted Southeast Missouri State College to establish a branch college in the Bootheel area.

Prevailed upon by Bootheel-area legislators and friends in Southeast Missouri, Gov. Hearnes intervened in behalf of the bill, conferring a few days ago with the chairman of the Economics Committee, Sen. William Waters, Dem., of Liberty.

During yesterday afternoon's hearing, Sen. J. F. Patterson, Dem., of Caruthersville, who has opposed efforts to secure the legislation, said he would prefer not to participate in the deliberations of the committee. Sen. Patterson left the committee room before members of the Economics Committee made their decision to take no action on the measure, thus killing its chances in the final hours of the session.

Rep. Tom Baker, Dem., of Stoddard County, appeared before the committee's members to plead for the measure. He pointed to the lack of higher educational opportunities in the Bootheel, the large population in the area, and the need to provide such facilities for lower-income families.

The committee, charged with approving all new expenditures undertaken by the state, was being asked to approve a fiscal note of $50,000, the amount needed to begin operations of the proposed branch college facility.

Before it was killed in yesterday afternoon's committee meeting, H. B. 649 had received the approval of the House Higher Education Committee, the House of Representatives and the Senate Education Committee.

Offer Zoning Laws For Kennett

KENNETT -- Kennett's City Planning commission approved a proposed zoning map and an extensive set of recommended zoning ordinances. The approval of the zoning recommendations came just before the commission set the date for a public hearing on the recommendations it will eventually make to the Kennett City Council.

By a vote of 11 to 0, the commission approved both the zoning map and the 42-page set of proposed zoning ordinances.

A public hearing, required by law to inform citizens of the changes being made and to permit property owners to protest any zoning designations, has been set for Aug. 2.

The hearing will be held at the Dunklin County Circuit Courtroom starting at 7:30 p.m.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our beautiful 17-year-old daughter is in the bedroom sobbing her heart out. Her steady boy friend, Artie, told her this afternoon that he wants his ring and picture back. He didn't give any reason — just that he wants to date other girls and spend more time on athletics.

Do you know what it's like to hear a 17-year-old say she doesn't want to go on living? She hardly touched her dinner tonight and her eyes look like red coals. When she was telling us about her tragedy both my husband and I broke down and wept. Please say something to give us all courage. — EMPTY HEARTS

Dear Empty: If this is a tragedy I'm a belly dancer in a kootch joint. High school kids break up by the thousands every day. Pictures, rings, sweaters, pins and bracelets are shot back and forth like ping-pong balls.

Instead of weeping with your daughter you should have told her that the cry baby who folds like an accordion when things don't go her way is in for a rough time.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you said many people who want replies in the mail enclose envelopes which they address to Ann Landers instead of to themselves. You expressed surprise that so many people make this mistake.

Why? Don't you know the average American is a moron? I've worked in our city hall for 20 years and nothing surprises me anymore.

One woman who filled out a form for a driver's license recently wrote, after the word sex, "occasionally."

Then there are the old crows who knock 40 pounds off their weight and 10 years off their age when they fill out forms. Who do they think they are kidding? Last week a motherly type with snow white tresses put down "red" to describe her hair color. When I called the error to her attention she said, "I'm having it dyed tomorrow."

You, Ann Landers, should know that people can be awfully nutty. — OLD TIMER

Dear Old Timer: People can also be awfully warm-hearted, generous, heroic and unbelievably kind.

And since you work in city hall please pass the word to someone higher up that some of those goofy forms are worded in such confusing language that Einstein would need help.

Dear Ann Landers: I was delighted when you told that daughter-in-law it was up to her to write to her husband's mother. I didn't realize how much my cards meant to my mother-in-law until last Christmas. When we visited her she took out a huge bundle of cards which she had saved over the years.

Sandwiched in among my own were cards written by the children. There was one scrawled by our daughter when she was 10, written in the beauty shop while she waited to have her pigtails cut off. And there was a card from our son written from the dog and cat hospital. His little dog "Mr. Jones" had been struck by a car and he had just received word that "'Mr. Jones' is going to be O.K."

We had a good laugh over the card we had mailed while driving through Paris, Texas. We sent it as a gag, hoping Grandma would think we were in France.

Our "Too-Busy-To-Write Daddy" was touched by my consideration for his mother. I'm sure he appreciates me just a little more. — PATTY

Dear Patty: It's like I said — writing to a mother-in-law comes under the heading of being a good wife. You do it as much for your husband as for his mother. Cheers!

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What to Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Two or three thousand people attended the open air concert in Malone Park Wednesday evening, when the Cairo Good Will Tour offered a band concert and vaudeville entertainments.

By arrangements with members of the city council, the daily summer playground is held at Malone Park instead of the public school grounds. Miss Ruth Denman, supervisor, moved the crowd Wednesday morning for the first time. The change was made because of the lack of shade on the school grounds and because the school play equipment had been already moved in.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, who have been living in Indianapolis, Ind., have returned to locate here.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., -- The official United States Air Force Dance Band, better known as the "World Famous Airmen of Note," will stage a two-day appearance here July 2nd and 3rd.

Under the direction of First Lieutenant Johnny O'Seekee, the "fabulous 17" have performed with some of the nation's leading stars. Such personalities as Art Baker, Joe E. Brown, Jack Carson and Veronica Lake, are only a few. The group has performed at such outstanding engagements as the 1958 World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium, the Royal Festival Hall, London, England, and the Waikiki Shell, Honolulu, Hawaii.

From its inception the orchestra has been composed of former members of top professional dance bands. Presently included are representatives of the Tommy Dorsey, Les Elgart, Billy May, Ralph Flanagan, Les Brown and Harry James organizations.

Never to satisfied with single appearances, the world reknown jazzmen have appeared on television's "You Asked For It," "Stars On Parade," and the Lawrence Welk Show.

Perhaps the greatest highlight of the many performances by the Airmen of Note was the portrayal of the Glenn Miller Orchestra in the Universal-International motion picture "The Glenn Miller Story," at the special request of Mrs. Miller.

O'Seekee, the personable and highly talented leader of the USAF Dance Orchestra, boasts a rich musical heritage as well as a widely diversified musical background as a member of the "notes."

A native of Erie, Pa., he began his music study at the age of six. By the time he was in his teens, he led his own dance band at Erie High School.

As featured accordian soloist with the Band during its European Tours in 1950 and 1951, his virtuosity thrilled thousands of music lovers in London, Paris, Vienna, Berlin, and Amsterdam.

Highlighting these appearances were his performances before an audience of 130,000 in Berlin's Olympic Stadium and at a Command Performance for the Royal Family of England at Buckingham Palace.

While here, the "Notes" will perform at the Officer's Open Mess, the Noncommissioned Officer's Open Mess and the base Service Club, Kingsley Hall.

7TH INFANTRY DIV., KOREA (AHTNC) -- Army PFC Joe G. Waters, son of Campbell U. Waters, Route 1, Bertrand, Mo., was assigned to the 7th Infantry Division in Korea, June 19.

Waters, a tracked vehicle mechanic in Company C, 2d Battalion of the division's 17th Infantry, entered the Army in June 1964 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1964 graduate of Kelly High School in Benton.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --Base lifeguard officials have been introduced to Resusci-Anne, a life size model which is used to demonstrate and practice mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and external cardiac massage.

Twelve lifeguards, in addition to medical personnel, attended the class as a part of their lifeguard training. First Lieutenant Shirley Swaine, 851st Medical Group, conducted the training.

Jack Smith, base recreation director, states that with summer in full swing, school being out for the next three months, and the swimming pool in full use, that the base pool will be well supervised by trained life guards.

The guards are undergoing extensive training in life saving techniques, and at times there are as many as five on duty at the pool.

With the added training now in progress, recreation officials here feel that this should be an accident-free holiday period.

A Marine private was squatting in his dugout near the boundary fence in Guantanamo one day recently. He picked up his field telephone. "Gray Fox calling Firebrand," he said. No answer. "Are you there, Firebrand? Gray Fox calling Firebrand." Silence. He put down the phone, stuck his head outside and yelled toward the next bunker, 50 yards away. "Hey, Joe, answer the phone!" Communication was restored. — Minneapolis Tribune

An astonishing increase in the needs for silver in the United States is one of the oddities of our times. While industrial requirements have shown a steady increase here and in the rest of the world, the demand for United States silver drastically outpaces this as well as the population increase, economic growth and the expanded use of vending machines. It can only be due to increased hoarding and speculating.

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 1, the 182nd day of 1965. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898 in Cuba, American troops stormed San Juan Hill under a withering fire from the Spanish entrenched at the top. Among the attacking units was Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Rider cavalry. The Spaniards fled and "Teddy" and his men looked down on Santiago.

On this date

In 1863, advance units of Confederate infantry exchanged fire with Union cavalry at the Pennsylvania farm village of Gettysburg. It was the start of the Battle of Gettysburg.

In 1881, the American Red Cross was incorporated, with Clara Barton as president.

In 1924, daily air mail service was started between New York and San Francisco.

In 1941, Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Corps reached Al Alamein.

In 1943, the pay-as-you-go income tax law went into effect.

Ten years ago - - A transport and communications strike over the cost of living paralyzed six provinces of Chile.

Five years ago -- The Eisenhower administration asked Congress for power to cut the quota of sugar imported from Cuba.

One year ago - Premier Levi Eshkol of Israel received a warm greeting from President Johnson in Washington.

The Briefing Room was fairly crowded, and the young captain stood before the situation map expounding his recommendations and theories on how the unit should be employed in the forthcoming tactical exercise. He was quite adamant about his ideas and persisted in his views even though the more experienced field grade officers disagreed with him.

It began to sound like a dog fight when finally the commanding general stepped in. "Captain," he said, "Why don't you relax and take a more conservative approach in your briefing . . .you must learn to yield somewhat in dealing with senior and more experienced officers."

The captain was visibly embarrassed by being called down by the CG, but remained steadfast in his demanding attitude by replying: "Sir, I'm sure you didn't make general by being conservative and yielding, now did you?"

The general nodded. "You're right, captain, I didn't make general that way. But that's the way I made MAJOR!"

Assembly Action Ends

Hearnes Appears At Windup

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri's 1965 Legislature finished its action on bills one minute before midnight Wednesday night with passage of a final catch - all appropriation bill.

Both Houses earlier passed a Congressional Redistricting Bill designed to meet the federal courts "one man-one vote" decree.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes set a precedent by appearing before both Houses to thank them for their cooperation. He said the 1965 General Assembly would go down in history as one of the greatest sessions Missouri has ever seen. He told the Senate:

"I think you were truly magnificient and I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

Hearnes said in a statement that all 19 of his major recommendations had been passed. He called it a record for legislative cooperation.

But resting on the senate calendar at adjournment time was a Hearnes - sponsored bill to allow voters to approve general obligation bond issues by a 60 per cent instead of a two-thirds majority.

And House members, dragging their feet all day to avoid them, left two liquor bills on the calendar to permit sale of liquor by the drink at Lambert - St. Louis Airport and at plush resorts in Missouri's lake resort areas.

The Congressional Redistricting Bill, a last minute problem, left districts with a population variation of less than 10 per cent.

But some other legislators in both Houses objected to it vigorously. They said their areas had not been treated fairly and the districts did not meet the federa court's one man-one vote

Efforts to filibuster the issue in the final hours failed.

The final omnibus or catch-all bill passed the Senate one minute before the automatic midnight adjournment deadline.

Earlier, the presiding officer, Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, ruled debate could proceed on the bill after midnight as long as it had been taken up before then.

In its final form, the bill carried an estimated $9,868,000 in general revenue - about $3 million more than the original figures but not counting $10 million in extra state aid for schools that was handled in another bill.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, Senate appropriations for the 1965-66 fiscal year to some $882,611,000. That compares with about $1.5 billion for the current two-year period ending today.

The governor recommended about $163 million for his one-year budget. New programs and the Legislature tacked on some more.

Patterson said the end result would be a working surplus of about $19 to $20 million - regarded by budget experts as a minimum.

The last minute omnibus bill included $170,000 for the new Council of The Arts, one of the Governor's few new programs, and $40,000 each for new four-year state colleges at Joplin and St. Joseph.

Left on the Senate calendar besides the Governor's "60 per cent bill" was one far down backed by Missouri bankers. It would have lowered the interest rates on state deposits at a cost to the state of about $1 million a year at current rates.

Form Water District In New Madrid

NEW MADRID -- Circuit Judge William L. Ragland has issued an order declaring final incorporation of public water supply district No. 1. The district in New Madrid county is comprised of South Lilbourn, Howardville, and the area between.

An election has been held to determine if the district should be formed. The vote was 192 to 0 in favor of it.

The first board of directors is composed of subdistrict 1 -- David E. Ragan, one year term; subdistrict 2 -- William B. Croy - two years; subdistrict 3 -- Travis B. Howard, two years; subdistrict 4 -- Donand Schaffer, three years; and subdistrict 5 -- Willie B. Hamilton, three years.

Citizens of the district will vote on a $75,000 revenue bond issue to finance the system. This bond issue will be guaranteed 100 percent by the federal government through the Farmers Home Administration.

Tentative approval for this guarantee has been made by the FHA State Director of Missouri, Everett Jose, in Columbia, and is based on service agreements signed by a minimum of 125 customers. Bonds would be payable over 33 years.

Breath Test Bill Signed

JEFFERSON CITY AP--A bill to require suspected drunken drivers to take a chemical breath test was signed by Gov. Warren E. Hearns Wednesday.

It says a motorist gives his implied consent to such a test by driving on Missouri highways. If he refuses, he loses his driver's license for a year.

It was the key traffic measure recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and a special traffic safety committee. Two years ago it was defeated on the final night of the session by a filibuster.

Also signed was a bill to set up a new state Council on The Arts, one of the few new programs the Governor recommended. He allotted $250,000 to get it started but in the final appropriation bill this was trimmed to $170,000.

Wayne Added To District

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- A congressional re-districting plan passed by the state legislature last night adds Wayne County to the tenth congressional district.

The addition gives the district a population of 398,878, a gain of 17,276. Rep. Paul Jones, Kennett Democrat, now represents the district.

The 11 counties now in the district are Bollinger, Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Perry, Ripley, Scott and Stoddard.

Yesterday was proclaimed Head Start Day by Mayor Kendall Sikes who joined a nationwide observance.

June 30 was designated by President Johnson as Head Start Day.

There are 160 pre-school children enrolled in the program in Sikeston, the maximum approved for the school district.

Among those who volunteered their services are doctors, dentists, and registered nurses, who performed medical and dental services; and parents who went to the homes to register children for the program and used their cars to transport them for medical examinations and to obtain enrollment information.

More than 90 per cent of the pupils are from economically or socially deprived homes.

Jack Cothern, Principal of Southwest school, is director of the program.

Peace officers said today that they wanted to question two persons who told elderly women they represented an insurance company.

According to police reports the pair, a red headed woman and a younger red headed man, have collected two checks totaling $195.50 from two elderly women in Sikeston.

One of the checks for $96 was written by Mrs. Ella Albritton of 104 West Gla ys. She said the two were neat and clean in appearance and had a smooth approach.

She believed that she was paying a six month premium on an accident insurance policy.

The other elderly woman, whose identity was not immediately available, gave the couple a check for $99.50.

Eddie Michael, acting sheriff for Scott county, reports that officers have been unable to locate the pair.

It is believed that they are traveling in a red automobile. The make and the model of the car is not known by officers.

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A special election will be held Aug. 17 on three constitutional amendments submitted to the voters by the Missouri Legislature.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes announced the date Wednesday night during the closing hours of the 1965 session.

One amendment would allow a governor to succeed himself. The governor is backing it as part of his campaign pledges but said he will take no personal part.

Another increases the size of the Missouri House of Representatives from 163 to 168. It is geared to a bill passed by the Legislature setting the district boundary lines.

The third would let cities sell industrial plants built by the issuance of revenue bonds.

Group Will Police Senate

WASHINGTON AP -- In a sequel to the politically high-voltage Bobby Baker investigation, Senate leaders planned to activiate today a new permanent committee to police senatorial ethics.

Three senators of each party already have been chosen for the new watchdog committee on standards and conduct, created by the Senate a year ago. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said it was decided to hold up announcing them until the Baker probe was finished.

That came Wednesday, with a final report from the Rules Committee that said Baker had flagrantly abused his office to "feather his own nest." He served as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority. The report recommended careful consideration of the possibility of indicting Baker for violation of conflict of interest laws.

The committee's Republican minority renewed its charges of a Democratic cover - up and whitewash, saying the investigation was incomplete because of the refusal of Democrats to call numerous witnesses.

Baker resigned his Senate post Oct. 7, 1963, just before the investigation started.

Ruark Dies

LONDON AP -- Robert Ruark, 49, novelist who wrote books of strife in Africa and a syndicated newspaper column, died Wednesday in a London hospital. He had been ill of liver disease.

Bootheel Crop Prospects Are Best In Years

By Leo Schade

Bootheel crop prospects are the best in years.

County extension directors predict that if rain continues to fall for another 30 days, as it has in the past two months, the corn, soybean and cotton crops will exceed the high production of 1963.

Crops in the four-county area of Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid and Stoddard have passed crucial moisture stages. With any appreciable future precipitation production can range from a more than normal to a bumper crop of the three principal crops.

Rainfall since the beginning of the year has been continuous and spread almost evenly each month, ranging from three and one-half to five and one-half inches per month.

The farmer too, has realized that he must know how to apply the moisture, and the extension service has supplied them with knowledge. It was only a few years ago, when the first handmade moisture depletion method was introduced in this area. Today every farmer, who wants a productive crop, measures moisture depletion each day during the growing season.

The method is simple. A five-quart empty oil can be placed on a post four feet high, and filled to within two inches from the top. The gauging should not be started until after a good rain has soaked the ground well. Then the test is put to use. The amount of water in the soil corresponds to the amount of water in the can, and a daily measurement is taken, until the water level in the can has dropped as much as 1.3 inches.

The daily drop in the can averages from .14-inch to .24-inch. Safter the 1.3 inch drop has been reached, it is then time to begin a two-inch irrigation.

During the growing season a stalk of corn can grow from four to seven inches per day, requiring plenty of moisture. The type of land determines the amount of moisture needed. As an example the amount of moisture stored in a foot of sandy soil is .7-inch, for sandy loam 1.3, loams 1.8, silt loams 2.2, clay loam 1.9, and clay 1.8 inches.

The moisture storage for the upper 24 inches of soil is 3.60 inches, even if more than this amount of water is applied.

Farming in this area is rapidly changing. Knowledge gained in recent years accounts for increased production.

Foremost among improved conditions is irrigation of which there are three types. The most practical and most expensive is the surface type, now found on hundreds of farms. The second most popular is the 250-foot boom spray pouring out about one-half inch of water per hour over five acres with an 80-pound pressure, and second only to the surface type that sends a large quantity of water between plant rows.

The third and newest method is the volume gun spray, only a year old in this area. It costs about half as much as the boom type. It sends out about 700 gallons per minute from a small rig, with no more than one-fourth mile piping needed and covers about four acres at a time. There are 12 to 15 rigs in the area.

Accounting for the popularity of the spray type irrigation systems is the lower costs, which eliminates land leveling and large outlays for pipe.

WAIST HIGH IN MILO at Blodgett are the four Ben Marshall children, Franklin, Sally, Mary Beth and Ellen. The 160 acre field will be harvested for headed grain, which is used largely for the making of vodka. A product of the corn family, it brings about 90 per cent of the price of corn, with an average yield of 5,000 pounds to the acre. The stalks can be used to form a silage.

LOOKING OVER the cotton crop of 100 acres on the Babb and DeLine farm, route two, Charleston, are Mississippi Extension Agent Glenn Patton, right, extension agent and Don Savage.

Austrian Students Coming

Five students from the University of Vienna in Austria will arrive tonight to spend six weeks with Sikeston families.

According to Frank Ferrell, president of the SEMO chapter of People-to-People, Inc., the five -- three boys and two girls--are part of a 20-student group of Austrian students who will spend six weeks in the midwest.

Between the ages of 20-24, the students will work in the place of business operated by the head of the family with whom they are living.

The students and their families are:

Wolfgang Frey, a commerce student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Grant.

Harald Ploy, a law student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. John Hux.

Friedrich Scheuer, a mechanical drawing student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buchmueller.

Gerlind Prah, an architectual student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher.

Maria Pollak, an artichectual student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clinton.

Cold Air Assault

A massive cold air system which brought record low temperatures to the Midwest and New England loosed violent weather today along its advancing edge from the plains to South Carolina.

Tornadoes speared sections of Colorado, Oklahoma and southwest Missouri. Funnel clouds whirled over South Dakota and eastern Montana. Little damage was reported from these.

Heaviest rain on the front was reported at Myrtle Beach, S.C. —1.68 inches.

Flint, Mich., with a low temperature of 40 degrees, and Milwaukee, Wis., with 41, set all-time July cold marks.

The cold front broke a week-long string of 90-plus days in the norhtern gulf states area and parts of the Southeast.

Viet Cong Attacks Base

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong killed one American, destroyed three planes and damaged three others in a hit-and-run attack on the Da Nang air base today. But U.S. Air Force and Navy planes struck at North Viet Nam during the day without letup.

Bridges, barracks and radar installations were among the prime targets, and more propaganda leaflets were dropped over populated areas, a U.S. spokesman said. He said all planes returned safely.

More U.S. Marines landed in South Viet Nam, at the coastal city of Qui Nhon. A U.S. spokesman said between 400 and 500 were coming ashore from 7th Fleet ships and would provide security for the Qui Nhon area as well as "combat support for the republic of South Viet Nam's armed forces."

Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, is the fourth area to be defended by the Leathernecks. The others are the air bases at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, Chu Lai, miles south of Da Nang, and Phu Bai, 35 miles north of Da Nang.

In the central highlands 150 miles south of Da Nang, four Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a Communist ambush near Cheo Reo. But the Red guerrillas were driven off with heavy losses after a day of close-in fighting.

The unofficial total of American combat dead in Viet Nam totaled 445 since December, 1961.

U.S. Enters Sixth Year Of Red Ink Financing

WASHINGTON AP -- The government entered its sixth straight year of red-ink financing today but pointed with pride to a sharply reduced deficit in the fiscal year just ended.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler announced that the fiscal 1965 deficit, on which the books closed at midnight, was an estimated $3.5 billion That compared with President Johnson's January forecast of a $6.3 billion deficit.

The secretary foresaw a $4.2-billion deficit for the new fiscal year. That implies a $1.1-billion improvement since January. Some other officials predicted privately that this deficit, too, will be whittled down if the business boom continues.

Assurance that the boom will indeed continue was given by Fowler at a fiscal year-end news conference. Conditions are excellent, he said, for "sound, stable and sustainable economic health and expansion."

Fowler went on: "So far as the eye of economic foresight can see ahead, there is no indication of economic difficulty.

"It is still entirely possible to have a recession some time in the distant future; but our analysis of the economic situation reveals none of those imbalances or excesses that bring about economic downturns."

However, the fiscal outlook is not completely rosy. Government sources report that:

The $100-billion yearly spending level, avoided narrowly by Johnson for the past two years, undoubtedly will be crossed in fiscal 1967, the year which begins 12 months from today.

The Defense Department, which provided most of the budget cuts that made room for Johnson's new "Great Society" programs, is unlikely to find further substantial savings possible.

The 1967 budget, already in early stages of preparation, will show another deficit, the seventh in succession.

A balanced budget may be achieved in fiscal 1968.

Last week's cut in excise taxes, a bigger one than Johnson had proposed in January, will postpone the arrival of a balanced budget. But administration economists contend that its stimulative effects, like that of the great tax reduction of 1964, will underpin the national prosperity and make eventual surpluses more certain.

Duty Free Limit Lowered

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson has signed into law a compromise bill lowering to $100 retail value the amount of duty - free purchases that U. S. tourists can bring into the country from overseas.

But the new limit does not go into effect until Oct. 1. At present, tourists can bring in goods valued at $100 wholesale -- about $167 retail.

Kennedy Keeps Fit

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Robert F. Kennedy takes physical fitness in stride. He has no formula and no advice to the lazy.

"I don't do any pushups or anything like that," the New York Democrat said in a quickie interview.

He simply skis, swims, climbs a mountain, hikes, sails, skin dives, plays baseball, ice skates and throws a mean football around.

He's off Friday to shoot some rapids on the Yampa and Green Rivers in Colorado and Utah, taking his wife and at least five of their nine children. It's a typical vacation for Kennedy.

He is seldom not doing something.

Three Emergencies

Three persons were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday: Jack Strong, Scott City, car accident, J. C. Crowser, Cape Girardeau, injured left shoulder, and William Seago, Memphis, truck accident.

Clark Elected

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. AP -- James G. Clark, sheriff of Selma, Ala., Wednesday was elected first vice president of the 20,000 - member National Sheriff's Association at the group's annual conference in Atlantic City, N. Y.

Close Vote On Housing

WASHINGTON AP -- A housing bill containing a modified version of President Johnson's rent supplement plan headed for comparatively easy going in the Senate today after one of the closest votes in the House on any Johnson administration proposal.

The controversial portion of the $5.3 - billion measure - the provision for subsidizing rent of low income families - survived a 208-202 vote in the House Wednesday only after the Democrats handling it had drastically modified it from the original administration conception of a program for families above the actual needy level.

As the House finally passed it, on a 245-169 roll call vote, the bill closely resembles legislation already approved by the Senate Banking Committee. The Senate version carries a somewhat higher price tag, but estimates of the ultimate cost of a four year program embracing grants, loans and loan guarantees are imprecise.

Some prices were up, others were down. Trading was moderate.

Wednesday the market smashed to its biggest gain in 19 months.

Two-Car Collision Fatal

In a two-car collision today at 1:05 a.m., a man tentatively identified by the state highway patrol as William W. Shuffield, 20, Normandy, was killed on highway 67, at the north edge of Poplar Bluff.

He was driving a 1964 Plymouth on the wrong side of the road and struck the left front of a 1958 auto truck van, the patrol reported. The van was driven by Jim Houk, Clinton.

Shuffield was taken to the Greer - Croy - Fitch Funeral Home in Poplar Bluff.

Four other persons were injured in other area highway collisions.

A 6:15 a.m. Thursday on highway 61, a 1963 Ford, driven by James Davison, 31, Scott City, skidded on wet pavement into the path of a 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Teddy Coleman, 24, Morehouse. Coleman received a minor leg injury, and a passenger in his car, Jackie Strong, received head cuts. Davison also received head cuts.

Burrell Wagoner, 62, Blodgett, received a possible chest and back injury and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital, when his 1954 Chevrolet collided with a 1962 Ford driven by Jerry Goetz, 20, Sikeston. The accident occurred at 5:55 p.m. yesterday on Route H, south of Blodgett.

Goetz informed the patrol the sun had gotten in his eyes and he had started to sneeze, causing him to run over the center line and striking the Wagoner car head-on. Goetz was given a summons.

At 2 p.m. Thursday, two miles east of East Prairie on route 105, a 1954 Chevrolet driven by Jerry Leach, 25, East Prairie, was struck by a 1959 Dodge driven by DeWayne Coots, 17, Bertrand. Leach attempted a left turn when Coots attempted to pass. No one was injured.

Want To Quiz Salesmen

Peace officers said today that they wanted to question two persons who told elderly women they represented an insurance company.

According to police reports the pair, a red headed woman and a younger red headed man, have collected two checks totaling $195.50 from two elderly women in Sikeston.

One of the checks for $96 was written by Mrs. Ella Albritton of 104 West Gladys. She said the two were neat and clean in appearance and had a smooth approach.

She believed that she was paying a six month premium on an accident insurance policy.

The other elderly woman, whose identity was not immediately available, gave the couple a check for $99.50.

Eddie Michael, acting sheriff for Scott county, reports that officers have been unable to locate the pair.

It is believed that they are traveling in a red automobile. The make and the model of the car is not known by officers.

Tool Box Stolen

Herman Mays, route one, reported to the Sikeston police that a tool box, valued at $75, was stolen from his truck yesterday.

Special Vote On Aug. 17

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A special election will be held Aug. 17 on three constitutional amendments submitted to the voters by the Missouri Legislature.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes announced the date Wednesday night during the closing hours of the 1965 session.

One amendment would allow a governor to succeed himself. The governor is backing it as part of his campaign pledges but said he will take no personal part.

Another increases the size of the Missouri House of Representatives from 163 to 168. It is geared to a bill passed by the Legislature setting the district boundary lines.

The third would let cities sell industrial plants built by the issuance of revenue bonds.

Group Will Police Senate

WASHINGTON AP -- In a sequel to the politically high-voltage Bobby Baker investigation, Senate leaders planned to activiate today a new permanent committee to police senatorial ethics.

Three senators of each party already have been chosen for the new watchdog committee on standards and conduct, created by the Senate a year ago. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said it was decided to hold up announcing them until the Baker probe was finished.

That came Wednesday, with a final report from the Rules Committee that said Baker had flagrantly abused his office to "feather his own nest." He served as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority. The report recommended careful consideration of the possibility of indicting Baker for violation of conflict of interest laws.

The committee's Republican minority renewed its charges of a Democratic cover - up and whitewash, saying the investigation was incomplete because of the refusal of Democrats to call numerous witnesses.

Baker resigned his Senate post Oct. 7, 1963, just before the investigation started.

Bootheel Crop Prospects Are Best In Years

By Leo Schade

Bootheel crop prospects are the best in years.

County extension directors predict that if rain continues to fall for another 30 days, as it has in the past two months, the corn, soybean and cotton crops will exceed the high production of 1963.

Crops in the four-county area of Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid and Stoddard have passed crucial moisture stages. With any appreciable future precipitation production can range from a more than normal to a bumper crop of the three principal crops.

Rainfall since the beginning of the year has been continuous and spread almost evenly each month, ranging from three and one-half to five and one-half inches per month.

The farmer too, has realized that he must know how to apply the moisture, and the extension service has supplied them with knowledge. It was only a few years ago, when the first handmade moisture depletion method was introduced in this area. Today every farmer, who wants a productive crop, measures moisture depletion each day during the growing season.

The method is simple. A five-quart empty oil can be placed on a post four feet high, and filled to within two inches from the top. The gauging should not be started until after a good rain has soaked the ground well. Then the test is put to use. The amount of water in the soil corresponds to the amount of water in the can, and a daily measurement is taken, until the water level in the can has dropped as much as 1.3 inches.

The daily drop in the can averages from .14-inch to .24-inch. Safter the 1.3 inch drop has been reached, it is then time to begin a two-inch irrigation.

During the growing season a stalk of corn can grow from four to seven inches per day, requiring plenty of moisture. The type of land determines the amount of moisture needed. As an example the amount of moisture stored in a foot of sandy soil is .7-inch, for sandy loam 1.3, loams 1.8, silt loams 2.2, clay loam 1.9, and clay 1.8 inches.

The moisture storage for the upper 24 inches of soil is 3.60 inches, even if more than this amount of water is applied.

Farming in this area is rapidly changing. Knowledge gained in recent years accounts for increased production.

Foremost among improved conditions is irrigation of which there are three types. The most practical and most expensive is the surface type, now found on hundreds of farms. The second most popular is the 250-foot boom spray pouring out about one-half inch of water per hour over five acres with an 80-pound pressure, and second only to the surface type that sends a large quantity of water between plant rows.

The third and newest method is the volume gun spray, only a year old in this area. It costs about half as much as the boom type. It sends out about 700 gallons per minute from a small rig, with no more than one-fourth mile piping needed and covers about four acres at a time. There are 12 to 15 rigs in the area.

Accounting for the popularity of the spray type irrigation systems is the lower costs, which eliminates land leveling and large outlays for pipe.

WAIST HIGH IN MILO at Blodgett are the four Ben Marshall children, Franklin, Sally, Mary Beth and Ellen. The 160 acre field will be harvested for headed grain, which is used largely for the making of vodka. A product of the corn family, it brings about 90 per cent of the price of corn, with an average yield of 5,000 pounds to the acre. The stalks can be used to form a silage.

LOOKING OVER the cotton crop of 100 acres on the Babb and DeLine farm, route two, Charleston, are Mississippi Extension Agent Glenn Patton, right, extension agent and Don Savage.

Austrian Students Coming

Five students from the University of Vienna in Austria will arrive tonight to spend six weeks with Sikeston families.

According to Frank Ferrell, president of the SEMO chapter of People-to-People, Inc., the five -- three boys and two girls--are part of a 20-student group of Austrian students who will spend six weeks in the midwest.

Between the ages of 20-24, the students will work in the place of business operated by the head of the family with whom they are living.

The students and their families are:

Wolfgang Frey, a commerce student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Grant.

Harald Ploy, a law student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. John Hux.

Friedrich Scheuer, a mechanical drawing student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buchmueller.

Gerlind Prah, an architectual student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher.

Maria Pollak, an artichectural student, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clinton.

Cold Air Assault

A massive cold air system which brought record low temperatures to the Midwest and New England loosed violent weather today along its advancing edge from the plains to South Carolina.

Tornadoes speared sections of Colorado, Oklahoma and southwest Missouri. Funnel clouds whirled over South Dakota and eastern Montana. Little damage was reported from these.

Heaviest rain on the front was reported at Myrtle Beach, S.C. —1.68 inches.

Flint, Mich., with a low temperature of 40 degrees, and Milwaukee, Wis., with 41, set all-time July cold marks.

The cold front broke a week-long string of 90-plus days in the norhtern gulf states area and parts of the Southeast.

U.S. Enters Sixth Year Of Red Ink Financing

WASHINGTON AP -- The government entered its sixth straight year of red-ink financing today but pointed with pride to a sharply reduced deficit in the fiscal year just ended.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler announced that the fiscal 1965 deficit, on which the books closed at midnight, was an estimated $3.5 billion That compared with President Johnson's January forecast of a $6.3 billion deficit.

The secretary foresaw a $4.2-billion deficit for the new fiscal year. That implies a $1.1-billion improvement since January. Some other officials predicted privately that this deficit, too, will be whittled down if the business boom continues.

Assurance that the boom will indeed continue was given by Fowler at a fiscal year-end news conference. Conditions are excellent, he said, for "sound, stable and sustainable economic health and expansion."

Fowler went on: "So far as the eye of economic foresight can see ahead, there is no indication of economic difficulty.

"It is still entirely possible to have a recession some time in the distant future; but our analysis of the economic situation reveals none of those imbalances or excesses that bring about economic downturns."

However, the fiscal outlook is not completely rosy. Government sources report that:

The $100-billion yearly spending level, avoided narrowly by Johnson for the past two years, undoubtedly will be crossed in fiscal 1967, the year which begins 12 months from today.

The Defense Department, which provided most of the budget cuts that made room for Johnson's new "Great Society" programs, is unlikely to find further substantial savings possible.

The 1967 budget, already in early stages of preparation, will show another deficit, the seventh in succession.

A balanced budget may be achieved in fiscal 1968.

Last week's cut in excise taxes, a bigger one than Johnson had proposed in January, will postpone the arrival of a balanced budget. But administration economists contend that its stimulative effects, like that of the great tax reduction of 1964, will underpin the national prosperity and make eventual surpluses more certain.

Duty Free Limit Lowered

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson has signed into law a compromise bill lowering to $100 retail value the amount of duty - free purchases that U. S. tourists can bring into the country from overseas.

But the new limit does not go into effect until Oct. 1. At present, tourists can bring in goods valued at $100 wholesale -- about $167 retail.

Kennedy Keeps Fit

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Robert F. Kennedy takes physical fitness in stride. He has no formula and no advice to the lazy.

"I don't do any pushups or anything like that," the New York Democrat said in a quickie interview.

He simply skis, swims, climbs a mountain, hikes, sails, skin dives, plays baseball, ice skates and throws a mean football around.

He's off Friday to shoot some rapids on the Yampa and Green Rivers in Colorado and Utah, taking his wife and at least five of their nine children. It's a typical vacation for Kennedy.

He is seldom not doing something.

Close Vote On Housing

WASHINGTON AP -- A housing bill containing a modified version of President Johnson's rent supplement plan headed for comparatively easy going in the Senate today after one of the closest votes in the House on any Johnson administration proposal.

The controversial portion of the $5.3 - billion measure - the provision for subsidizing rent of low income families - survived a 208-202 vote in the House Wednesday only after the Democrats handling it had drastically modified it from the original administration conception of a program for families above the actual needy level.

As the House finally passed it, on a 245-169 roll call vote, the bill closely resembles legislation already approved by the Senate Banking Committee. The Senate version carries a somewhat higher price tag, but estimates of the ultimate cost of a four year program embracing grants, loans and loan guarantees are imprecise.

Viet Cong Attacks Base

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong killed one American, destroyed three planes and damaged three others in a hit-and-run attack on the Da Nang air base today. But U.S. Air Force and Navy planes struck at North Viet Nam during the day without letup.

Bridges, barracks and radar installations were among the prime targets, and more propaganda leaflets were dropped over populated areas, a U.S. spokesman said. He said all planes returned safely.

More U.S. Marines landed in South Viet Nam, at the coastal city of Qui Nhon. A U.S. spokesman said between 400 and 500 were coming ashore from 7th Fleet ships and would provide security for the Qui Nhon area as well as "combat support for the republic of South Viet Nam's armed forces."

Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, is the fourth area to be defended by the Leathernecks. The others are the air bases at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, Chu Lai, miles south of Da Nang, and Phu Bai, 35 miles north of Da Nang.

In the central highlands 150 miles south of Da Nang, four Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a Communist ambush near Cheo Reo. But the Red guerrillas were driven off with heavy losses after a day of close-in fighting.

The unofficial total of American combat dead in Viet Nam totaled 445 since December, 1961.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Independence Day will soon be with us. And many a person will wistfully and nostalgically wonder, "Whatever became of the old-time Fourth of July?".

There are various answers. The urbanization of the country is one. Mobility which, whatever its attractions, makes for family rootlessness is another. The enormous distractions of the present age are still another. And so is a preoccupation with material things which tends to obscure simpler and often more profound virtues.

At any rate, the Fourth our fathers knew was a special and unique observance. It was a happy combination of fun and reverence for the men and principles that make up our rich history. The flag flew everywhere. The speakers' stands in the town squares blazed with bunting, and the hands tirelessly played patriotic airs. Fireworks exploded endlessly, ranging from the ubiquitous firecracker to stunning set pieces celebrating great events of the past. It was a wonderful day for young and old.

Not the least of its attractions were the fiery addresses, made by well-known public figures of the time. Some of these, needless to say, were of a low oratorical level. But all of them had one thing in common. They paid tribute to freedom, and how it was won, and what was needed to maintain and defend it. The theme was patriotism -- dedicated, unabashed. And every listener went away with a little better knowledge of our inheritance as a people and a little more determination to keep the spirit of the founders alive.

The old - time celebrations will be few and far between this year. But, whatever we do, wherever we go on that day, let us take a moment to think what freedom and independence, in the fullest sense of those words, mean -- and let us determine that our heritage shall never be lost.

* * *

President Lyndon B. Johnson's fervent appeals to keep the dollars at home as usual are a blend of effective action and too severe arm twisting that is hurting the cause.

Business appears to be bending every effort to do its part as a patriotic endeavor. Last year was the seventh consecutive year in which the United States experienced a sharp deficit in international transactions. The drain on gold stocks has been heavy but it slowed down in May, indicating that the voluntary restraint of business interests in this country is effective.

Reaction by business men to President Johnson's appeal to make improvements in the nation's balance of payments has been favorable.

The sales pitch for Americans to stay at home and see the United States has backfired. It was made in an coercive manner and the average citizen, while capable of great patriotism, can also be a hard nosed renegade. Travelers resented the Johnson tactic. Americans don't like to be told in a threatening manner what they can do and where they can travel. They aren't as easily led as Congress.

Everyone knows that President Charles de Gaulle is a thorn in this country's flesh but what European visitor would be willing to strike Paris off his itinerary? Besides if it were necessary to discourage visits to France why did Vice President Hubert Humphrey and James McDivitt and Edward White, American's Gemini 4 astronauts, have to go to Paris?

To contribute further to the confusion President Johnson has loudly and persistently complained about the billboards, slums, automobile graveyard and other eyesores in this country.

By putting this criticism with the admonition to see this country first, he seems to be telling people to go touring in the United States but to look the other way.

The basic error that President Johnson made was in the use of the word "don't."

The effective way to encourage more Americans to visit their own country is to take constructive action to produce this result.

The emphasis should be positive. It should not be on don't see Europe but rather merely see America first.

The Associated Press is doing something effective with an America the Beautiful series. So is Secretary of the Interior Udall by pointing with pride to the scenic wonders of the United States. There are many effective articles and advertisements in the travel magazines.

But as far the Johnson approach, he should have stood in bed. It has encouraged people to go to Europe just to be contrary and it has not given them the desire to explore the United States.

CAMP INVADES CAMP

The newest "in" word is "camp." Its meaning varies with the user. One amateur lexicographer, Thomas Meehan (N. Y. Times Magazine, March 21, 1965), calls it "a catch-all term to describe a previously unnamed sensibility, entirely apart from good taste or bad taste, that encompasses the curious attraction that everyone -- to some degree, at least -- has for the bizarre, the unnatural, the artificial, and the blatantly outrageous."

Well, be it noted that camp, the new word, has invaded the realm of summer activity that supports some 15,000 camps for children, teen-agers, and young adults. According to the American Camping Association, camping can give your child such rewards as happiness, comradeship, health, adventure, independence, inspiration, and "life adjustment," whatever that is. Of late, camps have been making kids couth, too. Swimming and archery have long been de riguer, of course, and so have enrichment courses, as they are called, and make-up stints in new math.

Recently charm camps have been added for the benefit of what in a more genteel day were called wallflowers -- not under-achievers. Now the ads ask: "OVERWEIGHT? Have fun and reduce at Camp NO-CAL."

Americans will spent more than $2 billion in fees alone to send the kids to camp this summer. Another $250 million to $300 million -- $50 to $60 a child -- will go for apparel and camping equipment.

In the latter category a New York specialty house now offers an "audacious new cologne for boy and girl campers." Its called "Summer Camp," natch enough.

Blatantly outrageous enough? Pretty campy, anyway.

YOUR COMPETITOR ISN'T LOCAL

A furniture store in Ambler, Penn., frequently runs advertising which is designed to promote all local retail firms -- even competitors.

Such advertising is done on the belief that general activity in a trade center is good for all retailers as well as the community as a whole.

It has been proven that the large store which advertises heavily automatically helps to support nearby specialty shops and services. Thus, the best location for a small gift shop may be in the shadow of a large department store.

Studies made of retail trade decline in cities where strikes closed newspapers indicate that specialty shops which did little or no advertising suffered almost as much as the nearby big advertisers.

It was evident that the downtown traffic created by regular newspaper advertisers helped to keep the entire trade center alive.

The most dangerous competition for the local merchant is not his next door neighbor. The biggest threat is the competitor in a distant trade center.

Or, in many cases, when advertising is not used, trade for all local retailers is lost because customers are not stimulated to buy anywhere.

URGE STATE DEPARTMENT SUPPORT FOR FOREIGN PROPERTY CONVENTION

The State Department has been urged to support the adoption of a draft convention on the Protection of Foreign Property by Robert Murphy, Chairman of the International Economic Affairs Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers. It was originally proposed by the Organization of Economic and Cooperative Development (OECD).

In a letter sent to Dean Rusk, Secretary of State, Mr. Murphy urged that the convention be ratified by members of the OECD and by other nations as soon as possible. He added that he hoped it may soon be submitted to the United States Senate with Dean Rusk's affirmative approval and recommendation "for advice and consent to signature and ratification by the United States."

Mr. Murphy pointed out that it is immensely important to American investors abroad that governments recognize and accept the continuing validity of the simple rules of customary international law governing the protection of foreign property. He explained that while these rules are still operative and the United States again and again insists upon their observance, the reluctance of so many of the recently created states to enter into treaty commitments embodying these principles "seems to make it highly important that those prepared to accept them in convention form do so as quickly as possible."

Mr. Murphy concluded that the further canvass of less developed countries "should not delay the completion of this legal proposal to protect the American investor." The State Department, he hopes, "will now be prepared to call for the prompt completion of this convention in the OECD and give it the active support that is now being given to the World Bank Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes as the two Conventions are complementary."

WHATEVER THE NAME

So-called Fair Trade legislation has been a question of moment for many years. Under it, manufacturers are allowed to establish prices at which retailers must sell the products concerned. The laws were unpopular with consumers, for the most obvious of reasons, and have become inoperative because of legislative and legal actions and decisions.

But the issue is not in limbo. What amounts to a Federal Fair Trade law is being actively pushed. It carries a different name -- "Quality Stabilization." That title, perhaps, is supposed to woo an unsuspecting and unknowing public.

But, whatever the name, this law and all others like it would produce the identical result. As a leading retail trade organization puts it, "The aim of the legislation is to allow manufacturers to short-circuit the anti-trust laws and set the price at which the merchandise which they produce under their own labels will be sold at retail. The goal is to effectively remove pricing decisions about these products from the hand of the retailer, and destroy price competition." Then, after reviewing at some length the arguments for and against the law, the organization decides that "It is clear that the legislation is, in nearly every sense of the word, a fraud." And it goes on to say: "More important, in our opinion, Fair Trade, under whatever name, is clearly a method of legalizing price fixing . . . The Bar Association, FTC, and the Justice Department have all urged that if Congress really wants to help small businessmen fight off 'harmful' price competition, they might better give serious consideration to an anti-below cost sales bill."

No business, large or small, is going to be helped in the long run by laws which eliminate honest competition and permit exploitation of the consumers. And the misnamed "Quality Stabilization" bill would, it seems, do just that.

THE PRICE SYSTEM

What is known as the price system -- a somewhat forbidding, but accurate, term -- is at the very heart of this country's economy. It makes that economy tick. Yet its significance, like its day -to-day workings, is a mystery to millions of us.

A publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States does a good job of defining the system, and of describing what it is designed to do. It says: "So important are the functions performed by the price system in an exchange economy, that it has been observed that if the system had not evolved it would have been necessary to invent it. Stripped to its barest essentials the price system communicates the relative pressures of supply and demand through individual price changes that act as signals to producers and consumers. For consumers, the price system serves as an automatic rationing device inducing them to buy more or less of an item depending upon whether the price falls or rises as a result of changes in supply. Thus price changes bring about a reallocation of consumer spending among different products . . . If a price system is to fulfil its basic functions. . . prices must be free to move both up and down in adjusting to changes in consumer preferences and incomes, methods of production and changes in relative scarcities of productive resources."

What this means is that a price increase, or a price decrease for that matter, is not automatically good or bad. In a competitive economy such as ours, these are the natural and inevitable reflection of a myriad of natural forces.

As consumers, we see this personally and daily as we shop in retail stores of every kind. The stores must stock and offer what we want, or lose our patronage. The price charged for anything is set by competitors and, also, by the scope and dependability of the demand for it. So the price system is, among so many other things, a producer of abundance, and a satisfier of public needs and wants.

GOING WEST

When I was 16 I decided to "go West and grow up with the country." Stopping often to work briefly, I reached a little station south of Salt Lake City. A livestock buyer took me on a freight-train carrying cattle and sheep as assistant to help each time the train stopped to get the stock which had got down up on their feet.

We rode comfortably with the conductor and brakeman in the caboose. The schedule was as fast as a passenger train. After watching the Judas goats decoy the sheep to their death at Los Angeles, the shipper gave me a dollar.

With this bankroll, I started walking down the railroad track toward Anaheim and Santa Ana. The electric railway tracks had just been laid and the streets were being paved in Santa Ana. I got a job hauling gravel for concrete. I drove two mules hitched to a wagon, shoveling gravel and sand from a dried creek bed to fill the wagon. To unload, the bottom of the wagon-bed would separate and the gravel would fall where it was needed. We worked from daylight until dark. Our food, supplied as part of our wages, consisted largely of oatmeal.

After a few days I went to the Irvine Ranch headquarters about 12 miles east of Santa Ana. My first work there was as a long-line skinner. I drove a ten-mule team hitched two abreast pulling a Stockton gang-plow.

We worked in the field from sunup to sundown and each driver cared for his team of ten, currying them and bedding them down at night, in straw, cleaning the stalls and currying them again in the morning before harnessing. The mules raised on the open range were broncos. I developed adroitness; nearly every bronco would kick at me whenever they thought I offered a fair target. HLH

QUI NHON, South Viet Nam AP -- They come to infirm feet. They come on pallets laid across shoulder poles borne by friends or relatives. They come in fishnet hammocks strung on the back of a small, three-wheeled ambulance.

Each day at least a hundred young or old Vietnamese poor come for treatment at the outclinic of the Holy Family Hospital here. On its staff of 11 Catholic sisters are five from America, the only ones in South Viet Nam.

The two-floor, 44-bed hospital is built around a compound shaded by palm trees and abounding in colorful tropical flowers. It is a haven of comfort and hope for thousands of miserable refugees who have fled into the city to escape the Viet Cong.

"This area always has been a Viet Cong stronghold," said the mother superior, Sister Karen Gossman, 42, of Louisville, Ky. "In 1954 before many of them went North, they burned and looted the entire city."

Sister Karen, a robust, kindly woman with a sense of humor that beams through her spectacles, founded the hospital in 1961. She worked as a nurse on a hospital ship in the Pacific during World War II before joining the order of Catholic medical missions sisters. The order has hospitals in 35 countries.

Sister Karen told of her work as she walked through the clinic, pausing to pat a scrawny, fretful, hollow-eyed child, or cheer a worried mother.

"Two of the sisters are doctors, and they see every patient," she said. "It is the suffering of the children that affects us most, although all the adults are victims of the war in one way or the other. They have such a hopeless feeling.

"In addition to the everyday types of illness, there's been a lot of cholera, measles, plague and typhoid. In fact they are epidemic here, but the government doesn't like to admit it."

The sisters work from 7 to 10 years before getting home leave. Sister Karen spent eight years in Pakistan before coming here.

An attempt is made to make the hospital self - supporting. Those of the poor who can afford it pay five piasters--about seven cents -- a visit to the clinic. Ward care is 10 piasters daily. But the hospital distributes free nearly $700 worth of medicine each month. It is helped by Catholic relief agencies.

Sister Karen said that neither she nor the other sisters worry about their fate if the enemy should seize the city, which lies on the central coastal lowlands between Saigon and Da Nang.

"We've given our life to God, and He has brought us here," she said. "We feel that what happens to us is His business not ours."

And then, as if afraid she had spoken too seriously, Sister Karen smiled sweetly -- and made the worst pun I've heard in Viet Nam.

"You know what we call this country?" she asked, chuckling. "We call it the coup-coup country -- because it has so many political coups."

The other American sisters at the hospital are Brenda Burke, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Virginia Sayers, Toledo, Ohio; Rosalie Pollinzi, Dallas, Tex., and Sheila Marie McGuinnis, Troy, N. Y.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The President certainly wishes it was true, as reported recently by a newspaper column duet, that he had silenced his No. 1 critic on Viet Nam, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., but it just ain't so.

After the last private session between the Senator from Oregon and his old friend, the ex-Senator from Texas, Wayne went out to the University of Indiana and began his speech: "At San Francisco the President passed up what may have been the last opportunity to prevent major war."

Before he left Washington, Morse did have a long, tough but friendly talk with the President during which they discussed some of the Senator's earlier ideas for peace in Viet Nam. LBJ had sent these to the State Department to have them carefully analyzed and received a return memo in which the State Department described Morse's ideas as the "most closely measured" plan so far submitted on Viet Nam.

The State Department memo went on to make a counter proposal that a UN commission be sent to Viet Nam to study the situation and report back in September. But, added the author of the memo, "Senator Morse would probably consider this a fraud."

"Would you, Wayne?" asked the President.

"Wouldn't it be, Mr. President?" replied Morse.

The President laughed.

Morse and Johnson have been sparring respectfully with each other for about fifteen years, dating back to their early days in the Senate. As Senate majority leader, Lyndon used to call Morse, former Dean of the University of Oregon Law School, "my attorney," and refer Senate legal problems to him. The situation continues about the same today.

—PROGRESS IN VIET NAM—

Despite the civil war, President Johnson has increased the public school enrollment of South Vietnamese children from 500,000 to one and a half million. He has also doubled the rice production of South Viet Nam.

"I would be glad to do this for North Viet Nam too," the President told friends the other day, "but they won't sit down and talk to me. I'm ready to talk to them at any time, anywhere, about peace and future improvement of their country, but they simply will not talk."

—OUT WITHERING UN POSITION—

There was a lot of gossip that LBJ switched his UN speech at the last minute because the redoubtable Scotty Reston of the New York Times had tipped his hand by reporting that the President would announce a big voluntary American gift to the UN at San Francisco.

Real fact is that certain high-up Americans in the UN were urging this. But actually, the President issued three advance warnings that he wouldn't go for it. About two weeks before the speech he told a group of newsmen not to expect anything sensational from his UN speech.

Later he had George Reedy, White House Press Secretary, call in reporters and give them the same warning. On top of this he suggested to his friend, columnist Bill White, to play down the speech, which White did.

In one White House meeting, the President reminded advisers, "You fellows told me this was just a big ceremonial affair." And he stuck to that advice.

Many diplomats had hoped that the President would reaffirm in glowing terms our dedication to the United Nations and breathe new life into its comatose body. He may do this next September when the UN Assembly meets for its 20th session.

Meanwhile you can write it down as certain that Article 19 is dead and will be quietly forgotten. The view is unanimous inside the Administration not to tell the Russians what they should do and how much they should pay. We'll let our position wither away and, we hope, be forgotten during the summer.

—PRODUCTIVE CONGRESSMEN—

For more than ten years the Buffalo suburbs were represented in Congress by John R. Pillion, who continually got his name in the papers.

Pillion talked about everything under the sun from baiting duck blinds to his own report on Kennedy's assassination. He didn't believe the Warren Report. But despite the headlines, Pillion accomplished little that was tangible for the voters of Buffalo.

Last fall, Pillion was defeated by a young man named Dick McCarthy, who says little, works hard, doesn't get his name in the papers. But in his first six months in Washington, McCarthy came up with a $50,000,000 appropriation to clean up the waters of Lake Erie around Buffalo.

—CONSUMERS AND PRIZE FIGHTS—

Esther Peterson, White House Assistant for Protecting the Consumer, has written a letter to Rep. Bob Sweeney, D-Ohio, in reply to his request that she investigate the Cassius Clay - Sonny Liston prize fight.

"Although I do not normally follow — nor investigate — pugilistic productions, I have heard that this affair was something less than a consumer bargain," replied Mrs. Peterson.

"I am truly sorry for all who felt cheated by the brevity of combat," she added, and suggested that the Truth-in-Packing Bill might apply. "May I suggest the section authorizing regulations 'to establish or preserve fair competition between or among competing products' and 'prevent the deception of consumers as to such products.'"

Hoffa Privately Tells Teamsters Union Will Have 2 Million Members in Year

New York: -- Jimmie Hoffa, who has of recent days toned down his dress and public image slipped quietly into town the other day. He was hiding from no one. But neither was he having any bugles blown nor was he papering the city rooms with advance flak.

He went as he came -- quietly, unnoticed, unreported -- but not before he cut loose with a significant speech to a Teamsters' local at the Waldorf.

In what was quite an oration, Hoffa disclosed that the Teamsters' brotherhood would be 2 million strong by its next convention -- Jule 1966.

He revealed that the brotherhood now actually had over 1,75 million.

His audience, and the fact that he would make one of his rare New York trips to address it, were indications that Hoffa's new drives would be in the civil service field where the potential is in the millions.

Those who heard Hoffa that evening (Friday, June 25) in the Waldorf grand ballroom were members of Local 237, made up of over 17,000 New York City employes. Their leader, William Lewis, son of a Negro slave, now is attempting to unionize several city departments.

Most of the membership is Negro and Puerto Rican, and Hoffa told the diners that they make up the fifth largest Teamsters' affiliate in the land. If Lewis succeeds in his new campaign, it will be the largest local in the brotherhood. At the moment it seems likely that the local will add another 15,000 members next September, when the Dept. of Hospitals nurses' aids and "institutional aids" take a vote on affiliation.

If the hospital workers vote to join the Teamsters, the local will have a total of 32,000 members -- and still have a huge field before it.

Those at the banquet, an annual affair run to raise money to send underprivileged youngsters to summer camps, heard Hoffa hurl pledges of support for the civil service unionization campaign. His speech was so fiery there'd have been spontaneous combustion were it not for the cooling system.

Obviously Hoffa liked what he saw and heard -- and the vistas of hundreds of cities and vast potential memberships stretched out before him.

He talked of organizational strategy and next year's convention as though there were not the slightest chance of being in prison long before the 1966 conclave, as the result of two federal convictions.

At the pre-dinner reception he was ebullient, gay and bouncy -- all without ever touching a drink. He made the rounds. He posed for pictures with every shop steward available. He disdained those who by-passed the rank and file for more glamorous pursuits here and aboard.

Though he refers to himself as "Hoffa", the chunky little chap was "Jimmie" to everybody. If there ever was any doubt that the so-called anti-Hoffa revolt of 18 months ago was smashed, evenings such as the one at the Waldorf wiped them out.

These cheers, the eagerness to shake his hand, the shouldering to get through to him at scores of such banquets proves that he will be unanimously re-elected at the '66 convention.

He showed no tension, though the decision of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati is about due, since the case was argued some six months ago.

Those who heard him assail the Supreme Court for its decision to put unions, in some instances, under the anti-trust laws, those who heard him call for a fight to prevent this ruling from "shackling" the labor movement, those who listened as he talked of new campaigns, got the impression that Hoffa just did not believe this court or any other would send him to prison for eight years.

There is no rust on his steel nerves.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Independence Day will soon be with us. And many a person will wistfully and nostalgically wonder, "Whatever became of the old-time Fourth of July?".

There are various answers. The urbanization of the country is one. Mobility which, whatever its attractions, makes for family rootlessness is another. The enormous distractions of the present age are still another. And so is a preoccupation with material things which tends to obscure simpler and often more profound virtues.

At any rate, the Fourth our fathers knew was a special and unique observance. It was a happy combination of fun and reverence for the men and principles that make up our rich history. The flag flew everywhere. The speakers' stands in the town squares blazed with bunting, and the hands tirelessly played patriotic airs. Fireworks exploded endlessly, ranging from the ubiquitous firecracker to stunning set pieces celebrating great events of the past. It was a wonderful day for young and old.

Not the least of its attractions were the fiery addresses, made by well-known public figures of the time. Some of these, needless to say, were of a low oratorical level. But all of them had one thing in common. They paid tribute to freedom, and how it was won, and what was needed to maintain and defend it. The theme was patriotism -- dedicated, unabashed. And every listener went away with a little better knowledge of our inheritance as a people and a little more determination to keep the spirit of the founders alive.

The old - time celebrations will be few and far between this year. But, whatever we do, wherever we go on that day, let us take a moment to think what freedom and independence, in the fullest sense of those words, mean -- and let us determine that our heritage shall never be lost.

President Lyndon B. Johnson's fervent appeals to keep the dollars at home as usual are a blend of effective action and too severe arm twisting that is hurting the cause.

Business appears to be bending every effort to do its part as a patriotic endeavor. Last year was the seventh consecutive year in which the United States experienced a sharp deficit in international transactions. The drain on gold stocks has been heavy but it slowed down in May, indicating that the voluntary restraint of business interests in this country is effective.

Reaction by business men to President Johnson's appeal to make improvements in the nation's balance of payments has been favorable.

The sales pitch for Americans to stay at home and see the United States has backfired. It was made in an coercive manner and the average citizen, while capable of great patriotism, can also be a hard nosed renegade. Travelers resented the Johnson tactic. Americans don't like to be told in a threatening manner what they can do and where they can travel. They aren't as easily led as Congress.

Everyone knows that President Charles de Gaulle is a thorn in this country's flesh but what European visitor would be willing to strike Paris off his itinerary? Besides if it were necessary to discourage visits to France why did Vice President Hubert Humphrey and James McDivitt and Edward White, American's Gemini 4 astronauts, have to go to Paris?

To contribute further to the confusion President Johnson has loudly and persistently complained about the billboards, slums, automobile graveyard and other eyesores in this country.

By putting this criticism with the admonition to see this country first, he seems to be telling people to go touring in the United States but to look the other way.

The basic error that President Johnson made was in the use of the word "don't."

The effective way to encourage more Americans to visit their own country is to take constructive action to produce this result.

The emphasis should be positive. It should not be on don't see Europe but rather merely see America first.

The Associated Press is doing something effective with an America the Beautiful series. So is Secretary of the Interior Udall by pointing with pride to the scenic wonders of the United States. There are many effective articles and advertisements in the travel magazines.

But as far the Johnson approach, he should have stood in bed. It has encouraged people to go to Europe just to be contrary and it has not given them the desire to explore the United States.

CAMP INVADES CAMP

The newest "in" word is "camp." Its meaning varies with the user. One amateur lexicographer, Thomas Meehan (N. Y. Times Magazine, March 21, 1965), calls it "a catch-all term to describe a previously unnamed sensibility, entirely apart from good taste or bad taste, that encompasses the curious attraction that everyone -- to some degree, at least -- has for the bizarre, the unnatural, the artificial, and the blatantly outrageous."

Well, be it noted that camp, the new word, has invaded the realm of summer activity that supports some 15,000 camps for children, teen-agers, and young adults. According to the American Camping Association, camping can give your child such rewards as happiness, comradeship, health, adventure, independence, inspiration, and "life adjustment," whatever that is. Of late, camps have been making kids couth, too. Swimming and archery have long been de riguer, of course, and so have enrichment courses, as they are called, and make-up stints in new math.

Recently charm camps have been added for the benefit of what in a more genteel day were called wallflowers -- not under-achievers. Now the ads ask: "OVERWEIGHT? Have fun and reduce at Camp NO-CAL."

Americans will spent more than $2 billion in fees alone to send the kids to camp this summer. Another $250 million to $300 million -- $50 to $60 a child -- will go for apparel and camping equipment.

In the latter category a New York specialty house now offers an "audacious new cologne for boy and girl campers." Its called "Summer Camp," natch enough.

Blatantly outrageous enough? Pretty campy, anyway.

YOUR COMPETITOR ISN'T LOCAL

A furniture store in Ambler, Penn., frequently runs advertising which is designed to promote all local retail firms -- even competitors.

Such advertising is done on the belief that general activity in a trade center is good for all retailers as well as the community as a whole.

It has been proven that the large store which advertises heavily automatically helps to support nearby specialty shops and services. Thus, the best location for a small gift shop may be in the shadow of a large department store.

Studies made of retail trade decline in cities where strikes closed newspapers indicate that specialty shops which did little or no advertising suffered almost as much as the nearby big advertisers.

It was evident that the downtown traffic created by regular newspaper advertisers helped to keep the entire trade center alive.

The most dangerous competition for the local merchant is not his next door neighbor. The biggest threat is the competitor in a distant trade center.

Or, in many cases, when advertising is not used, trade for all local retailers is lost because customers are not stimulated to buy anywhere.

URGE STATE DEPARTMENT SUPPORT FOR FOREIGN PROPERTY CONVENTION

The State Department has been urged to support the adoption of a draft convention on the Protection of Foreign Property by Robert Murphy, Chairman of the International Economic Affairs Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers. It was originally proposed by the Organization of Economic and Cooperative Development (OECD).

In a letter sent to Dean Rusk, Secretary of State, Mr. Murphy urged that the convention be ratified by members of the OECD and by other nations as soon as possible. He added that he hoped it may soon be submitted to the United States Senate with Dean Rusk's affirmative approval and recommendation "for advice and consent to signature and ratification by the United States."

Mr. Murphy pointed out that it is immensely important to American investors abroad that governments recognize and accept the continuing validity of the simple rules of customary international law governing the protection of foreign property. He explained that while these rules are still operative and the United States again and again insists upon their observance, the reluctance of so many of the recently created states to enter into treaty commitments embodying these principles "seems to make it highly important that those prepared to accept them in convention form do so as quickly as possible."

Mr. Murphy concluded that the further canvass of less developed countries "should not delay the completion of this legal proposal to protect the American investor." The State Department, he hopes, "will now be prepared to call for the prompt completion of this convention in the OECD and give it the active support that is now being given to the World Bank Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes as the two Conventions are complementary."

WHATEVER THE NAME

So-called Fair Trade legislation has been a question of moment for many years. Under it, manufacturers are allowed to establish prices at which retailers must sell the products concerned. The laws were unpopular with consumers, for the most obvious of reasons, and have become inoperative because of legislative and legal actions and decisions.

But the issue is not in limbo. What amounts to a Federal Fair Trade law is being actively pushed. It carries a different name -- "Quality Stabilization." That title, perhaps, is supposed to woo an unsuspecting and unknowing public.

But, whatever the name, this law and all others like it would produce the identical result. As a leading retail trade organization puts it, "The aim of the legislation is to allow manufacturers to short-circuit the anti-trust laws and set the price at which the merchandise which they produce under their own labels will be sold at retail. The goal is to effectively remove pricing decisions about these products from the hand of the retailer, and destroy price competition." Then, after reviewing at some length the arguments for and against the law, the organization decides that "it is clear that the legislation is, in nearly every sense of the word, a fraud." And it goes on to say: "More important, in our opinion, Fair Trade, under whatever name, is clearly a method of legalizing price fixing . . . The Bar Association, FTC, and the Justice Department have all urged that if Congress really wants to help small businessmen fight off 'harmful' price competition, they might better give serious consideration to an anti-below cost sales bill."

No business, large or small, is going to be helped in the long run by laws which eliminate honest competition and permit exploitation of the consumers. And the misnamed "Quality Stabilization" bill would, it seems, do just that.

THE PRICE SYSTEM

What is known as the price system -- a somewhat forbidding, but accurate, term -- is at the very heart of this country's economy. It makes that economy tick. Yet its significance, like its day -to-day workings, is a mystery to millions of us.

A publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States does a good job of defining the system, and of describing what it is designed to do. It says: "So important are the functions performed by the price system in an exchange economy, that it has been observed that if the system had not evolved it would have been necessary to invent it. Stripped to its barest essentials the price system communicates the relative pressures of supply and demand through individual price changes that act as signals to producers and consumers. For consumers, the price system serves as an autmatic rationing device inducing them to buy more or less of an item depending upon whether the price falls or rises as a result of changes in supply. Thus price changes bring about a reallocation of consumer spending among different products . . . If a price system is to fulfil its basic functions. . . prices must be free to move both up and down in adjusting to changes in consumer preferences and incomes, methods of production and changes in relative scarcities of productive resources."

What this means is that a price increase, or a price decrease for that matter, is not automatically good or bad. In a competitive economy such as ours, these are the natural and inevitable reflection of a myriad of natural forces.

As consumers, we see this personally and daily as we shop in retail stores of every kind. The stores must stock and offer what we want, or lose our patronage. The price charged for anything is set by competi factors and, also, by the scope and dependability of the demand for it. So the price system is, among so many other things, a producer of abundance, and a satisfier of public needs and wants.

The situation continues about the same today.

—PROGRESS IN VIET NAM—

Despite the civil war, President Johnson has increased the public school enrollment of South Vietnamese children from 500,000 to one and a half million. He has also doubled the rice production of South Viet Nam.

"I would be glad to do this for North Viet Nam too," the President told friends the other day, "but they won't sit down and talk to me. I'm ready to talk to them at any time, anywhere, about peace and future improvement of their country, but they simply will not talk."

—OUT WITHERING UN POSITION—

There was a lot of gossip that LBJ switched his UN speech at the last minute because the redoubtable Scotty Reston of the New York Times had tipped his hand by reporting that the President would announce a big voluntary American gift to the UN at San Francisco.

Real fact is that certain high-up Americans in the UN were urging this. But actually, the President issued three advance warnings that he wouldn't go for it. About two weeks before the speech he told a group of newsmen not to expect anything sensational from his UN speech.

Later he had George Reedy, White House Press Secretary, call in reporters and give them the same warning. On top of this he suggested to his friend, columnist Bill White, to play down the speech, which White did.

In one White House meeting, the President reminded advisers, "You fellows told me this was just a big ceremonial affair." And he stuck to that advice.

Many diplomats had hoped that the President would reaffirm in glowing terms our dedication to the United Nations and breathe new life into its comatose body. He may do this next September when the UN Assembly meets for its 20th session.

Meanwhile you can write it down as certain that Article 19 is dead and will be quietly forgotten. The view is unanimous inside the Administration not to tell the Russians what they should do and how much they should pay. We'll let our position wither away and, we hope, be forgotten during the summer.

—PRODUCTIVE CONGRESSMEN—

For more than ten years the Buffalo suburbs were represented in Congress by John R. Pillion, who continually got his name in the papers.

Pillion talked about everything under the sun from baiting duck blinds to his own report on Kennedy's assassination. He didn't believe the Warren Report. But despite the headlines, Pillion accomplished little that was tangible for the voters of Buffalo.

Last fall, Pillion was defeated by a young man named Dick McCarthy, who says little, works hard, doesn't get his name in the papers. But in his first six months in Washington, McCarthy came up with a $50,000,000 appropriation to clean up the waters of Lake Erie around Buffalo.

—CONSUMERS AND PRIZE FIGHTS—

Esther Peterson, White House Assistant for Protecting the Consumer, has written a letter to Rep. Bob Sweeney, D-Ohio, in reply to his request that she investigate the Cassius Clay - Sonny Liston prize fight.

"Although I do not normally follow — nor investigate — pugilistic productions, I have heard that this affair was something less than a consumer bargain," replied Mrs. Peterson.

"I am truly sorry for all who felt cheated by the brevity of combat," she added, and suggested that the Truth-in-Packing Bill might apply. "May I suggest the section authorizing regulations 'to establish or preserve fair competition between or among competing products' and 'prevent the deception of consumers as to such products.' "

Hoffa Privately Tells Teamsters Union Will Have 2 Million Members in Year

New York: -- Jimmie Hoffa, who has of recent days toned down his dress and public image slipped quietly into town the other day. He was hiding from no one. But neither was he having any bugles blown nor was he papering the city rooms with advance flak.

He went as he came -- quietly, unnoticed, unreported -- but not before he cut loose with a significant speech to a Teamsters' local at the Waldorf.

In what was quite an oration, Hoffa disclosed that the Teamsters' brotherhood would be 2 million strong by its next convention -- Jule 1966.

He revealed that the brotherhood now actually had over 1.75 million.

His audience, and the fact that he would make one of his rare New York trips to address it, were indications that Hoffa's new drives would be in the civil service field where the potential is in the millions.

Those who heard Hoffa that evening (Friday, June 25) in the Waldorf grand ballroom were members of Local 237, made up of over 17,000 New York City employes. Their leader, William Lewis, son of a Negro slave, now is attempting to unionize several city departments.

Most of the membership is Negro and Puerto Rican, and Hoffa told the diners that they make up the fifth largest Teamsters' affiliate in the land. If Lewis succeeds in his new campaign, it will be the largest local in the brotherhood. At the moment it seems likely that the local will add another 15,000 members next September, when the Dept. of Hospitals nurses' aids and "institutional aids" take a vote on affiliation.

If the hospital workers vote to join the Teamsters, the local will have a total of 32,000 members -- and still have a huge field before it.

Those at the banquet, an annual affair run to raise money to send underprivileged youngsters to summer camps, heard Hoffa hurl pledges of support for the civil service unionization campaign. His speech was so fiery there'd have been spontaneous combustion were it not for the cooling system.

Obviously Hoffa liked what he saw and heard -- and the vistas of hundreds of cities and vast potential memberships stretched out before him.

He talked of organizational strategy and next year's convention as though there were not the slightest chance of being in prison long before the 1966 conclave, as the result of two federal convictions.

At the pre-dinner reception he was ebullient, gay and bouncy--all without ever touching a drink. He made the rounds. He posed for pictures with every shop steward available. He disdained those who by-passed the rank and file for more glamorous pursuits here and aboard.

Though he refers to himself as "Hoffa", the chunky little chap was "Jimmie" to everybody. If there ever was any doubt that the so-called anti-Hoffa revolt of 18 months ago was smashed, evenings such as the one at the Waldorf wiped them out.

These cheers, the eagerness to shake his hand, the shouldering to get through to him at scores of such banquets proves that he will be unanimously re-elected at the '66 convention.

He showed no tension, though the decision of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati is about due, since the case was argued some six months ago.

Those who heard him assail the Supreme Court for its decision to put unions, in some instances, under the anti-trust laws, those who heard him call for a fight to prevent this ruling from "shackling" the labor movement, those who listened as he talked of new campaigns, got the impression that Hoffa just did not believe this court or any other would send him to prison for eight years.

There is no rust on his steel nerves.

Ellen Hempstone Bowman Is Washington D.C. Debutante

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Miss Ellen Hempstone Bowman was presented last Saturday to friends of three generations at a late afternoon reception and garden party given by her parents, Marine Corps Colonel and Mrs. John Webster Bowman, in their home in Washington, D. C.

The petite blue-eyed brunette received with her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. Smith Hempstone, both of whom made their debuts in Washington. Colonel Bowman is formerly of Sikeston and Miss Bowman is the granddaughter of Mr. and Lee Reed Bowman and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Austin Bowman, all of Sikeston. Her great - grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Floyd Cox and the late Judge and Mrs. W. C. Bowman, also all of Sikeston.

Miss Bowman's mother is the former Eleanor Noyes Hempstone of Washington and her maternal grandfather was the late Captain Smith Hempstone, U.S.N. Through her mother's family Miss Bowman is a seventh generation Washingtonian, a rarity in that transient city. Miss Bowman's great - grandfather was the late Theodore W. Noyes, for nearly fifty years editor of the Washington Star; and her great-great-grandfather was Crosby Stuart Noyes, the Star's first owner-editor.

For her debut, where a Hawaiian atmosphere prevailed, Miss Bowman wore a long white gown made of alternate rows of imported French lace and tucked organdy, accented at the waist by a pale blue sash of silk taffeta. She carried a bouquet of white orchids sent to her from Hawaii. Mrs. Bowman's long gown was of pale blue chiffon and Mrs. Hempstone wore taffeta brocade in a deeper blue.

Flaming luau torches at the front door gave the first indication of the Polynesian flavor of the party within, and the huge garden behind the house was circled with more of the burning torches. Especially flown in from the Islands were the many flowers used throughout the house and garden to create a Hawaiian decor. Dramatic arrangements of pink anthurium and white anthurium, lavender dendrobium orchids and white cattleya orchids were placed about the house and centered the dining room table where a buffet was spread.

Several hundred guests greeted the debutante at the far end of the living room, which was banked with baskets and vases of flowers sent by friends, and then passed on through the French doors to the garden. At the far end of the garden a quartet of Hawaiian musicians played and sang Island melodies throughout the evening. At one side of the garden a large native hut was the focal point of the decor while the other side was dominated by a six foot tiki (ancient Hawaiian idol) carved of hapu wood. Beautifully arranged mounds of fresh pineapples, bananas, papayas and coconuts were strategically placed about the fragrant leis of yellow plumeria were draped on the ivy-covered fences. The buffet tables were covered with either cloths of Hawaiian tapa design or blue and green fishnets, decorated with flowers, shells and driftwood.

Eight of Miss Bowman's contemporaries assisted at the party and were easily spotted by their triple - strand white leis of tiny, delicate pikake flower. Among these young ladies were her two cousins, Miss Joan Thompson and Miss Patricia McDowell, also debutantes of this season.

Immediately following the reception Miss Bowman's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Hempstone Jr., gave a dinner in her honor at the Chevy Chase Club.

Miss Bowman is a June graduate of Miss Porter's School, Farmington, Connecticut, and previously attended the Holton-Arms School in Washington and Punahou Academy in Honolulu, Hawaii. She will enter Randolph - Macon Women's College in Lynchburg, Virginia, in September. Miss Bowman is a talented artist and will study painting this summer at the Corcoran Gallery Art School in Washington. Her other interests include tennis, swimming and horseback riding.

After a year serving with the Marine division on the island of Okinawa in the Pacific, Colonel Bowman returned to Washington in November 1963. At present he is Chief of Communications and Electronics for the Marine Corps.

Dogwood Methodist Church was the scene Friday, June twenty - fifth, of the wedding of Miss Myrna Gayle Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Maxwell of East Prairie, and John A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Johnson of Leachville, Ark.

The Reverend Harold O. Norton performed the double ring ceremony at eight o'clock in the evening before a setting of a large arched candelabra and tree candelabra enhanced with small pink flowers and fern and holding pale pink tapers. Standards of white gladioli and palm plants also decorated the altar of the church. Pews marked with pink bows and greenery completed the setting.

Mrs. Howard Schneider, organist, rendered the pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jim Bishop, vocalist, as she sang "Always," "The Wedding Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

The radiant bride was escorted down the white carpeted bridal aisle and given in marriage by her father. Her gown was fashioned of imported silk organza and imported Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice and long tapering sleeves were made of the Chantilly lace. The scalloped Sabrina neckline was re-embroidered with pearls and the back and sleeves were closed with tiny covered buttons.

The chapel - length gown had its own built-in crinoline which formed the unusual bell shaped silhouette. The skirt was caught up in back with soft folded organza. A godet like insert of Chantilly lace flowed gracefully to form the chapel train. The controlled skirt, touched with the beauty of lace, peeked out from the soft folds of organza in front.

The bride's headdress was an elegant queen's crown of lace covered petals outlined with pearls and touched with hand-cut crystals. A three tiered bouffant veil studded with pearls was attached to the crown.

The former Miss Maxwell carried a bouquet made of white carnations and lilies of the valley in the shape of a cross and centered with a white orchid. Trailing ivy enhanced the arrangement.

Mrs. Bob Maxwell of East Prairie, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Butch McHaney of Sikeston, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Paul Wildy of Leachville, Ark., sister of the groom and Mrs. Ronnie Kennett of Leachville, Ark., sister of the groom.

The attendants were dressed alike in floor - length sheath gowns of cherry colored silk chiffon over taffeta. The bodices featured a new empire waistline and a deep renaissance neckline. The sleeves were long sheer chiffon. The back was set off with a floating panel of chiffon and a soft tailored bow.

They wore clusters of organza petals and orange blossoms for their headpieces. Four tiered nose tip veils of dyed - to-match maline was attached to the headpieces. Their flowers were cascade bouquets of pink and white with trailing English ivy.

Miss Phyllis Duke of East Prairie was flower girl. She was gowned in a dress styled identical to the attendants'. She wore a band of white orange blossoms with a nose tip veil of maline. She carried a white basket trimmed in pink and filled with pompoms.

The candlelighters were Miss Paulette Powers of East Prairie and Mrs. David Renaud of Charleston.

RECEPTION

Miss Myrna Gayle Maxwell Is June Bride Of John Johnson

Dogwood Methodist Church was the scene Friday, June twenty - fifth, of the wedding of Miss Myrna Gayle Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Maxwell of East Prairie, and John A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Johnson of Leachville, Ark.

The Reverend Harold O. Norton performed the double ring ceremony at eight o'clock in the evening before a setting of a large arched candelabra and tree candelabra enhanced with small pink flowers and fern and holding pale pink tapers. Standards of white gladioli and palm plants also decorated the altar of the church. Pews marked with pink bows and greenery completed the setting.

Mrs. Howard Schneider, organist, rendered the pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jim Bishop, vocalist, as she sang "Always," "The Wedding Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

The radiant bride was escorted down the white carpeted bridal aisle and given in marriage by her father. Her gown was fashioned of imported silk organza and imported Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice and long tapering sleeves were made of the Chantilly lace. The scalloped Sabrina neckline was re-embroidered with pearls and the back and sleeves were closed with tiny covered buttons.

The chapel - length gown had its own built-in crinoline which formed the unusual bell shaped silhouette. The skirt was caught up in back with soft folded organza. A godet like insert of Chantilly lace flowed gracefully to form the chapel train. The controlled skirt, touched with the beauty of lace, peeked out from the soft folds of organza in front.

The bride's headdress was an elegant queen's crown of lace covered petals outlined with pearls and touched with hand-cut crystals. A three tiered bouffant veil studded with pearls was attached to the crown.

The former Miss Maxwell carried a bouquet made of white carnations and lilies of the valley in the shape of a cross and centered with a white orchid. Trailing ivy enhanced the arrangement.

Mrs. Bob Maxwell of East Prairie, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Butch McHaney of Sikeston, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Paul Wildy of Leachville, Ark., sister of the groom and Mrs. Ronnie Kennett of Leachville, Ark., sister of the groom.

The attendants were dressed alike in floor - length sheath gowns of cherry colored silk chiffon over taffeta. The bodices featured a new empire waistline and a deep renaissance neckline. The sleeves were long sheer chiffon. The back was set off with a floating panel of chiffon and a soft tailored bow.

They wore clusters of organza petals and orange blossoms for their headpieces. Four tiered nose tip veils of dyed - to-match maline was attached to the headpieces. Their flowers were cascade bouquets of pink and white with trailing English ivy.

Miss Phyllis Duke of East Prairie was flower girl. She was gowned in a dress styled identical to the attendants'. She wore a band of white orange blossoms with a nose tip veil of maline. She carried a white basket trimmed in pink and filled with pompoms.

The candlelighters were Miss Paulette Powers of East Prairie and Mrs. David Renaud of Charleston.

V. S. Johnson of Leachville, Ark., served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Larry Johnson of Leachville, Ark., cousin of the groom; Bob Maxwell of East Prairie, cousin of the bride and Butch McHaney of Sikeston, cousin of the bride.

Ushers were Jerry Maxwell of East Prairie, brother of the bride; Bill Maxwell of East Prairie, cousin of the bride; Paul Wildy of Leachville, Ark., brother-in-law of the groom and Allen Monroe of Brinkley, Ark., college roomate of the groom.

Ringbearer was Joe French, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene French of New Madrid. He is a cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Maxwell chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue lace dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Johnson wore a pink silk dress with matching accessories.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining hall. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with pink netting gathered at three points and fastened with bows. A four tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the table. A silver punch bowl appointed either side of the cake. Silver candelabras holding pink tapers graced the table. Nuts and mints were served from silver compotes.

Mrs. Rebecca Sharp was in charge of the reception. Mrs. Marilyn Jackson, Miss Pat Master and Mrs. Don Ashley served at the reception. Mrs. Bill Maxwell presided at the guest register.

Miss Ellen Lingle and Miss Carol McMikle, both of East Prairie, gave rice bags to the guests.

Cards Down Bucs 7-1, Washburn Wins

The Athletics, getting excellent performances from their relief hurlers, swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night, 2-1 and 4-3, in Kansas City.

The St. Louis Cardinals got back on the winning trail last night, crushing Pittsburgh, 7-1.

The A's scored twice in the first inning of the opener. Ed Charles drove Bert Campaneris home with a sacrifice fly and Mike Hershberger singled to score Jim Landis.

Kansas City held the 2-0 advantage until the ninth when Bill Skowron doubled and scored on a single by Danny Cater off reliever Don Mossi. But the Athletics' John Wyatt came out of the bullpen and retired the next three batters in order.

The A's also scored in the first inning of the nightcap. Campaneris singled. He stole second for his 26th steal of the season and scored on a throwing error by J. C. Martin.

Chicago came back, scoring single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth to take a 3-1 lead.

Rookie Larry Stahl pulled the A's into a 3-3 tie when he tagged Sox pitcher Bruce Howard for a 2-run homer in the seventh.

In the last of the ninth, Charles singled, and after two walks, scored when Campaneris was hit by a pitch.

Fred Talbot won his sixth game of the season in the opener. He has four losses. The loser was Gary Peters, now 5- and -6, who lost to the Athletics for the first time in his career.

In the nightcap, reliever Jim Dickson was credited with the win, evening his season's record at 1-1.

The A's take today off.

The Pirates scored their only run in the first inning against the Cards at Pittsburgh. Bill Virdon walked, Roberto Clement doubled and Virdon scored on an infield out.

St. Louis took over the lead in the fifth when Bill White and Ken Boyer singled and Curt Flood doubled. Tim McCarver then was intentionally walked, loading the bases, and when third basemen Bob Bailey threw to first too late on Jerry Buchek's grounder, Boyer scored the go-ahead run on the error.

The Cards put the game on ice in the eighth, scoring five runs on six singles and two walks-one an intentional pass.

Vern Law, now 8-6, allowed only four hits in eight innings, but had his winning streak snapped at eight straight. Ray Washburn picked up the victory for St. Louis, evening his record at 5-5.

Curt Simmons 4-8 starts for the Cardinals tonight at Pittsburgh. Bob Veale 8-5 will pitch for the Pirates.

Lewis Furniture Wins Over Kiwanis In 10 Inning Duel

Last night, in an American League make up game, Lewis Furniture eased by Kiwanis 4 to 3, in 10 innings.

It was strictly a pitching affair, as both teams had two fine little pitchers, who faired well under the nights action. Schatzley started on the hill for Lewis, he left the game with the score tied at 3 all in the sixth inning. Schatzley had given up only three hits in the contest. He was relieved by Corrigan, who hurled the last four innings. Corrigan gave up 1 hit, in 4 inning pitch and allowing no runs. Corrigan was the winning pitcher, as he and Schatzley combined to throw a 4 hitter at the Kiwanis team.

For Kiwanis, Miller pitched the first 6 innings, gave up only 3 runs, on 3 hits and was relieved by Collins. Collins was the losing pitcher, although he allowed only one run, on one hit, in 4 innings of brilliant relief pitching.

Vines and Schatzley got two hits each, to pace the Lewis Furniture team in the hitting department.

Collins, Hosey, Leible and Adams all had one hit to lead Kiwanis.

Security Edges Police Canvas Bombs First National

Two games were completed in the American League at Farris Field last night. The first game of the evening went a complete nine innings and the second was only necessary to go five.

In the first game, Security Federal squeezed to a victory over the strong hitting Police, with two runs in the ninth frame of the contest to break the five to five tie which lasted for the four previous frames. The first frame began with a two to one lead for Security. In the second, they grabbed another run to total it to three to one. Police began to move in the third to collect three runs; however, Security also pounded two runs across the plate to bring the score to five to four. Security did not score until the top of the nineth when they broke the tie with their two winning runs. In the fourth Police tied the game up with another run scored off their two hits of that frame.

Winning Security, however, only produced three hits compared to their opponents seven.

Nelson was credited with the win with Overby and Porter handing him aid. Nelson, with his help, gave up seven runs and five hits. Terrell, after relieving Davis in the fifth, took the loss for the law enforcers.

Nelson, while pitching a good game, pounded two singles in the seventh and the nineth to help drive in their two final runs. Gooch contributed the only other hit for the winners. Moore and Terrell each had two for four in their battle with Security.

The second game of the night in the Little League action was the exact opposite of the previous game. Canvas Products tromped over First National as they tripled their score in only five innings. The final score after five complete frames of play was Canvas 15 and First National five.

The score was tied, two to two in the first and also tied in the second three to three. However, in the third, First National decided to cut off the tie and put another run on the scoreboard for their team. That brought the score to five to four in favor of First National.

First National did not score again. However, Canvas Products grabbed their magic wand and banged nine hits to push around their baserunners to the plate to score ten times. In the fifth, Canvas went on to add one more run to their books.

McDowell, with aid from Sipult in the fourth, took the victory for the strong hitting Canvas Products. Lingle, who pitched three innings, took the loss for First National. Ensor and Montgomery both helped Lingle in the fatal attempt to beat Canvas. McDowell, with his help, allowed First National only four hits to bring in their five runs. Also with help, Lingle let Canvas score 15 times on 11 hits.

Shaw pounded two singles for First National, and Stewart, Sipult, Jackson, and McDowell, all had two hits for Canvas.

By DON SAVAGE

One of Sikeston's foremost fishermen, Sonny Campbell, resident of Wakefield Street in our city, has recently had a story written about him in the July issue of Sports Afield.

The story done by famed writer Robert E. Price tells of the tragedy that may often face a fisherman in the southern part of the United States due to the excess growth of moss that takes control in our lakes.

Sonny, master fisherman, has taken advantage of this situation and turned a minus into a plus, with his excellent fishing techniques and lures. All this adds up to some excellent fishing tips and makes man the master over the large mouth bass, regardless of the season. The article is entitled "Foraging for Dog-Day Bass" and I highly recommend it for its excellent content.

Sonny took Mr. Price on a fishing trip to Duck Creek. This took place last summer and the moss had climbed near the surface of the water and made fishing near impossible, or so thought Mr. Price. With Sonny's fishing skill and a lure called, "The Moss King", the hot, humid day was turned into a fisherman's dream, with some fine large mouth bass being caught by the two fishermen.

The Moss King is the answer to fishing in heavy moss. This has been a handicap to many fishermen, but it can now be overcome with this excellent lure. To add even more class to the article for Sikeston, the Moss King is made right in our own town. It is manufactured by the Skipper Bait Company, a small but growing concern in our city. The lure is designed to be fished in moss and weeds. It will crawl over logs, limbs and brush without snagging. You can retrieve it fast or slow and it will remain on the surface. It was designed by a New Madrid man and is patented.

Chamberlain May Turn Fighter

NEW YORK AP -- Can you imagine big Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 pro basketball star, as a heavyweight fighter?

Maybe it isn't as fantastic as it sounds. Chamberlain isn't as frail as he appears at first glance. He is a 28-year-old, sturdy 250-pounder who has held his own in many a rumpus in National Basketball Association games.

Chamberlain said Wednesday he "definitely is contemplating" switching from sinking a basket to socking an opponent. "I've had several offers, but I haven't made up my mind. I'll make my decision when I'm ready. That could be anytime."

Jazy Sets World Mark In 5,000 Meters

HELSINKI, Finland AP -- Rampaging Michel Jazy of France, breaking world records at a fantastic clip, may go after his second gold medal in as many days in the World Games today.

Jazy, who broke two European records in winning the 5,000-meter run Wednesday, is tentatively scheduled to go in the 1,500 meters today against a field that includes Jim Grelle and Dyrol Burleson of Oregon.

The 29-year-old Frenchman finished the 5,000 meters in 13:27.6, breaking his own pending European mark and beating Australia's Ron Clarke, the world record holder at the distance, and two American Olympic gold medal winners.

Clarke, who has the pending world mark of 13:25.8, finished third behind Kenya's Keine Kipchonge. U. S. Marine Billy Mills of Oceanside, Calif., the Olympic 10,000 - meter champion, was eighth and Bob Schul of West Milton, Ohio, the 5,000-meter Olympic winner, was 10th.

En route, Jazy also broke his own European mark for three miles, hitting that distance in 13:04.8.

Tony Lema Can Take The British Open Or Leave It

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO AP -- Champagne Tony Lema, the big name in the $70,000 Western Open golf tournament starting today, can take the British Open or leave it alone.

That's news, because Lema is defending champion in the British Open next week at Southport, England.

The Western Open at Tam O'Shanter Country Club ends Saturday.

"I'm not too crazy about playing golf in England," said Lema without elaboration, except to hint he is most interested in playing any tournament for what it's worth.

"After you win a certain amount of money in golf," continued Lema -- second in the PGA money-winning list, "it seems to become a matter of 'how many major tournaments you have won.'

"I've only won the British Open as a big one and I'm in this business to make money.

"They (Western Golf Association) weren't getting too many of the top money-winners and I'm one -- even if I'm not a big draw. I also don't think I can afford to pass up a tournament like this one to practice all week for another."

Skipping the Western Open are such top attractions as newly - crowned U. S. Open champion Gary Player; leading PGA money-winner Jack Nicklaus; and slumping star Arnie Palmer--all making the British Open their next stop.

Lema won last year's British Open at St. Andrews after only 36 holes of practice, flying to England, as he will do again Sunday, after the Western Open finish.

Lema last year tied for sixth in the Western, which was won by Chi Chi Rodriguez with a record-breaking 268, 16 under par.

Rodrigeuz and Lema head a field of 130 pros, including eight of the top 15 PGA money winners. The field will be cut to the low 75 scorers and ties after 36 holes and to the low 60s and ties after 54 holes.

Cards Down Bucs 7-1, Washburn Wins

The Athletics, getting excellent performances from their relief hurlers, swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night, 2-1 and 4-3, in Kansas City.

The St. Louis Cardinals got back on the winning trail last night, crushing Pittsburgh, 7-1.

The A's scored twice in the first inning of the opener. Ed Charles drove Bert Campaneris home with a sacrifice fly and Mike Hershberger singled to score Jim Landis.

Kansas City held the 2-0 advantage until the ninth when Bill Skowron doubled and scored on a single by Danny Cater off reliever Don Mossi. But the Athletics' John Wyatt came out of the bullpen and retired the next three batters in order.

The A's also scored in the first inning of the nightcap. Campaneris singled. He stole second for his 26th steal of the season and scored on a throwing error by J. C. Martin.

Chicago came back, scoring single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth to take a 3-1 lead.

Rookie Larry Stahl pulled the A's into a 3-3 tie when he tagged Sox pitcher Bruce Howard for a 2-run homer in the seventh.

In the last of the ninth, Charles singled, and after two walks, scored when Campaneris was hit by a pitch.

Fred Talbot won his sixth game of the season in the opener. He has four losses. The loser was Gary Peters, now 5- and -6, who lost to the Athletics for the first time in hs career.

In the nightcap, reliever Jim Dickson was credited with the win, evening his season's record at 1-1.

The A's take today off.

The Pirates scored their only run in the first inning against the Cards at Pittsburgh. Bill Virdon walked, Roberto Clement doubled and Virdon scored on an infield out.

St. Louis took over the lead in the fifth when Bill White and Ken Boyer singled and Curt Flood doubled. Tim McCarver then was intentionally walked, loading the bases, and when third basemen Bob Bailey threw to first too late on Jerry Buchek's grounder, Boyer scored the go-ahead run on the error.

The Cards put the game on ice in the eighth, scoring five runs on six singles and two walks-one an intentional pass.

Vern Law, now 8-6, allowed only four hits in eight innings, but had his winning streak snapped at eight straight. Ray Washburn picked up the victory for St. Louis, evening his record at 5-5.

Curt Simmons 4-8 starts for the Cardinals tonight at Pittsburgh. Bob Veale 8-5 will pitch for the Pirates.

Lewis Furniture Wins Over Kiwanis In 10 Inning Duel

Last night, in an American League make up game, Lewis Furniture eased by Kiwanis 4 to 3, in 10 innings.

It was strictly a pitching affair, as both teams had two fine little pitchers, who faired well under the nights action. Schatzley started on the hill for Lewis, he left the game with the score tied at 3 all in the sixth inning. Schatzley had given up only three hits in the contest. He was relieved by Corrigan, who hurled the last four innings. Corrigan gave up 1 hit, in 4 inning pitch and allowing no runs. Corrigan was the winning pitcher, as he and Schatzley combined to throw a 4 hitter at the Kiwanis team.

For Kiwanis, Miller pitched the first 6 innings, gave up only 3 runs, on 3 hits and was relieved by Collins. Collins was the losing pitcher, although he allowed only one run, on one hit, in 4 innings of brilliant relief pitching.

Vines and Schatzley got two hits each, to pace the Lewis Furniture team in the hitting department.

Collins, Hosey, Leible and Adams all had one hit to lead Kiwanis.

Security Edges Police Canvas Bombs First National

Two games were completed in the American League at Farris Field last night. The first game of the evening went a complete nine innings and the second was only necessary to go five.

In the first game, Security Federal squeezed to a victory over the strong hitting Police, with two runs in the ninth frame of the contest to break the five to five tie which lasted for the four previous frames. The first frame began with a two to one lead for Security. In the second, they grabbed another run to total it to three to one. Police began to move in the third to collect three runs; however, Security also pounded two runs across the plate to bring the score to five to four. Security did not score until the top of the nineth when they broke the tie with their two winning runs. In the fourth Police tied the game up with another run scored off their two hits of that frame.

Winning Security, however, only produced three hits compared to their opponents seven.

Nelson was credited with the win with Overby and Porter handing him aid. Nelson, with his help, gave up seven runs and five hits. Terrell, after relieving Davis in the fifth, took the loss for the law enforcers.

Nelson, while pitching a good game, pounded two singles in the seventh and the nineth to help drive in their two final runs. Gooch contributed the only other hit for the winners. Moore and Terrell each had two for four in their battle with Security.

The second game of the night in the Little League action was the exact opposite of the previous game. Canvas Products tromped over First National as they tripled their score in only five innings. The final score after five complete frames of play was Canvas 15 and First National five.

The score was tied, two to two in the first and also tied in the second three to three. However, in the third, First National decided to cut off the tie and put another run on the scoreboard for their team. That brought the score to five to four in favor of First National.

First National did not score again. However, Canvas Products grabbed their magic wand and banged nine hits to push around their baserunners to the plate to score ten times. In the fifth, Canvas went on to add one more run to their books.

McDowell, with aid from Sipult in the fourth, took the victory for the strong hitting Canvas Products. Lingle, who pitched three innings, took the loss for First National. Ensor and Montgomery both helped Lingle in the fatal attempt to beat Canvas. McDowell, with his help, allowed First National only four hits to bring in their five runs. Also with help, Lingle let Canvas score 15 times on 11 hits.

Shaw pounded two singles for First National, and Stewart, Sipult, Jackson, and McDowell, all had two hits for Canvas.

By DON SAVAGE

One of Sikeston's foremost fishermen, Sonny Campbell, resident of Wakefield Street in our city, has recently had a story written about him in the July issue of Sports Afield.

The story done by famed writer Robert E. Price tells of the tragedy that may often face a fisherman in the southern part of the United States due to the excess growth of moss that takes control in our lakes.

Sonny, master fisherman, has taken advantage of this situation and turned a minus into a plus, with his excellent fishing techniques and lures. All this adds up to some excellent fishing tips and makes man the master over the large mouth bass, regardless of the season. The article is entitled "Foraging for Dog-Day Bass" and I highly recommend it for its excellent content.

Sonny took Mr. Price on a fishing trip to Duck Creek. This took place last summer and the moss had climbed near the surface of the water and made fishing near impossible, or so thought Mr. Price. With Sonny's fishing skill and a lure called, "The Moss King", the hot, humid day was turned into a fisherman's dream, with some fine large mouth bass being caught by the two fishermen.

The Moss King is the answer to fishing in heavy moss. This has been a handicap to many fishermen, but it can now be overcome with this excellent lure. To add even more class to the article for Sikeston, the Moss King is made right in our own town. It is manufactured by the Skipper Bait Company, a small but growing concern in our city. The lure is designed to be fished in moss and weeds. It will crawl over logs, limbs and brush without snagging. You can retrieve it fast or slow and it will remain on the surface. It was designed by a New Madrid man and is patented.

Chamberlain May Turn Fighter

NEW YORK AP -- Can you imagine big Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 pro basketball star, as a heavyweight fighter?

Maybe it isn't as fantastic as it sounds. Chamberlain isn't as frail as he appears at first glance. He is a 28-year-old, sturdy 250-pounder who has held his own in many a rumpus in National Basketball Association games.

Chamberlain said Wednesday he "definitely is contemplating" switching from sinking a basket to socking an opponent. "I've had several offers, but I haven't made up my mind. I'll make my decision when I'm ready. That could be anytime."

CHICAGO AP -- Champagne Tony Lema, the big name in the $70,000 Western Open golf tournament starting today, can take the British Open or leave it alone.

That's news, because Lema is defending champion in the British Open next week at Southport, England.

The Western Open at Tam O'Shanter Country Club ends Saturday.

"I'm not too crazy about playing golf in England," said Lema without elaboration, except to hint he is most interested in playing any tournament for what it's worth.

JIMMY CHASTAIN left, and his parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Chastain, looked over the information sent them by the American Field Service pertaining to his departure for Germany. He will serve as a foreign exchange student this summer to the town of Varel and return home early in September.

Pastor's Son To Germany

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. — Jimmy Chastain, a 17-year-old high school senior here, and son of the Rev. L. J. Chastain, former pastor of the Miner Baptist Church, and Mrs. Chastain, left New York Friday for Varel, Germany, as an exchange student through the American Field Service. He will spend the summer with the John Schutte family in the northern German city near the North Sea. Mr. Schutte is a Baptist, and his wife and children speak some English.

The city of Varel has a population of 13,000, and is located near Denmark. The Schuttes have two children, and both have studied English in school. Their father is an engineer.

The young Texan hopes to gain a better understanding of his foreign hosts.

His future plans include pre-law study or to enter the field of radio-television. He is interested in debating. Speech is his subject.

Cotton Chopping And Wheat Harvest Near End

Chase Staging Return

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The chase: Mack Sennett invented it, Mike Todd polished it, and movie makers are now employing it to fashion road-show attractions.

Road shows — reserved-seat attractions at advanced prices — have stemmed from historical epics, "Cleopatra," "How the West Was Won"; hit musicals, "West Side Story," "My Fair Lady," "The Sound of Music," and religious pageants, "The 10 Commandments," "Ben-Hur," "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

With the supply of such subjects dwindling, studios have turned to the original story material based on the chase. Mike Todd employed the device with excellent returns for his "Around the World in 80 Days." Stanley Kramer gave it a comic twist with "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

This season has brought three road-show films which fill the screen with kinetic activity. The first was "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," which appears to be safely in the hit category.

Now come "The Great Race" and "The Hallelujah Trail."

"The Great Race" will be compared with "Magnificent Men," since both concern speed duels in the early 1900s. But they are successful in different ways. The airplane epic is basically English in its humor; "The Great Race" is American: boisterous, uninhibited, often outrageously funny.

Director Blake Edwards has employed $11 million of the Warner Bros. treasury and imagination in pursuing laughs for the film. Not all the gags score, and the pace sometimes seems almost too frenetic for human endurance. But interest never flags.

The leading figures are stereotypes— the demonic Professor Fate, attired in villainous black; the white-garbed Great Leslie; the newspaper woman-suffragette who tags along on their fanciful auto race from New York to Paris—they cross the Bering Strait via iceberg.

Fortunately, Edwards was able to secure the services of stars who could breathe life into these characters. Jack Lemmon creates a monumental villain, perhaps the best since Mack Swain menaced Charlie Chaplin. Tony Curtis lends style to the hero, and Natalie Wood is just dandy as the female interest.

"The Hallelujah Trail" attempts to satirize the Western, always a risky business. It succeeds only in part, providing moments of hilarity and occasional bellylaughs. But the story seems drawn out beyond its proper length, like a joke too long in the telling.

The situation is presented in mock-historic style: a wagon train of whisky is dispatched for the aid of Denver miners who face the peril of a parched winter. Converging on the train are opposing forces: a band of thirsty redskins; a hell-bent bunch of anti-liquor ladies; a cavalry force aimed at keeping the peace. They meet in a bloodless dust-storm battle that is the film's most inspired sequence.

The performers are led by Burt Lancaster and Lee Remick.

Brechtel Hunted By FBI

WASHINGTON — Theodore Matthew Brechtel, a convicted armed robber, who has reportedly vowed not to be taken alive and jumped from a second-story window to avoid trial on a federal charge of possessing a sawed-off shotgun, has been added to the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives.

On May 7, 1964, Brechtel escaped through a second floor bathroom window of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in New Orleans, where he was awaiting an X-ray examination while a federal prisoner charged with possession of a sawed-off shotgun. At the time of this flight, he was on parole from a prison sentence for armed robbery and is being sought based on a federal warrant issued at New Orleans, charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid confinement after conviction for armed robbery.

Since his escape, Brechtel, allegedly accompanied by his paramour, has been suspected of participation in numerous armed holdups and bank robberies.

His criminal record began in New Orleans, in 1956, when he was convicted of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 years' confinement which he began serving at the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola. After being released on parole, Brechtel was arrested in New Orleans in September, 1960, and, upon conviction of possession of stolen property, was sentenced to seven years' confinement at Angola, in addition to completing the balance of the original armed robbery term.

Released on parole again, he was subsequently arrested in Gretna and New Orleans, La., on charges of resisting arrest, investigation of parole violation, robbery and investigation of attempted murder, but was not prosecuted on any of these charges.

In December, 1963, he was charged by federal authorities with possession of a sawed-off shotgun in violation of the National Firearms Act and was being held in Federal custody at the time of his escape on May 7, 1964.

Brechtel, a white American who was born at New Orleans, Louisiana, on July 2, 1938, is 5 feet 10 ½ inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, has a slender build, medium complexion, blue eyes and light brown hair, which may be dyed black. He has a scar on his forehead, a cut scar on the left side of his face, two operation scars on the abdomen, a scar on the right wrist and one at the base of his right index finger. The name "Ted" is tattooed on his right arm and the name "Nat" is tattooed on his left arm. He has previously worked as a body and fender repairman, salesman and typist, is reportedly a neat dresser and may wear hornrimmed glasses or contact lenses.

He is known as an avid sports fan, has actively participated in prison track and field events and is a swift runner.

This fugitive is said to have a violent temper, escaped confinement while awaiting trial for possession of a sawed-off shotgun, may be armed with hand guns and a shotgun and has reportedly vowed not to be taken alive. He should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should any person receive information concerning his whereabouts he is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

During training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., we were instructed that when questioned by an officer we should respond with "Yes, sir," "No, sir" or "No excuse, sir." One day a base officer inspected the unit. Stopping before a recruit, he asked him if he liked the Army.

"Yes, sir," was the reply. The officer asked why.

Don't Get Tired At Wheel

ST. LOUIS — Driver fatigue will be a major ingredient in hundreds of serious accidents over the three-day Fourth of July holiday, warns the Automobile Club of Missouri.

Frequent stops, especially on the return trip home when the fatigue takes its toll in driver alertness, will prevent many potential accidents. Because traffic will be unusually heavy, allow extra time for the return trip, the Auto Club pointed out, and start home early.

A good driver does not drive until he feels his hands are part of the steering wheel. He doesn't attempt to set any personal mileage speed records.

The Auto Club also advised motorists to keep an eye on the speedometer, especially when driving on a divided, high-speed highway. After long hours of driving, motorists sometimes tend to get the illusion that the car is going slower than it really is.

The Auto Club also offered these tips to Fourth of July motorists: Be a defensive driver. The other guy might have had a bad weekend. Don't drive as if YOU own the road. Many serious accidents can be avoided by staying alert and always looking for a "way out" of a potential accident.

Be extremely careful about night driving speeds. More than 56 per cent of all traffic deaths occur between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. despite the fact that far fewer miles are driven during the period. Never drive ahead of your headlights. In other words, always be able to stop within the "seeing" distance of the headlights.

Finally, the Auto Club issued a strong warning against "tailgating", or following too closely. This is a dangerous and somewhat common practice in heavy traffic periods and should be avoided. Allow at least one car length for every ten miles-per-hour of speed of between cars.

Government Ownership

THE recent call of railway labor for nationalization of railroads is not surprising. Unconscionable featherbedding, that is, payment for work not done, is largely responsible for the plight of the railroads. Men are frequently paid a full day's wages for an hour or two of work, sometimes for no work.

Dr. Kershner

This practice is believed to cost the railroads about one-half billion dollars a year. Unions have demanded and got more than the traffic will bear. Among other things this has destroyed about three-quarters of the jobs formerly offered by the railroad industry, and has bankrupted many of the railroads.

Government regulations and excessive taxation have also been important factors in this unfortunate situation.

Railway labor leadership no doubt feels that, if the roads are nationalized, the deficits arising from their demands would be paid out of general tax revenue, regardless of the fact that the railroads would be operated at a loss. The American people should be informed regarding the probable outcome of railway nationalization.

France has 122 government managed industries, and most of them are losing money.

A recent French government report shows that French railroads lost 20 million dollars in 1964. The Paris airport lost 6 million dollars the same year. The government gas company lost 7 million dollars. The bus and subway system of Paris and the government managed electric company all suffer from a huge debt. During the very same period covered by this report, the private industry of France was booming.

The French government commission which released this report found that, in general, companies run by the government were suffering from an over-supply of "deadwood" in high positions. Too many unnecessary executives eat up the available payroll without contributing enough to their industry to offset their wages.

Those who advocate more and more government ownership, management, or control of American industries should give careful thought to the failures of the French government and other governments in this area. It is consistently true that private industry is more efficient and more productive than socialized industry.

Chase Staging Return

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The chase: Mack Sennett invented it, Mike Todd polished it, and movie makers are now employing it to fashion road-show attractions.

Road shows — reserved-seat attractions at advanced prices — have stemmed from historical epics, "Cleopatra," "How the West Was Won"; hit musicals, "West Side Story," "My Fair Lady," "The Sound of Music," and religious pageants, "The 10 Commandments," "Ben-Hur," "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

With the supply of such subjects dwindling, studios have turned to the original story material based on the chase. Mike Todd employed the device with excellent returns for his "Around the World in 80 Days." Stanley Kramer gave it a comic twist with "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

This season has brought three road-show films which fill the screen with kinetic activity. The first was "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," which appears to be safely in the hit category.

Now come "The Great Race" and "The Hallelujah Trail."

"The Great Race" will be compared with "Magnificent Men," since both concern speed duels in the early 1900s. But they are successful in different ways. The airplane epic is basically English in its humor; "The Great Race" is American: boisterous, uninhibited, often outrageously funny.

Director Blake Edwards has employed $11 million of the Warner Bros. treasury and imagination in pursuing laughs for the film. Not all the gags score, and the pace sometimes seems almost too frenetic for human endurance. But interest never flags.

The leading figures are stereotypes— the demonic Professor Fate, attired in villainous black; the white-garbed Great Leslie; the newspaper woman-suffragette who tags along on their fanciful auto race from New York to Paris—they cross the Bering Strait via iceberg.

Fortunately, Edwards was able to secure the services of stars who could breathe life into these characters. Jack Lemmon creates a monumental villain, perhaps the best since Mack Swain menaced Charlie Chaplin. Tony Curtis lends style to the hero, and Natalie Wood is just dandy as the female interest.

"The Hallelujah Trail" attempts to satirize the Western, always a risky business. It succeeds only in part, providing moments of hilarity and occasional bellylaughs. But the story seems drawn out beyond its proper length, like a joke too long in the telling.

The situation is presented in mock-historic style: a wagon train of whisky is dispatched for the aid of Denver miners who face the peril of a parched winter. Converging on the train are opposing forces: a band of thirsty redskins; a hell-bent bunch of anti-liquor ladies; a cavalry force aimed at keeping the peace. They meet in a bloodless dust-storm battle that is the film's most inspired sequence.

The performers are led by Burt Lancaster and Lee Remick.

Brechtel Hunted By FBI

WASHINGTON — Theodore Matthew Brechtel, a convicted armed robber, who has reportedly vowed not to be taken alive and jumped from a second-story window to avoid trial on a federal charge of possessing a sawed-off shotgun, has been added to the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives.

On May 7, 1964, Brechtel escaped through a second floor bathroom window of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in New Orleans, where he was awaiting an X-ray examination while a federal prisoner charged with possession of a sawed-off shotgun. At the time of this flight, he was on parole from a prison sentence for armed robbery and is being sought based on a federal warrant issued at New Orleans, charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid confinement after conviction for armed robbery.

Since his escape, Brechtel, allegedly accompanied by his paramour, has been suspected of participation in numerous armed holdups and bank robberies.

His criminal record began in New Orleans, in 1956, when he was convicted of armed robbery and sentenced to 15 years' confinement which he began serving at the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola. After being released on parole, Brechtel was arrested in New Orleans in September, 1960, and, upon conviction of possession of stolen property, was sentenced to seven years' confinement at Angola, in addition to completing the balance of the original armed robbery term.

Released on parole again, he was subsequently arrested in Gretna and New Orleans, La., on charges of resisting arrest, investigation of parole violation, robbery and investigation of attempted murder, but was not prosecuted on any of these charges.

In December, 1963, he was charged by federal authorities with possession of a sawed-off shotgun in violation of the National Firearms Act and was being held in Federal custody at the time of his escape on May 7, 1964.

Brechtel, a white American who was born at New Orleans, Louisiana, on July 2, 1938, is 5 feet 10 ½ inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, has a slender build, medium complexion, blue eyes and light brown hair, which may be dyed black. He has a scar on his forehead, a cut scar on the left side of his face, two operation scars on the abdomen, a scar on the right wrist and one at the base of his right index finger. The name "Ted" is tattooed on his right arm and the name "Nat" is tattooed on his left arm. He has previously worked as a body and fender repairman, salesman and typist, is reportedly a neat dresser and may wear hornrimmed glasses or contact lenses.

He is known as an avid sports fan, has actively participated in prison track and field events and is a swift runner.

This fugitive is said to have a violent temper, escaped confinement while awaiting trial for possession of a sawed-off shotgun, may be armed with hand guns and a shotgun and has reportedly vowed not to be taken alive. He should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should any person receive information concerning his whereabouts he is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

During training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., we were instructed that when questioned by an officer we should respond with "Yes, sir," "No, sir" or "No excuse, sir." One day a base officer inspected the unit. Stopping before a recruit, he asked him if he liked the Army.

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

The officer asked why.

Don't Get Tired At Wheel

ST. LOUIS — Driver fatigue will be a major ingredient in hundreds of serious accidents over the three-day Fourth of July holiday, warns the Automobile Club of Missouri.

Frequent stops, especially on the return trip home when the fatigue takes its toll in driver alertness, will prevent many potential accidents. Because traffic will be unusually heavy, allow extra time for the return trip, the Auto Club pointed out, and start home early.

A good driver does not drive until he feels his hands are part of the steering wheel. He doesn't attempt to set any personal mileage speed records.

The Auto Club also advised motorists to keep an eye on the speedometer, especially when driving on a divided, high-speed highway. After long hours of driving, motorists sometimes tend to get the illusion that the car is going slower than it really is.

The Auto Club also offered these tips to Fourth of July motorists: Be a defensive driver. The other guy might have had a bad weekend. Don't drive as if YOU own the road. Many serious accidents can be avoided by staying alert and always looking for a "way out" of a potential accident.

Be extremely careful about night driving speeds. More than 56 per cent of all traffic deaths occur between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. despite the fact that far fewer miles are driven during the period. Never drive ahead of your headlights. In other words, always be able to stop within the "seeing" distance of the headlights.

Finally, the Auto Club issued a strong warning against "tailgating", or following too closely. This is a dangerous and somewhat common practice in heavy traffic periods and should be avoided. Allow at least one car length for every ten miles-per-hour of speed of between cars.

France has 122 government managed industries, and most of them are losing money.

A recent French government report shows that French railroads lost 20 million dollars in 1964. The Paris airport lost 6 million dollars the same year. The government gas company lost 7 million dollars. The bus and subway system of Paris and the government managed electric company all suffer from a huge debt. During the very same period covered by this report, the private industry of France was booming.

The French government commission which released this report found that, in general, companies run by the government were suffering from an over-supply of "deadwood" in high positions. Too many unnecessary executives eat up the available payroll without contributing enough to their industry to offset their wages.

Those who advocate more and more government ownership, management, or control of American industries should give careful thought to the failures of the French government and other governments in this area. It is consistently true that private industry is more efficient and more productive than socialized industry.

July Should Be Lively

NEW YORK — July should be livelier this time than customary for the usually take-it-easy month. Factories will be busier. Fewer will be closing down for long vacations. In slacker years these often are prolonged for maintenance, repair and other reasons.

A lot of the bustle in the coming month will be due to concern over what may happen in the steel labor negotiations. But a lot will be due to the generally faster economic pace this year than last.

The business upswing is now in its 53rd month, with slowdowns more talked about than apparent as yet.

The stock market provided the most excitement in June. But the long downturn in prices appears to have changed few business plans.

Steel mills report orders on hand will keep them turning out metal at a faster clip than previous Julys.

Customers will be stockpiling some of it as a hedge against the threat of a steel strike Sept. 1. But manufacturers will be using up a lot of the steel to meet their own big backlog of orders.

Many expect the steel labor situation to jell this month. Labor's demands should become clear — and also, how far management will go in meeting them. At stake: A strike, an expensive settlement that could mean price increases, or a settlement within the gains in productivity so that the price line can be held.

Concern over the steel situation is reported to be affecting some of the auto industry's plans. One result is to make for a lively July. Shutdowns for model changeovers may come a bit later this year, while the industry piles up a stock of cars in dealers' hands to tide them over in case a steel strike hampered production in the early fall.

Many business firms report confidence that profits will continue to rise during July and the rest of the third quarter. Corporate earning hit a record pace in the first three months of the year. The total apparently rose again in the last three months, although probably at a slower rate.

Unless unexpected events in July deal blows to business and consumer confidence, better than seasonal activity should keep the comparative profit figures on the pleasant side.

One activity that seems sure to have a fresh record in the bag is vacation and travel spending.

Americans are taking longer vacations, longer trips, and spending more on their way and after they get there. Benefitting are the resorts themselves, transportation companies, gas stations, motels, sellers of recreation gear. The last can range all the way from swimming suits to cabin cruisers, mountain climbing outfits to seashore cottages.

A lot of other places besides Wall Street are going to be busier than ever this July.

Ford To Appear At Fair

"The Old Pea Picker" in person, Tennessee Ernie Ford, will make his first personal appearance in Memphis during the 1965 Mid-South Fair as one of the outstanding attractions booked into the new $5-million Mid - South Coliseum. The Tennessee Ernie Ford Show, with an all-star cast of television performers, is scheduled for a 3-day run starting on September 30.

Ernie Ford

The World's Championship Rodeo, featuring Michael Landon, "Little Joe" of the top-rated television series, "Bonanza" will open the Fair on September 24. Appearing with the Rodeo will be the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Musical Ride, making their first tour of southern states. The Lawrence Welk Show with the entire television cast will move into the Coliseum on September 28 and 29 for four performances.

The Mid - South Fair opens on Friday, September 24, and runs through October 2. Many free attractions will be offered to the Fairgoers. Among the unusual features this year will be the "Pork Chop Review" starring a troop of trained pigs; a Gay 90's Village with a line of can-can girls performing hourly; the Gil Gray Circus under the big top with 12 big acts gathered from all over the world; and a complete Roller Skating Fantasy with a cast of 45 skaters.

Mid-South Fair officials announce that another new feature of the 1965 Fair will be the Mid-South Square Dance Spectacular with hundreds of dancers from throughout the Mid-South participating. They will perform each night throughout the 9-day period of the Fair.

Other free attractions to be on view at the Mid-South Fair this year will be a tremendous youth talent contest, and the "Fairest of the Fair" contest with 50 of the Mid-South's most beautiful girls competing for the title and prizes.

Two of the most popular features of last year's Fair will be repeated this year; the Memphis Police Department dogs will go through their routines twice each day and the Memphis Fire Department Band will be on hand daily with their lively music. Each night high school bands will march on the Fairgrounds leading parades of the Royal Canadian Mounties on their magnificient horses. Animals and circus wagons from the Gil Gray Circus will add glamour and color to these nightly parades.

Noticing how expertly the man made his way to a seat in the club car in spite of the lurching train, I complimented him. "I do pretty well for an amputee," he said cheerfully. Then he told me his story.

The loss of his leg in the Korean War had made him bitter, he said, since it meant he probably would not be able to do what he wanted most — to be a salesman. Eventually he got his new leg, learned to walk with the aid of a cane and started out for his first job interview.

When he got to the building, he was so nervous that he went into the men's lounge to calm down. There, in a mirror, he saw himself leaning wearily on his cane. "You don't look much like a fellow who can handle a job that will require a lot of walking," he said to his reflection. Parking the cane in a corner, he walked out to the interview — and got the job.

"You know," he said, "I never went back for that cane."

SEN. EDWARD V. LONG of Missouri and his group view the undersea vacationland scene in the General Motors Futurama "ride into tomorrow" at the New York World's Fair. July Should Be Lively

NEW YORK — July should be livelier this time than customary for the usually take-it-easy month. Factories will be busier. Fewer will be closing down for long vacations. In slacker years these often are prolonged for maintenance, repair and other reasons.

A lot of the bustle in the coming month will be due to concern over what may happen in the steel labor negotiations. But a lot will be due to the generally faster economic pace this year than last.

The business upswing is now in its 53rd month, with slowdowns more talked about than apparent as yet.

The stock market provided the most excitement in June. But the long downturn in prices appears to have changed few business plans.

Steel mills report orders on hand will keep them turning out metal at a faster clip than previous Julys.

Customers will be stockpiling some of it as a hedge against the threat of a steel strike Sept. 1. But manufacturers will be using up a lot of the steel to meet their own big backlog of orders.

Many expect the steel labor situation to jell this month. Labor's demands should become clear — and also, how far management will go in meeting them. At stake: A strike, an expensive settlement that could mean price increases, or a settlement within the gains in productivity so that the price line can be held.

Concern over the steel situation is reported to be affecting some of the auto industry's plans. One result is to make for a lively July. Shutdowns for model changeovers may come a bit later this year, while the industry piles up a stock of cars in dealers' hands to tide them over in case a steel strike hampered production in the early fall.

Many business firms report confidence that profits will continue to rise during July and the rest of the third quarter. Corporate earning hit a record pace in the first three months of the year. The total apparently rose again in the last three months, although probably at a slower rate.

Unless unexpected events in July deal blows to business and consumer confidence, better than seasonal activity should keep the comparative profit figures on the pleasant side.

One activity that seems sure to have a fresh record in the bag is vacation and travel spending.

Americans are taking longer vacations, longer trips, and spending more on their way and after they get there. Benefitting are the resorts themselves, transportation companies, gas stations, motels, sellers of recreation gear. The last can range all the way from swimming suits to cabin cruisers, mountain climbing outfits to seashore cottages.

A lot of other places besides Wall Street are going to be busier than ever this July.

Ford To Appear At Fair

"The Old Pea Picker" in person, Tennessee Ernie Ford, will make his first personal appearance in Memphis during the 1965 Mid-South Fair as one of the outstanding attractions booked into the new $5-million Mid - South Coliseum. The Tennessee Ernie Ford Show, with an all-star cast of television performers, is scheduled for a 3-day run starting on September 30.

Ernie Ford

The World's Championship Rodeo, featuring Michael Landon, "Little Joe" of the top-rated television series, "Bonanza" will open the Fair on September 24. Appearing with the Rodeo will be the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Musical Ride, making their first tour of southern states. The Lawrence Welk Show with the entire television cast will move into the Coliseum on September 28 and 29 for four performances.

The Mid - South Fair opens on Friday, September 24, and runs through October 2. Many free attractions will be offered to the Fairgoers. Among the unusual features this year will be the "Pork Chop Review" starring a troop of trained pigs; a Gay 90's Village with a line of can-can girls performing hourly; the Gil Gray Circus under the big top with 12 big acts gathered from all over the world; and a complete Roller Skating Fantasy with a cast of 45 skaters.

Mid-South Fair officials announce that another new feature of the 1965 Fair will be the Mid-South Square Dance Spectacular with hundreds of dancers from throughout the Mid-South participating. They will perform each night throughout the 9-day period of the Fair.

Other free attractions to be on view at the Mid-South Fair this year will be a tremendous youth talent contest, and the "Fairest of the Fair" contest with 50 of the Mid-South's most beautiful girls competing for the title and prizes.

Two of the most popular features of last year's Fair will be repeated this year; the Memphis Police Department dogs will go through their routines twice each day and the Memphis Fire Department Band will be on hand daily with their lively music. Each night high school bands will march on the Fairgrounds leading parades of the Royal Canadian Mounties on their magnificent horses. Animals and circus wagons from the Gil Gray Circus will add glamour and color to these nightly parades.

Noticing how expertly the man made his way to a seat in the club car in spite of the lurching train, I complimented him. "I do pretty well for an amputee," he said cheerfully. Then he told me his story.

The loss of his leg in the Korean War had made him bitter, he said, since it meant he probably would not be able to do what he wanted most — to be a salesman. Eventually he got his new leg, learned to walk with the aid of a cane and started out for his first job interview.

When he got to the building, he was so nervous that he went into the men's lounge to calm down. There, in a mirror, he saw himself leaning wearily on his cane. "You don't look much like a fellow who can handle a job that will require a lot of walking," he said to his reflection. Parking the cane in a corner, he walked out to the interview — and got the job.

"You know," he said, "I never went back for that cane."

A 1,000,000 gallon storage tank similar to this one would be constructed near the VFW baseball park, if the $1,200,000 bond issue for water and sewer improvements is approved by the voters. The new tank would more than double the storage capacity of the present system, provide Sikeston with higher water pressures and improved fire protection.

7. City Bond Issue

Two Water Problems Plaguing Sikestonians

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

Low water pressures and red water are two problems that will be solved by the $1,200,000 proposal to improve Sikeston's water and sewer systems.

Increased water demands by the city's commercial, industrial, and residential areas have tended to lower the pressure in Sikeston's water distribution system. Some residents have reported noticeable decreases in water pressure over the last three or four years. Moreover, engineering studies show that water pressures presently drop as low as five pounds per square inch in some areas of the city.

Low water pressure is the result of the larger number of consumers now using the Sikeston water works. As Sikeston continues to grow and even more consumers begin to use the municipal system, water pressures will become still lower, unless the proposed water system improvements are approved.

A new well, a new storage tank, and larger water lines will be provided by the $600,000 water improvements proposal. These new facilities will increase the water pressure in certain areas as much as thirty pounds per square inch.

Besides increasing water pressure, the water improvements proposal will mean better water for Sikeston consumers. The city's raw water supply contains iron deposits and other slight impurities, and tends to be "aggressive" or mildly corrosive. These characteristics produce the "red water" which sometimes stains clothing during washing.

The $600,000 proposal for water system improvements has funds allotted for the control and elimination of this red discoloration. A new settling basin will be constructed to remove iron and other impurities more effectively; additional treatment will be introduced to restrain the "aggressive" nature of the water.

Thus, better service for the consumer is another advantage that would result from the $600,000 water and $600,000 sewer improvement plan.

FINDING THE WAY

Does Fog Blind YOU?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Any traveler gets to be an expert on fogs. I can tell you of a dozen distinguished and notable glories of nature that I've visited and haven't seen. The Matterhorn was "bedekt." The Zugspitz was shrouded. I caught a fleeting glimpse of famed Mt. Fujiyama. The glories of the pictures in the travel folders and those glamorous photographs on airline calendars indicate that the sun does break through on occasion. I can tell you about the fogs.

Included in my list is the gorge on Kauai. That delightful island of our 50th state is a glamorous spot. A friend told me ecstatically of the orchids and the marvels. We traveled over the little roads but when we arrived, I found a fog that blotted everything from view. My friend insisted on its beauty. I believed him. He had seen it and knew it.

This is more than a hazard in traveling. It becomes the experience of much of life. I think of the many people who insist that they see nothing in our announced moral convictions. Our acts create fogs which obliterate our words.

Sometimes we've taken people up the winding roads while we described the wonders of the kingdom of God. Our friends couldn't see it and there was nothing in reality to convince them that we had seen it.

We said that we believe in peace. We insisted that we espoused brotherhood. We commented on the beauties of the redemption of the individual. We talked of the exciting wonders of the newness of life. But in our foggy relationships and fuzzy reactions to challenges in personal and social relationships, there was a notable lack of enthusiasm.

It's obvious that just pretending to be a foghorn will not turn the trick. Radar can help. That's a kind of spiritual sensitivity that gets many persons through the shoals of difficulty. There are so many problems that have no clear and easy answers. Hunting for the right and the wrong in the confusing set of circumstances requires the quality that sent those first disciples of Jesus out into the world with a certainty of the living presence of their Master. There was difficulty on every side but for them the fog had lifted.

Decades ago Josiah Holland asked for such men:

God, give us men! a time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;

Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking.

These are the men whose faith in the living presence of God send them out to lift the fogs. The view is breathtaking!

Hugh Downs Realizes Dream

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't every man who gets the chance to realize a dream. But, by the time you read this, that's what I will be doing — aboard the 65-foot ketch Thane somewhere on the Pacific Ocean.

With me will be a crew of six, including my son, H. R. For four months we will leave television and the rest of "civilized life" far behind, following the trade winds to such intriguing ports of call as the Galapagos Islands, Nuku Hiva, Tahiti and Christmas Island.

Some of my friends are startled that I'm really going through with this thing. I'm not a foolhardy kid, they point out, but a grown man entering middle age. I have a family, a career, responsibilities. Sailing 8,800 miles in a small boat is, at best, a risky way to travel.

Perhaps they're right. But this voyage has been growing in my mind for five years, and no one can talk me out of it now, including NBC. In 1962, when I asked for a leave-of-absence clause in my contract, the network agreed. I think they thought I would never do anything so idiotic as to walk away from two network shows, that I'd keep talking about this adventure the rest of my life — without sailing past the three-mile limit.

Even I suspected I was kidding myself. But, bit by bit, the dream has come to life. For three years I investigated sailing ships until finally I saw the Thane, sailed her and fell in love with her.

Then I began assembling a crew. I brushed up on my long-time hobby of navigation. I gathered charts, weather records; studied the ocean currents in the Caribbean and Pacific, the Galapagos Islands off the South American coast, and French Polynesia.

I contacted the Marine Institute of the University of Miami and arranged with them to take aboard equipment for various oceanographic projects. During the trip we will devote much of our time to studying plankton and the spawning habits of tuna.

Finally, it was time to take the big step — telling NBC that I wouldn't be around for nearly half a year. "Why?" someone asked, and I realized it was the same question I had asked myself over and over.

Am I running toward something or away from something? Am I an overgrown adolescent trying to recapture his youth when I should be sedately settled on my veranda?

Or is it that there comes a time in a man's life when he must tune out the high, stringent voice of common sense and listen to the siren song of his most fanciful, romantic visions? I don't know the answer. But maybe it will come to me between the Galapagos Islands and Tahiti.

What I do know is that I've got a fine crew. Our little boat is as seaworthy as man can make it. Every danger has been assessed, every precaution taken. Now, all we need is a little cooperation from the Pacific and the elements.

If all goes well, I will be back in New York sometime in mid-October.

At this writing there isn't much else to do but get my head shaved (no haircuts or shaves for four months), stow my gear aboard and cast off.

Perhaps this is a foolhardy venture. Perhaps my friends are right — I should abandon ship before I ever set foot on deck.

But I don't intend to. I feel younger and more alive than I have for 20 years. That alone is worth any risk involved.

FINDING THE WAY

Does Fog Blind YOU?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Any traveler gets to be an expert on fogs. I can tell you of a dozen distinguished and notable glories of nature that I've visited and haven't seen. The Matterhorn was "bedekt." The Zugspitz was shrouded. I caught a fleeting glimpse of famed Mt. Fujiyama. The glories of the pictures in the travel folders and those glamorous photographs on airline calendars indicate that the sun does break through on occasion. I can tell you about the fogs.

Included in my list is the gorge on Kauai. That delightful island of our 50th state is a glamorous spot. A friend told me ecstatically of the orchids and the marvels. We traveled over the little roads but when we arrived, I found a fog that blotted everything from view. My friend insisted on its beauty. I believed him. He had seen it and knew it.

This is more than a hazard in traveling. It becomes the experience of much of life. I think of the many people who insist that they see nothing in our announced moral convictions. Our acts create fogs which obliterate our words.

Sometimes we've taken people up the winding roads while we described the wonders of the kingdom of God. Our friends couldn't see it and there was nothing in reality to convince them that we had seen it.

We said that we believe in peace. We insisted that we espoused brotherhood. We commented on the beauties of the redemption of the individual. We talked of the exciting wonders of the newness of life. But in our foggy relationships and fuzzy reactions to challenges in personal and social relationships, there was a notable lack of enthusiasm.

It's obvious that just pretending to be a foghorn will not turn the trick. Radar can help. That's a kind of spiritual sensitivity that gets many persons through the shoals of difficulty. No Bootheel Branch For State College

JEFFERSON CITY -- Despite the intervention of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and the nearly-solid bloc of support from Bootheel legislators, the Senate Economics Committee failed to approve H. B. 649. The measure, now dead in this session would have permitted Southeast Missouri State College to establish a branch college in the Bootheel area.

Prevailed upon by Bootheel-area legislators and friends in Southeast Missouri, Gov. Hearnes intervened in behalf of the bill, conferring a few days ago with the chairman of the Economics Committee, Sen. William Waters, Dem., of Liberty.

During yesterday afternoon's hearing, Sen. J. F. Patterson, Dem., of Caruthersville, who has opposed efforts to secure the legislation, said he would prefer not to participate in the deliberations of the committee. Sen. Patterson left the committee room before members of the Economics Committee made their decision to take no action on the measure, thus killing its chances in the final hours of the session.

Rep. Tom Baker, Dem., of Stoddard County, appeared before the committee's members to plead for the measure. He pointed to the lack of higher educational opportunities in the Bootheel, the large population in the area, and the need to provide such facilities for lower-income families.

The committee, charged with approving all new expenditures undertaken by the state, was being asked to approve a fiscal note of $50,000, the amount needed to begin operations of the proposed branch college facility.

Before it was killed in yesterday afternoon's committee meeting, H. B. 649 had received the approval of the House Higher Education Committee, the House of Representatives and the Senate Education Committee.

Offer Zoning Laws For Kennett

KENNETT -- Kennett's City Planning commission approved a proposed zoning map and an extensive set of recommended zoning ordinances. The approval of the zoning recommendations came just before the commission set the date for a public hearing on the recommendations it will eventually make to the Kennett City Council.

By a vote of 11 to 0, the commission approved both the zoning map and the 42-page set of proposed zoning ordinances.

A public hearing, required by law to inform citizens of the changes being made and to permit property owners to protest any zoning designations, has been set for Aug. 2.

The hearing will be held at the Dunklin County Circuit Courtroom starting at 7:30 p.m.

No Bootheel Branch For State College

JEFFERSON CITY -- Despite the intervention of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and the nearly-solid bloc of support from Bootheel legislators, the Senate Economics Committee failed to approve H. B. 649. The measure, now dead in this session would have permitted Southeast Missouri State College to establish a branch college in the Bootheel area.

Prevailed upon by Bootheel-area legislators and friends in Southeast Missouri, Gov. Hearnes intervened in behalf of the bill, conferring a few days ago with the chairman of the Economics Committee, Sen. William Waters, Dem., of Liberty.

During yesterday afternoon's hearing, Sen. J. F. Patterson, Dem., of Caruthersville, who has opposed efforts to secure the legislation, said he would prefer not to participate in the deliberations of the committee. Sen. Patterson left the committee room before members of the Economics Committee made their decision to take no action on the measure, thus killing its chances in the final hours of the session.

Rep. Tom Baker, Dem., of Stoddard County, appeared before the committee's members to plead for the measure. He pointed to the lack of higher educational opportunities in the Bootheel, the large population in the area, and the need to provide such facilities for lower-income families.

The committee, charged with approving all new expenditures undertaken by the state, was being asked to approve a fiscal note of $50,000, the amount needed to begin operations of the proposed branch college facility.

Before it was killed in yesterday afternoon's committee meeting, H. B. 649 had received the approval of the House Higher Education Committee, the House of Representatives and the Senate Education Committee.

Offer Zoning Laws For Kennett

KENNETT -- Kennett's City Planning commission approved a proposed zoning map and an extensive set of recommended zoning ordinances. The approval of the zoning recommendations came just before the commission set the date for a public hearing on the recommendations it will eventually make to the Kennett City Council.

By a vote of 11 to 0, the commission approved both the zoning map and the 42-page set of proposed zoning ordinances.

A public hearing, required by law to inform citizens of the changes being made and to permit property owners to protest any zoning designations, has been set for Aug. 2.

The hearing will be held at the Dunklin County Circuit Courtroom starting at 7:30 p.m.

Two or three thousand people attended the open air concert in Malone Park Wednesday evening, when the Cairo Good Will Tour offered a band concert and vaudeville entertainments.

By arrangements with members of the city council, the daily summer playground is held at Malone Park instead of the public school grounds. Miss Ruth Denman, supervisor, moved the crowd Wednesday morning for the first time. The change was made because of the lack of shade on the school grounds and becasue the school play equipment had been already moved in.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, who have been living in Indianapolis, Ind., have returned to locate here.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our beautiful 17-year-old daughter is in the bedroom sobbing her heart out. Her steady boy friend, Artie, told her this afternoon that he wants his ring and picture back. He didn't give any reason — just that he wants to date other girls and spend more time on athletics.

Do you know what it's like to hear a 17-year-old say she doesn't want to go on living? She hardly touched her dinner tonight and her eyes look like red coals. When she was telling us about her tragedy both my husband and I broke down and wept. Please say something to give us all courage. — EMPTY HEARTS

Dear Empty: If this is a tragedy I'm a belly dancer in a kootch joint. High school kids break up by the thousands every day. Pictures, rings, sweaters, pins and bracelets are shot back and forth like ping-pong balls.

Instead of weeping with your daughter you should have told her that the cry baby who folds like an accordion when things don't go her way is in for a rough time.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you said many people who want replies in the mail enclose envelopes which they address to Ann Landers instead of to themselves. You expressed surprise that so many people make this mistake.

Why? Don't you know the average American is a moron? I've worked in our city hall for 20 years and nothing surprises me anymore.

One woman who filled out a form for a driver's license recently wrote, after the word sex, "occasionally."

Then there are the old crows who knock 40 pounds off their weight and 10 years off their age when they fill out forms. Who do they think they are kidding? Last week a motherly type with snow white tresses put down "red" to describe her hair color. When I called the error to her attention she said, "I'm having it dyed tomorrow."

You, Ann Landers, should know that people can be awfully nutty. — OLD TIMER

Dear Old Timer: People can also be awfully warm-hearted, generous, heroic and unbelievably kind.

And since you work in city hall please pass the word to someone higher up that some of those goofy forms are worded in such confusing language that Einstein would need help.

Dear Ann Landers: I was delighted when you told that daughter-in-law it was up to her to write to her husband's mother. I didn't realize how much my cards meant to my mother-in-law until last Christmas. When we visited her she took out a huge bundle of cards which she had saved over the years.

Sandwiched in among my own were cards written by the children. There was one scrawled by our daughter when she was 10, written in the beauty shop while she waited to have her pigtails cut off. And there was a card from our son written from the dog and cat hospital. His little dog "Mr. Jones" had been struck by a car and he had just received word that "'Mr. Jones' is going to be O.K."

We had a good laugh over the card we had mailed while driving through Paris, Texas. We sent it as a gag, hoping Grandma would think we were in France.

Our "Too-Busy-To-Write Daddy" was touched by my consideration for his mother. I'm sure he appreciates me just a little more. — PATTY

Dear Patty: It's like I said — writing to a mother-in-law comes under the heading of being a good wife. You do it as much for your husband as for his mother. Cheers!

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What to Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., -- The official United States Air Force Dance Band, better known as the "World Famous Airmen of Note," will stage a two-day appearance here July 2nd and 3rd.

Under the direction of First Lieutenant Johnny O'Seekee, the "fabulous 17" have performed with some of the nation's leading stars. Such personalities as Art Baker, Joe E. Brown, Jack Carson and Veronica Lake, are only a few.

The group has performed at such outstanding engagements as the 1958 World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium, the Royal Festival Hall, London, England, and the Waikiki Shell, Honolulu, Hawaii.

From its inception the orchestra has been composed of former members of top professional dance bands. Presently included are representatives of the Tommy Dorsey, Les Elgart, Billy May, Ralph Flanagan, Les Brown and Harry James organizations.

Never to satisfied with single appearances, the world reknown jazzmen have appeared on television's "You Asked For It," "Stars On Parade," and the Lawrence Welk Show.

Perhaps the greatest highlight of the many performances by the Airmen of Note was the portrayal of the Glenn Miller Orchestra in the Universal-International motion picture "The Glenn Miller Story," at the special request of Mrs. Miller.

O'Seekee, the personable and highly talented leader of the USAF Dance Orchestra, boasts a rich musical heritage as well as a widely diversified musical background as a member of the "notes."

A native of Erie, Pa., he began his music study at the age of six. By the time he was in his teens, he led his own dance band at Erie High School.

As featured accordian soloist with the Band during its European Tours in 1950 and 1951, his virtuosity thrilled thousands of music lovers in London, Paris, Vienna, Berlin, and Amsterdam.

Highlighting these appearances were his performances before an audience of 130,000 in Berlin's Olympic Stadium and at a Command Performance for the Royal Family of England at Buckingham Palace.

While here, the "Notes" will perform at the Officer's Open Mess, the Noncommissioned Officer's Open Mess and the base Service Club, Kingsley Hall.

7TH INFANTRY DIV., KOREA (AHTNC) -- Army PFC Joe G. Waters, son of Campbell U. Waters, Route 1, Bertrand, Mo., was assigned to the 7th Infantry Division in Korea, June 19.

Waters, a tracked vehicle mechanic in Company C, 2d Battalion of the division's 17th Infantry, entered the Army in June 1964 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1964 graduate of Kelly High School in Benton.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --Base lifeguard officials have been introduced to Resusci - Anne, a life size model which is used to demonstrate and practice mouth - to - mouth resuscitation, and external cardiac massage.

Twelve lifeguards, in addition to medical personnel, attended the class as a part of their lifeguard training. First Lieutenant Shirley Swaine, 851st Medical Group, conducted the training.

Jack Smith, base recreation director, states that with summer in full swing, school being out for the next three months, and the swimming pool in full use, that the base pool will be well supervised by trained life guards.

The guards are undergoing extensive training in life saving techniques, and at times there are as many as five on duty at the pool.

With the added training now in progress, recreation officials here feel that this should be an accident-free holiday period.

A Marine private was squatting in his dugout near the boundary fence in Guantanamo one day recently. He picked up his field telephone. "Gray Fox calling Firebrand," he said. No answer. "Are you there, Firebrand? Gray Fox calling Firebrand." Silence. He put down the phone, stuck his head outside and yelled toward the next bunker, 50 yards away. "Hey, Joe, answer the phone!" Communication was restored. — Minneapolis Tribune

20 Nurses Graduated

Graduation exercises for the student practical nurses class, numbering 20 students, were held Friday night in the senior high school cafetorium. It was the second class to graduate this summer.

The 52-week training course ended June 22, when students took their state board examinations. Mrs. Clare Eisenbach, R.N., was the coordinator. The instructors were Miss Lynn Hudson, R.N., Sikeston and Mrs. Madge Meachom, R.N., Kennett.

An astonishing increase in the needs for silver in the United States is one of the oddities of our times. While industrial requirements have shown a steady increase here and in the rest of the world, the demand for United States silver drastically outpaces this as well as the population increase, economic growth and the expanded use of vending machines. It can only be due to increased hoarding and speculating.

Two or three thousand people attended the open air concert in Malone Park Wednesday evening, when the Cairo Good Will Tour offered a band concert and vaudeville entertainments.

By arrangements with members of the city council, the daily summer playground is held at Malone Park instead of the public school grounds. Miss Ruth Denman, supervisor, moved the crowd Wednesday morning for the first time. The change was made because of the lack of shade on the school grounds and becasue the school play equipment had been already moved in.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, who have been living in Indianapolis, Ind., have returned to locate here.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our beautiful 17-year-old daughter is in the bedroom sobbing her heart out. Her steady boy friend, Artie, told her this afternoon that he wants his ring and picture back. He didn't give any reason — just that he wants to date other girls and spend more time on athletics.

Do you know what it's like to hear a 17-year-old say she doesn't want to go on living? She hardly touched her dinner tonight and her eyes look like red coals. When she was telling us about her tragedy both my husband and I broke down and wept. Please say something to give us all courage. — EMPTY HEARTS

Dear Empty: If this is a tragedy I'm a belly dancer in a kootch joint. High school kids break up by the thousands every day. Pictures, rings, sweaters, pins and bracelets are shot back and forth like ping-pong balls.

Instead of weeping with your daughter you should have told her that the cry baby who folds like an accordion when things don't go her way is in for a rough time.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you said many people who want replies in the mail enclose envelopes which they address to Ann Landers instead of to themselves. You expressed surprise that so many people make this mistake.

Why? Don't you know the average American is a moron? I've worked in our city hall for 20 years and nothing surprises me anymore.

One woman who filled out a form for a driver's license recently wrote, after the word sex, "occasionally."

Then there are the old crows who knock 40 pounds off their weight and 10 years off their age when they fill out forms. Who do they think they are kidding? Last week a motherly type with snow white tresses put down "red" to describe her hair color. When I called the error to her attention she said, "I'm having it dyed tomorrow."

You, Ann Landers, should know that people can be awfully nutty. — OLD TIMER

Dear Old Timer: People can also be awfully warm-hearted, generous, heroic and unbelievably kind.

And since you work in city hall please pass the word to someone higher up that some of those goofy forms are worded in such confusing language that Einstein would need help.

Dear Ann Landers: I was delighted when you told that daughter-in-law it was up to her to write to her husband's mother. I didn't realize how much my cards meant to my mother-in-law until last Christmas. When we visited her she took out a huge bundle of cards which she had saved over the years.

Sandwiched in among my own were cards written by the children. There was one scrawled by our daughter when she was 10, written in the beauty shop while she waited to have her pigtails cut off. And there was a card from our son written from the dog and cat hospital. His little dog "Mr. Jones" had been struck by a car and he had just received word that "'Mr. Jones' is going to be O.K."

We had a good laugh over the card we had mailed while driving through Paris, Texas. We sent it as a gag, hoping Grandma would think we were in France.

Our "Too - Busy - To - Write Daddy" was touched by my consideration for his mother. I'm sure he appreciates me just a little more. — PATTY

Dear Patty: It's like I said — writing to a mother-in-law comes under the heading of being a good wife. You do it as much for your husband as for his mother. Cheers!

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What to Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., -- The official United States Air Force Dance Band, better known as the "World Famous Airmen of Note," will stage a two-day appearance here July 2nd and 3rd.

Under the direction of First Lieutenant Johnny O'Seekee, the "fabulous 17" have performed with some of the nation's leading stars. Such personalities as Art Baker, Joe E. Brown, Jack Carson and Veronica Lake, are only a few.

The group has performed at such outstanding engagements as the 1958 World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium, the Royal Festival Hall, London, England, and the Waikiki Shell, Honolulu, Hawaii.

From its inception the orchestra has been composed of former members of top professional dance bands. Presently included are representatives of the Tommy Dorsey, Les Elgart, Billy May, Ralph Flanagan, Les Brown and Harry James organizations.

Never to satisfied with single appearances, the world reknown jazzmen have appeared on television's "You Asked For It," "Stars On Parade," and the Lawrence Welk Show.

Perhaps the greatest highlight of the many performances by the Airmen of Note was the portrayal of the Glenn Miller Orchestra in the Universal-International motion picture "The Glenn Miller Story," at the special request of Mrs. Miller.

O'Seekee, the personable and highly talented leader of the USAF Dance Orchestra, boasts a rich musical heritage as well as a widely diversified musical background as a member of the "notes."

A native of Erie, Pa., he began his music study at the age of six. By the time he was in his teens, he led his own dance band at Erie High School.

As featured accordian soloist with the Band during its European Tours in 1950 and 1951, his virtuosity thrilled thousands of music lovers in London, Paris, Vienna, Berlin, and Amsterdam.

Highlighting these appearances were his performances before an audience of 130,000 in Berlin's Olympic Stadium and at a Command Performance for the Royal Family of England at Buckingham Palace.

While here, the "Notes" will perform at the Officer's Open Mess, the Noncommissioned Officer's Open Mess and the base Service Club, Kingsley Hall.

7TH INFANTRY DIV., KOREA (AHTNC) -- Army PFC Joe G. Waters, son of Campbell U. Waters, Route 1, Bertrand, Mo., was assigned to the 7th Infantry Division in Korea, June 19.

Waters, a tracked vehicle mechanic in Company C, 2d Battalion of the division's 17th Infantry, entered the Army in June 1964 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1964 graduate of Kelly High School in Benton.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --Base lifeguard officials have been introduced to Resusci - Anne, a life size model which is used to demonstrate and practice mouth - to - mouth resuscitation, and external cardiac massage.

Twelve lifeguards, in addition to medical personnel, attended the class as a part of their lifeguard training. First Lieutenant Shirley Swaine, 851st Medical Group, conducted the training.

Jack Smith, base recreation director, states that with summer in full swing, school being out for the next three months, and the swimming pool in full use, that the base pool will be well supervised by trained life guards.

The guards are undergoing extensive training in life saving techniques, and at times there are as many as five on duty at the pool.

With the added training now in progress, recreation officials here feel that this should be an accident-free holiday period.

A Marine private was squatting in his dugout near the boundary fence in Guantanamo one day recently. He picked up his field telephone. "Gray Fox calling Firebrand," he said. No answer. "Are you there, Firebrand? Gray Fox calling Firebrand." Silence. He put down the phone, stuck his head outside and yelled toward the next bunker, 50 yards away. "Hey, Joe, answer the phone!" Communication was restored. — Minneapolis Tribune

The 52-week training course ended June 22, when students took their state board examinations. Mrs. Clare Eisenbach, R.N., was the coordinator. The instructors were Miss Lynn Hudson, R.N., Sikeston and Mrs. Madge Meachom, R.N., Kennett.

An astonishing increase in the needs for silver in the United States is one of the oddities of our times. While industrial requirements have shown a steady increase here and in the rest of the world, the demand for United States silver drastically outpaces this as well as the population increase, economic growth and the expanded use of vending machines. It can only be due to increased hoarding and speculating.

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 1, the 182nd day of 1965. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898 in Cuba, American troops stormed San Juan Hill under a withering fire from the Spanish entrenched at the top. Among the attacking units was Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Rider cavalry. The Spaniards fled and "Teddy" and his men looked down on Santiago.

On this date

In 1863, advance units of Confederate infantry exchanged fire with Union cavalry at the Pennsylvania farm village of Gettysburg. It was the start of the Battle of Gettysburg.

In 1881, the American Red Cross was incorporated, with Clara Barton as president.

In 1924, daily air mail service was started between New York and San Francisco.

In 1941, Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Corps reached Al Alamein.

In 1943, the pay-as-you-go income tax law went into effect.

Ten years ago - - A transport and communications strike over the cost of living paralyzed six provinces of Chile.

Five years ago -- The Eisenhower administration asked Congress for power to cut the quota of sugar imported from Cuba.

One year ago - Premier Levi Eshkol of Israel received a warm greeting from President Johnson in Washington.

The Briefing Room was fairly crowded, and the young captain stood before the situation map expounding his recommendations and theories on how the unit should be employed in the forthcoming tactical exercise. He was quite adamant about his ideas and persisted in his views even though the more experienced field grade officers disagreed with him.

It began to sound like a dog fight when finally the commanding general stepped in. "Captain," he said, "Why don't you relax and take a more conservative approach in your briefing . . .you must learn to yield somewhat in dealing with senior and more experienced officers."

The captain was visibly embarrassed by being called down by the CG, but remained steadfast in his demanding attitude by replying: "Sir, I'm sure you didn't make general by being conservative and yielding, now did you?"

The general nodded. "You're right, captain, I didn't make general that way. But that's the way I made MAJOR!"

OUR ANCESTORS — by Quincy

"When you said, 'Let's do the Lindy hop,' I thought you wanted to dance!"

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 1, the 182nd day of 1965. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898 in Cuba, American troops stormed San Juan Hill under a withering fire from the Spanish entrenched at the top. Among the attacking units was Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Rider cavalry. The Spaniards fled and "Teddy" and his men looked down on Santiago.

On this date

In 1863, advance units of Confederate infantry exchanged fire with Union cavalry at the Pennsylvania farm village of Gettysburg. It was the start of the Battle of Gettysburg.

In 1881, the American Red Cross was incorporated, with Clara Barton as president.

In 1924, daily air mail service was started between New York and San Francisco.

In 1941, Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Corps reached Al Alamein.

In 1943, the pay-as-you-go income tax law went into effect.

Ten years ago - - A transport and communications strike over the cost of living paralyzed six provinces of Chile.

Five years ago -- The Eisenhower administration asked Congress for power to cut the quota of sugar imported from Cuba.

One year ago - Premier Levi Eshkol of Israel received a warm greeting from President Johnson in Washington.

The Briefing Room was fairly crowded, and the young captain stood before the situation map expounding his recommendations and theories on how the unit should be employed in the forthcoming tactical exercise. He was quite adamant about his ideas and persisted in his views even though the more experienced field grade officers disagreed with him.

It began to sound like a dog fight when finally the commanding general stepped in. "Captain," he said, "Why don't you relax and take a more conservative approach in your briefing . . .you must learn to yield somewhat in dealing with senior and more experienced officers."

The captain was visibly embarrassed by being called down by the CG, but remained steadfast in his demanding attitude by replying: "Sir, I'm sure you didn't make general by being conservative and yielding, now did you?"

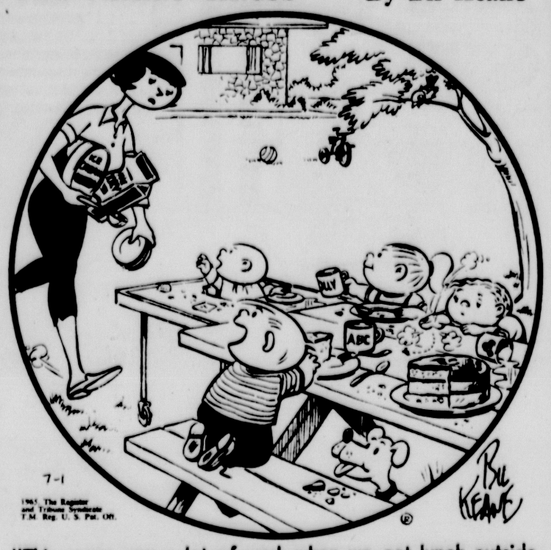

The general nodded. "You're right, captain, I didn't make general that way. But that's the way I made MAJOR!"
